Atterbury Gets Lindbergh. The President's Veto. Turtle And Man. Sing, And Be Well.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1928.

MUCH airplane news. Nobile, Italian, started at 4:40 yesterday morning from Spitsbergen to cross the North Pole, 750 miles away. He hoped to land at the pole and plant a big wooden cross given to him by the Pope, but was forced by storms to turn back.

Another Italian, Capt. Sabelli, good fighter in the war, expects to start from New York to Rome in a few days in a Bellanca plane.

And the French start a flight westward from Brest to the Statue of Liberty, by way of the Azores, within two weeks.

THE important air news is Lindbergh's appointment as chief advisor of the Air-Rail Company to carry passengers across the continent in Pullmans at night, airplanes by day, in 48 hours. That Lindbergh deal is a triumph for Gen. Atterbury, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who visited Henry Ford at Dearborn last Friday.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE vetoes the McNary-Haugen bill, pronouncing it UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

The President says it would aid foreign competitors of our farmers instead of solving our own farm problem, stimulate profiteering and call for a new gigantic bureaucracy.

That probably ends the bill for this session, leaving one worry for the next President.

EVERY year for 22 years Howard Porter's tame mud turtle has crawled from its swampy home to a mountain two miles away, returning when summer ends.

EVOLUTIONISTS tell you that monkeys, migrating from damp low lands, uphill toward the mountains, with front legs higher than hind legs, gradually learned to stand up straight. And in consequence men now walk upright and look at the stars, instead of the ground.

You are not compelled to believe that.

MME. REGGIO, opera singer, climbed the 1,286 steps of New York's Woolworth building in 13 minutes and 4 seconds, beating previous records.

Thirty-eight years old, weight 104 pounds, the lady earned $3,000 by the climb, and did a useful thing by impressing the health value of singing. Nothing develops the lungs as singing does. Sing at your work and avoid consumption. Teach your children to sing. Imitate the British, who always sing, whether they CAN sing or not.

ENGLAND'S King and Queen have met an American girl, of whom her country may be proud. Miss Ruth Draper, presented at court last night, inherited a compound intelligence, and her work proves it.

A YOUNG woman of such rare intelligence and talent should be married, and mother of many children. That, of course, is her business, but careers for women, unfortunately, often keep fine children out of the world.

THAT war gas explosion in Hamburg becomes more interesting to Americans. Chicago's stockyards will be interested to know one single gas tank exploding made it necessary to burn all foodstuffs WITHIN FIVE MILES OF THE EXPLOSION.

What would a dozen such tanks do if dropped from the air, exploding in city streets?

WHEN a plane goes wrong, parachutes carry passengers safely to earth. This column suggested, two or three years ago, that one big parachute might save a falling plane with all its passengers, making individual parachute jumping unnecessary.

YESTERDAY, at Tracy, Cal., the thing was done. Pilot McKeon stopped his engine 2,200 feet up, released a small parachute, which then released a big parachute, of "bi-plane" type, with a silk canopy 72 feet wide.

This super-parachute let the plane float slowly to earth with little damage to the ship, none to the pilot.

ONE blast, one underground explosion, one cave-in, kill miners in West Virginia, Kentucky and Nevada. And hope has been abandoned for more than 100 miners in the Mather mine in Pennsylvania.

Those that, from comfortable offices, oppose increase of miners' wages above the line of bare necessity would not care to do the miners' work.

TEN seniors of Princeton University announce their intention to take up aviation as a life work. Ocean flights have stimulated that interest.

Twenty-six choose banking, 18 choose medicine, five journalism, four the church, two real farming and one railroading.

GERMANY'S "rocket car" reaches a speed of 130 miles an hour in 10 seconds from the start. Driven by explosives from the rear, the new engine is expected "to revolutionize air travel."

DEEP SEA DIVER

William Markland, diver, has taken up the search for Mrs. Helen Cattingham, 39, who disappeared between the towboat Helen C, foot of Ferry street in the Monongahela River, and a nearby store. Her husband, John Cattingham, calling up police to search, fears she may have fallen into the river. Markland is diving at the spot and River Patrolman Charles Snyder is dragging.

"FLU" DOWNS TRAYNOR, PIRATE CAPTAIN

Harold Pie Traynor, captain of the Pirates, was threatened with the "flu" when the Pirates reached town today.

Traynor seemed to be running a slight fever at the conclusion of yesterday's game in Cincinnati. He was suffering with a severe cold which settled in his head and throat.

There was some talk that Pie would be unable to go to his post this afternoon. In that event Manager Bush would shift Mulligan to third and send Bartell to second.

Sparky Adams is still out, but it is believed that the second baseman will return to the game in a few days.

The "flu" epidemic has been more severe on other teams. Several members of the Cincinnati club were out with the scourge while the Pirates were in that city.

The Cubs, too, have been hit. Riggs Stephenson, Chicago's regular left fielder, developed a fever of 103 last night, and was ordered to remain in bed this morning. Cliff Heathcote also has a slight fever, but he will be in uniform and either he or Ki Cuyler probably will sub for Stephenson in left field. Cuyler should have no difficulty in catching high lofts today, as he made a detailed study of the Forbes Field air currents last evening. A government aviator stationed at Rodgers Field took Ki up over the Oakland orchard.

At one time this season about 15 members of the Boston Braves suffered with the malady.

Pitcher Carmen Hill, who has been ailing much of the season, left for Linesville, Pa., when the club arrived today, to get more treatment from Guy Greene, specialist of that town. Hill may not be able to take his regular turn when it comes around again. He was suffering after yesterday's game.

John Miljus has been out for a week with a sore arm and he may be out for another week.

The Pirates open a three-game series with the Chicago Cubs here this afternoon. Burleigh Grimes will pitch for the Buccaneers. Nehf or Root will be on the mound for the visitors.

ONE DEAD, FOUR HURT WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 24.—In a headon crash of two autos on the Homewood road last night, one man was killed and four other persons were injured. Elisha Grant, 30, of 2211 Eighth avenue, Beaver Falls, who was killed, with his brother, Theodore, 34, were en route to Beaver Falls when their machine crashed into one driven by Mrs. Edward Moneagle, 4558 Cabarade drive, Youngstown, in which her daughter, Lillian 16, and Jack Banite, of 121 Elldoow avenue, Youngstown, were riding. Both cars turned over.

UNNERVED BY GRAFT PROBE

To prevent possible flight from Pittsburgh of persons expected to be indicted by the Federal grand jury conducting the rum conspiracy probe, special agents of the prohibition department are keeping them under surveillance, according to reports this morning from unofficial sources.

It is said that some of the suspected ringleaders in Pittsburgh's illicit liquar traffic are beginning to lose their "nerve," and a few are planning a hasty exit from Pittsburgh, upon the slightest indication that they will be indicted.

VACATION NEAR

The Federal grand jury will take a five-day rest without pay beginning Friday afternoon. Until next Thursday morning grand jurors will be permitted to attend to their own affairs, while the government checks up on testimony given in the inquisition.

With two days work scheduled next week and a complete week following, it is expected the jury will be in position to make a return. As soon as the jury is reconvened next week it will hear 300 witnesses summoned from East Liberty, Brushton, Bloomfield, Homewood and Squirrel Hill.

Today witnesses from Lawrenceville and the Strip were being heard, and witnesses from the West End are scheduled for tomorrow.

In authorizing the adjournment, the court stipulated the jurors would not be paid, but authorized mileage.

WRECKS AUTOMOBILE TO AVOID COLLISION

Swerving his automobile to avoid a truck at Chislett and Hays streets today, J. E. Ritchie, 31, of 1942 Antietam street, crashed into a pole, almost breaking it off. He was removed to Pittsburgh Hospital, suffering from severe head cuts and was detained for observation. His companion, H. P. Parks, 34, of 1928 Antietam street, suffered face lacerations that required eight stitches to close. The car was wrecked.

TOWN HALL, AIRPORT IN ISSUE

The People's special county bond issue election to be held June 26 will be for $43,680,000. This was the final figure decided on by County Commissioners today.

The projects will be grouped into seven questions on the ballot. The building of new roads and the improving of old ones will head the question under roads. Boulevards, parks, bridges, new county office buildin, town hall and airport will follow in the order named.

Facing requests for improvements totaling $80,000,000, the Commissioners, after three weeks' hearings and executive sessions, succeeded in paring down the figures to the $43,000,000 mark.

Apportionment of the items will be as follows:

Roads, $6,550,000; boulevards, $10,930,000; parks, $1,500,000; bridges, $14,540,000; office building, $2,550,000; town hall, $6,000,000, and airport, $1,500,000. Although the items will be grouped into seven questions, each project will be mentioned specifically.

McGOVERN OBJECTS

Commissioner Charles C. McGovern opposed the grouping of the questions. He submitted a list of improvements totaling $35,502,500 which he said he favored as a bond issue.

In voicing his opposition to the grouping plan, Commissioner McGovern said that he was being disfranchised. "I represent a certain number of people and if the items are grouped, the items which I am not for will be approved," he said.

Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock refused to entertain their colleague's plan.

PROJECTS REJECTED

It was definitely decided by Commissioners yesterday that Ferry street bridge and tunnel, Liberty avenue bridge and tunnel, West End-Crafton borough tunnel and North Side-Corliss street bridge would not be included in the bond issue. The projects would cost over $30,000,000.

The rebuilding of Browns bridge, spanning Monongahela River and connecting Homestead with Pittsburgh, $2,584,000 and the elimination of 14 grade crossings over Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads, Homestead, will not be among the special bond election items.

Other items considered but ruled out were: Improvement of Jerome street, building of a sanitary or storm sewer and improvenent of Snake Hollow road, all in McKeesport. These improvements would cost over $1,500,000.

DOG'S BARK LURE TO DEATH

Joseph Chespa, 45, Scott township, twice raided for moonshining, heard his dog (above) barking near his home and investigated. It was the call of death. One of five bullets which a 38-caliber revolver spat found its mark on Chespa's cheek and he fell dead. Police say he had given up bootlegging and incurred the enmity of the ring, which wreaked swift vengeance. Chespa had just demolished a tunnel leading from his house to a chicken coop where, police say, a still had turned out "mooney." Above the line is Chespa's path from his home to the death spot.

PGH. BUYS MORE

Pittsburgh's buying power is increasing.

Retail mercantile business in Allegheny county for 1927 showed an increase of eight per cent over 1926, according to reports of the Bureau of Statistics of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs. In the previous year the increase was only one per cent. The figures also show that the per capita buying in this county was greater than the average for the state or for Philadelphia. The report of the state bureau was announced today by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

The volume of retail mercantile business in Allegheny county for 1927 was $558,970,000 and the per capita retail purchases were $436.49. The volume of wholesale mercantile business in the county was $393,664,000.

Eighty-six hours of marathon dancing had eliminated 146 couples who last Sunday midnight started on the long grind in Stahl's Garden, Homestead. The free-for-all began with a field of 185 teams.

At the opening of the eighty-seventh hour at 2 p. m. today, only 39 pairs were able to navigate to the strains of music slowed to meet the physical requirements of jaded contestants.

The fourth day saw 20 couples made out of the picture in the first 14 hours of dancing and before the audience gathers for the evening pace indications were that the field would be further shortened.

As the list of contestants is reduced, interest in the contest grows, as was shown last night when the largest crowd was on hand. Police stretchtd ropes outside the hall to aid in directing traffic into the hall, and an even greater crush is expected tonight.

Those who fell by the wayside during the day, and their elapsed time, were:

Anna Scanlon and Frank Marmile, 72:40.
Mary Bodish and Mike Boytin, 73.
Marie Marzale and Joseph Martin, 73:25.
Emma Seedenburg and Samuel Hertsberg, 73:30.

HORNSBY IS MANAGER

International News Service.

BOSTON, May 24.—Rogers Hornsby was at the helm of the Boston Braves today.

The naming of the Rajah to succeed Jack Slattery, who suddenly resigned, had the whole baseball world "by the ears."

At the same time it was definite that "Slats" will continue with the tribe as chief of scouts.

Trades and transfers were expected to follow in the wake of the appointment of Hornsby as player-manager.

Under the guiding hand of one of baseball's most dynamic and aggressive personalities, the local tribe was understood to be ready for a general shaking up.

Any trades or transfers, however, were expected to be in the general line of strengthening the team.

Arthur Devlin, former third base star, has been Slattery's assistant. Hornsby, it was assumed, would name his own assistant. That would be "transfer No. 1."

SALARIES STAND

Slattery's salary or contract will not be disturbed, neither will Hornsby's $40,000 a year salary be increased.

Judge Emil E. Fuchs, in making the announcement, said the appointment of the new manager was for the best interests in making "a fighting and winning team."

Emphasis was made in all announcements today that Hornsby took over the managerial job with reluctance. The Rajah himself declared there had been too much talk in the past about his "undermining" various baseball men and that he would much prefer to be traded or sold to another National League club than to be placed in the manager's saddle.

He suggested that the Chicago Cubs would be willing to pay a good price for him. However, he was per-

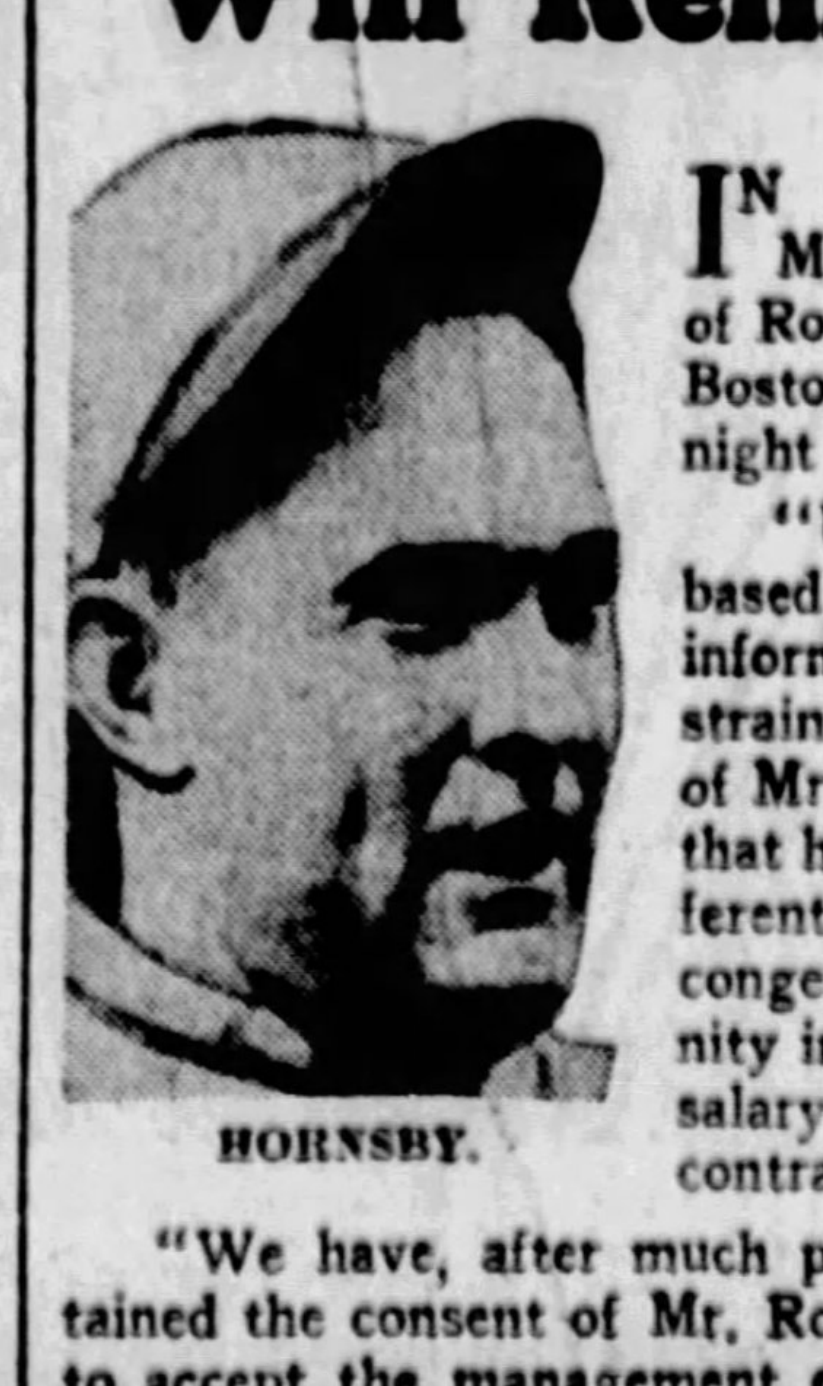
Brave Owner Hopes Slattery Will Remain Under Hornsby



HORNSBY.

BOSTON May 24.

IN ANNOUNCING the resignation of Manager Jack Slattery and the elevation of Rogers Hornsby to the leadership of the Boston Braves, President Emil Fuchs last night made this statement:

"Under the existing circumstances, based on our experience, best judgment and information as to conditions, we are constrained to accept the proffered resignation of Mr. Slattery as manager. It is our hope that he will remain with the Braves in a different department, one that may be more congenial and will give him further opportunity in the line of his vocation, at the same salary and terms as specified in his present contract.

"We have, after much persuasion, obtained the consent of Mr. Rogers Hornsby to accept the management of the Braves. We shall continue in our efforts to build up a fighting and winning team for Boston."

J. A. Bell's Wife Dies

Mrs. Matilda Foster Bell, wife of John A. Bell, former Carnegie banker, died at 9 o'clock this morning of pneumonia at her home, 1323 Denniston avenue.

Mrs. Bell for many years lived in Washington avenue, Carnegie, where the banker resided until the collapse of the Carnegie Trust Company, of which he was president.

Besides her husband, who is now a patient in the Allegheny General Hospital, where he has been since the disposition of his case, Mrs. Bell leaves two daughters, Mrs. H. L. Jones, of 1323 Denniston avenue, and Mrs. Craig Ferguson, San Francisco, and a son, John A., Jr.

Last night, Mr. Bell was taken from the hospital to the bedside of his dying wife, where he remained for an hour.

Mrs. Bell became ill Sunday night and pneumonia developed.

Born in Pittsburgh, Mrs. Bell was the eldest of 10 children of David and Elizabeth Foster. When she was 5, her family moved to a farm in Carnegie. On September 4, 1877, she was married. Mrs. Bell also leaves two sisters, Mrs. John S. Robb, Jr., of Carnegie; Mrs. W. F. Bailey, of California, and one brother, Case A. Foster, of Carnegie.

Mrs. Bell was a charter member of the First United Presbyterian Church of Carnegie, a member of the Monday Club of Carnegie and a graduate of the Steubenville Seminary.

'VULTURE MAN' AVOIDS CHAIR

Lester Welch, "vulture murderer," has been saved from the electric chair by the State Board of Pardons, which yesterday recommended that his sentence of death be commuted to life imprisonment. Welch was convicted of first degree murder for the killing of Mrs. Anna Exline, 45, of Washburn street, North Side.

HUNTING WILD TURKEYS COSTS PAIR $60 APIECE

LEWISTON, Pa., May 24.—James Smith and George Donaldson, who live in the mountains near here were fined $60 each yesterday for hunting without licenses and killing illegal game. The game protectors who made the arrests, charged that they had been killing wild turkey.

Gang War Claims Another

Another gang murder has been added to the long list in Allegheny county.

A fullisade of shots killed Joseph Chespa, 45, when he stepped from his home on the Sanford farm, Washington road and Chestnut street, Scott township, last midnight to quiet a pack of dogs.

As Chespa called the dogs, his cousin, Mrs. Mary Marchesi, with whom he lived, peered out the window and saw the flash of a revolver which was fired four or five times.

With her son, Rino, Mrs. Marchesi obtained a lantern and going about 50 feet from the house found the body of Chespa on a roadway. One shot had penetrated the cheek and entered the brain.

County Detective Michael Stabile was detailed to make an investigation.

He's taking three days' rations, so you must suspect how long he expects to stay up—and be fed:

Nobile Flies Over Pole; Drops Cross and Flags

LANDING BARRED BY WEATHER

International News Service.

KING'S BAY, Spitzbergen, May 24.—The Italian exploration balloon Italia, commanded by Gen. Umberto Nobile, flew over the North Pole at 1:20 o'clock this morning.

Gen. Nobile reported this achievement by radio from the dirigible.

The national flag of Italy and the municipal flag of Milan were dropped upon the polar ice cap, as well as the cross which was given to the Italian explorer by Pope Pius XI.

On account of weather conditions no attempt was made to land at the pole.

Gen. Nobile, as the balloon was soaring over the top of the world, addressed messages to his wife and to Premier Mussolini, of Italy.

It had been planned to station the balloon for two hours over the North Pole to enable two scientists of the expedition to make a landing upon the ice floe for scientific research. It was hoped also that the papal cross could be planted in the ice with appropriate religious services. Both of these plans failed owing to the unfavorable atmospheric conditions.

POSTAL RAISE PASSED OVER COOLIDGE VETO

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP.)—The Tyson-Fitzgerald Emergency Officers Retirement Bill was passed over the President's veto today by the Senate. The House must yet act to make it a law.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Coolidge suffered a defeat today when the Senate passed the postal pay increase bill over his veto by a vote of 70 to 9.

The bill became a law by the Senate's action, as the House yesterday enacted it over the veto by a vote of 319 to 42. The bill will increase the pay of night workers in the postal service.

The Senators voting to sustain the President were Bingham, Curtis, Gillett, Greene, Metcalf, Phipps, Smoot, Steiwer and Warren, all Republicans. The vote was the largest ever cast in the Senate to override a Presidential veto, according to Senate attaches.

A few minutes later the Senate passed also the bill granting extra allowances to fourth-class postmasters, over the President's veto by a vote of 63 to 17. This bill was enacted by the House, 319 to 45, so the Senate's action made it a law.

The bill would cost the government $2,865,000 in furnishing heat, light and rentals to the fourth-class postmasters. In addition to the senators voting to sustain the President on the first veto, Borah, Fess, Reed of Pennsylvania, Sackett and Waterman, Republicans, and Fletcher, King and Overman, Democrats, joined in supporting the President on the second vote.

CALLS SPUR GIRL HUNT

By T. H. B. PATTERSON,
Staff Correspondent.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 24.—Mysterious telephone calls to the home of Mrs. Max Rosenbaum, mother of the missing Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10, and to the home of a neighbor, purporting to tell where the girl might be found, today spurred the police and detectives and hundreds of citizens ahead in their search for the missing girl. Both calls were traced to a downtown office building pay station.

The first call, received by Mrs. Rosenbaum, stated that the girl would be found at the home of Abraham Nadler, 19 Willis avenue, a friend of the Rosenbaum family. Nadler said he had no knowledge of the call or why his name should be involved. The phone hoaxer refused to give his name.

A short time later a woman neighbor, whose name is withheld, was called on the telephone by a man who asked her what she had done with Beatrice. The woman became excited and notified police. She knew of no reason why she should be called. Both calls are believed to have been made by the same man.

City detectives and police and Eugene Callen, state prohibition inspectator, held a conference with Mrs. Rosenbaum last night and they are believed to have reconstructed their program in the light of new clues said to have been discovered. They also talked to Mrs. George Kelley, and Mrs. W. C. Van Gorder, neighbors who said they saw the missing girl get into an automobile with a man the day she disappeared.

Searchers yesterday continued their work of dragging and draining several lakes in Mill Creek Park and searching in crevices near "Bottomless Pool," where articles believed to belong to the girl were found. Police officials denied that they were slackening their efforts in the search, as was rumored yesterday. Wallace R. Metcalfe of the vice squad and Chief James McNichols stated that they were working harder than ever to solve the mystery surrounding the disappearance. The girl has been gone 11 days.

HORNSBY IS NEW BRAVE PILOT

suaded to take the managership.

Stories of dissension between Slattery and Hornsby since the latter was traded to the Braves by the New York Giants have been rife, but have been denied. The rumors really started after the Tribe lost to the Brooklyn Dodgers at the opening of the season. When the Braves took the series from the Yankees at the St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp all looked rosy, but the tide shifted when the season really got under way and the Braves were licked by the Dodgers. Slattery was summoned from Toledo and those "in the know" thought a crisis had been reached. However, "Slats" continued as manager.

Influenza split the Braves' pitching staff in half and Slattery had a lot of other bad luck. Slattery has been with the team only a year and during that time investment in players and baseball park improvements have been heavy.

Strict discipline was expected to mark Hornsby's rise to the leadership of the Braves. He is expected to be a "fighting boss."

Hornsby leads the team to New York today for the game with Brooklyn tomorrow.

These are views showing Haslage street on Spring Hill—not a war zone! Last September the street was laid and in November a "land slide" sent the residents into a panic and their homes into ruins. They are without gas, water or sanitary measures.

FILLED

It is claimed that a second filling for the street and the water that pours from the other side of the street, which is up hill, caused the slide. Some have mortgaged their property to pay for pipes and plumbing so that they may "live like human beings again."

Some of the women among the residents didn't fail to tell the story of their precariously-placed homes.

Residents of the street, some of whom are moving away, but the majority of whom are "sticking" with their falling homes, have petitioned Council for aid. Not only are sanitary conditions deplorable, but they fear for the lives of their families.

DIRIGIBLE COMING HERE

J. F. Cooper, co-pilot and aide on the City of Cleveland, one of the entries in the balloon race from Bettis Field, Memorial Day, arrived in Pittsburgh today.

Mr. Cooper, in the engineering department of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company at Akron, came here from Lakehurst, N. J., where on Wednesday Commander C. A. Rosendahl, of the U. S. S. Los Angeles, informed him that, weather permitting, the Los Angeles will be taken out of her hangar at Lakehurst next Tuesday morning, in preparation for her flight to Pittsburgh.

"I am going to fly the Los Angeles to the balloon races if it is at all possible," Commander Rosendahl told Mr. Cooper, "and if the weather should be such that I cannot bring the ship, I am coming anyway."

Mr. Cooper came here to meet his co-pilot, Carl K. Wollam, and Herbert W. Maxson, of the Godyear Tire and Rubber Company. The three men came to Pittsburgh primarily to put up a mooring mast to land the Pilgrim, the baby airship which the Goodyear will fly here Sunday for the races.

The four Goodyear balloons entered in the race, one the Goodyear entry, another the American Business Club of Akron, the City of Cleveland and the Sun-Tele Pittsburgher, were expected to arrive here by truck some time today. While here, Mr. Cooper and Mr. Wollam will superintend the unpacking of these balloons, in cooperation with Lieut. Frank M. McKee, operations officer of the races.

MACHINE MADE TO FIND HIDDEN METAL AND OIL

The London Technical Museum workers are reported to have made remarkable progress toward the perfection of a machine that will locate oil and metals under the soil. The mechanical theory of the machine is to make it so sensitive to the pull of gravity that it will be affected by the structure of the earth beneath it.

NORTH SIDER CONVICTED ON MANN ACT CHARGE

Fred Newberger, Jr., of the North Side, was convicted yesterday in Federal court on a charge of violating the Mann Act. It was testified that in September, 1926, he unlawfully transported Catherine Evans, 18, from Pittsburgh, to Detroit, Mich. He will be sentenced later.

BURNED BY DOPE RING, CONVICTS 3

Mrs. Georgette Miller, the government's star witness in yesterday's drug conspiracy trial, was—it developed today—the women who was attacked by an unidentified acid thrower in Arch street the night of February 6.

Her testimony yesterday had much to do with the conviction of William Schreiner, alias William Campbell; his wife, Mrs. Ruth Schreiner, and Thomas Ware. They were found guilty of conspiring to violate the Harrison narcotic law.

For many months before the attack, Mrs. Miller had been aiding government narcotic operatives in obtaining evidence against drug peddlers in Pittsburgh. Her work became known to the underworld—and the acid throwing was revenge for reporting activities of "dope" peddlers. The attack, almost fatal, closely followed an anonymous warning for her to leave the city immediately.

Mrs. Miller testified at the trial, before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, of having purchased morphine from Schreiner and Ware, the purchase from the latter being consummated on the north end of the Seventh Street bridge. Those purchases from Schreiner, she said, were made in a Fifth avenue drug store and in Federal street.

Mrs. Miller said she became acquainted with Ware after she had made inquiries at a house in Fernando street as to where she could buy some morphine. She testified she was directed to go to the north end of the Seventh Street Bridge and wait for a man who would accost her by saying "Red Russia." In that manner, she said, she first met Ware.

Two other defendants in the conspiracy trial were Vincent McKee and Alice Mayer, who were acquitted. The government was represented in the prosecution by Assistant United States Attorney Zeno Fritz.

Following the attack on Mrs. Miller, the government narcotic operatives under William T. Duffy, chief narcotic agent, conducted a search for her assailant, but were unable to learn his identity, as the only description the victim could give was that he was "large and ferocious looking."

Pittsburgh As Others See Us

"Pittsburgh appreciates and understands art, and has many gifted artists of its own."
—JULIA CLAUSSEN.

JULIA CLAUSSEN

JULIA CLAUSSEN, operatic singer, born in Stockholm, Sweden, June 11, 1879. Studied music in Germany and Austria and joined the Royal Opera in Sweden in 1903; prima donna Chicago Grand Opera Company, 1912-17; later joined the Covent Garden Company, London, and court singer to King Gustav V of Sweden. Became American citizen in 1920 and resides in New York City.

When I hear the name of Pittsburgh I think not only of its mighty furnaces, but also of its many beautiful homes and congenial people.

Pittsburgh appreciates and understands art and has many gifted artists of its own; among your singers I think especially of your Christine Miller (Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson), a splendid artist and a lovely woman.

HONOR STUDENT

ELLEN CARPI

Ellen Carpi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felice Carpi, 990 Meldon avenue, Donora, is this year's honor student of Donora High School. She will be graduated with the class of 108 seniors at the commencement exercises Thursday.

PUPILS RUSH TO JOIN SAFETY CLUB

"THE girls and boys of room 27, Class 6-A, Haselwood School, wish to become members of the 'Just Kids Safety Club' and have asked me to indorse the inclosed list of names, which I am most pleased to do. I trust they will keep the pledge and thus do their part to reduce accidents on the streets.

"Sincerely Yours,
"(MRS.) ANNA G. KELLEY,
"Teacher."

Thirty-two children joined the club with Mrs. Kelley standing sponsor, as indicated in the foregoing letter.

Welcomed by parents, approved by school teachers, and commended by civic leaders, the "Just Kids' Safety Club," recently established by The Sun-Telegraph, and based on Ad Carter's comic pictures "Just Kids," which appear daily in this paper, now has about 5,000 members. It is growing by leaps and bounds. Membership buttons scarcely can be mailed out fast enough to keep pace with the applications. From every town in Western Pennsylvania, from many in Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland, and from some in more distant states requests for enrollment have come, and continue to come.

One woman writes that all the children of the neighborhood wish to join and have commissioned her as their "big chief" to apply for membership for them.

The club is hailed as one of the most valuable agencies ever devised to interest children in safety. On joining, they are required to promise to "remember to look up and down before crossing the street." It is considered especially opportune that the club has been organized just at this time when the spring and summer flood of automobile traffic has set in. It cannot fail, it is said, to prove the means of saving children's lives during the season of greatest danger, when, on account of the summer vacation, they are out in the open most of the time.

By the time the schools close it is hoped every youngster in the widespread territory, in which The Sun-Telegraph circulates, will have joined. All that is necessary is to fill the application blank on the coupon provided for the purpose in the paper and obtain the indorsement of a parent or other adult.

New Job Gives Lindy a Chance, Rogers Feels

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 24.—Several weeks ago I told you that "a certain well-known aviator would be connected with this rail-air-line. Well, yesterday the papers were just full of "Lindy's" acceptance. The whole country seems tickled to death that that boy is going to settle down and go to work and quit gadding about and finally see if he can't amount to something.

Will Rogers.

In his new job all he has to do is to pick out the planes, the pilots, the route, the fields. It's about the same type of job that took Jay Gould and Jim Hill a lifetime to work out.

Wonder who give Lindy a letter of recommendation for this job?

Yours for opportunities for young men.

WILL ROGERS.

FLASH! -:- Engineers Make Lightnin' to Order -:- CRACKLE!

LABORATORIES

It isn't so very long since Benjamin Franklin and a key 'imprisoned' the first lightning. Now, Westinghouse Electric Company engineers, instead of imprisoning it, are making it in their laboratories.

CONTROL

They held under perfect control this 'artificial' lightning, of which 2,500,000 volts are shown you above. They can make it jump all over the place and do all sorts of stunts. A group of men stood within 20 feet of these flashes.

DARK

The demonstration was held in a large, dark room to study the effect of lightning on insulation equipment for high voltage transmission wires. In this photo, the engineers (they quit studying for a moment) twisted their lightning thusly.

MINE RIOTERS PAROLED

STRIKERS PLEAD; SO DO OFFICERS

Disturbances among striking and non-union miners and coal and iron policemen were aired in Criminal Court yesterday in a number of action, and nearly 30 defendants were placed on parole for six months by Visiting Judge James A. Chambers of New Castle.

In all cases pleas of no defense to charges of inciting to riot, aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery, pointing firearms, or carrying concealed weapons were entered by defendants.

A disturbance at Coverdale the night before Thanksgiving in which John Williams, a striker, as prosecutor, alleged he had been attacked by non-union miners, brought paroles to these defendants on a charge of inciting to riot: Carl Montgomery, Willard Carlson, Albert Wilson, Arthur Brown, Dave McCracken, Jr., Ray Allen, Robert Morgan, George Herby, Mike Pushcar, Robert Nicewarner and Joseph Hayman. William Tipton and Central Pope were paroled on charges by Felix Becoski and Ben W. Smith.

Various disturbances at Castle Shannon, Coverdale and Mollcanuer from July to January last resulted in paroles to these coal and iron policemen, on their pleas: Frank A. Connor, W. R. Beck, P. J. Casey, James Crowthers, Robert Freeman, B. E. Hart, J. W. Hutchinson, E. J. Kovalick, Harry Belnap and E. P. Parker.

Kovalick, Hart, Freeman and Newville Miller, William R. B. Snyder, James F. Summerville, W. H. Gibson and Robert Christy, coal and iron policemen, were paroled on a charge of inciting to riot in a strike disturbance near the Castle Shannon barracks.

CHAINED DOG MANGLES RESERVE TOWNSHIP LAD

Chewed by a dog he tried to pet in a neighbor's yard yesterday, Donald Bortness, 3, whose parents live at 251 Whitman street, Reserve township, was confined to his home today. He suffered severe lacerations of both arms, both shoulders, legs and back. The dog, said to be owned by Frank Fisher, of Wilson road, Reserve township, was chained.

MARGARET CONNOLLY

Margaret Connolly, New York maid, substituted her 50-cent string of imitation beads for the $32,000 string of pearls of her employer, Mrs. John B. Stanchfield, New York, because "I thought maybe she would like mine better." At least, that's what the well-known police said when they arrested Margaret.

Bootleg Suspects Indicted Under Tariff Law

The Federal grand jury yesterday returned two indictments against Milo D. Reyner, Clifford E. Brooks, Harold Zimmerman, Raymond Gehrline, H. E. Finney, William Muller, Leon Fedderof and John Bodie, charging them with conspiring to violate the tariff and the national prohibition acts. In the former act they are alleged to have unlawfully imported 136 cases of Canadian ale and a large quantity of whisky into the United States. Under the prohibition law they are accused of unlawful possession and transportation.

All the defendants reside in or near Erie. The liquor involved was seized by prohibition agents in the Old Dutch road, near Erie, May 3. Bodie was shot by a prohibition agent, when he is said to have tried to run down the government officer with a truck.

COUNTY G. O. P. TO BACK VOTE MACHINES

The Republican County Committee, scheduled to meet Saturday in North Side Carnegie Hall, probably will adopt a resolution indorsing the proposed constitutional amendment that will permit the use of voting machines in Pennsylvania.

This resolution will be prepared by a committee appointed by Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, county chairman. The decision to have it introduced, made at a conference of leaders yesterday in the office of former State Chairman W. L. Mellon, is due, according to reports today, to the efforts of State Senator Frank J. Harris.

Doubt exists whether a second resolution indorsing the metropolitan district plan is to be introduced. Members of the committee from the boroughs and townships are reported to have threatened a campaign to defeat such a move, and the inclination of Mellon and other leaders is to keep the entire gathering as harmonious as possible. This desire caused Mellon and others to persuade Armstrong, who did not want another term, to come out as a candidate for re-election. Senator James J. Coyne is slated for another term as city chairman. Both probably will be unopposed.

BELL FARM SUIT RETRIAL ASKED

James N. Jarvis, through his counsels, Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay, has filed a motion for a new trial in his suit against John A. Bell Jr., to obtain the proceeds of the sale of the Bell farm at Coraopolis for the benefit of the creditors of John A. Bell, the younger Bell's father.

A jury last week decided the case in favor of creditor banks the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A. and the Colonial Trust Co., the banks claiming the money because the younger Bell had endorsed his father's notes. Young Bell finally turned the farm over to Jarvis, trustee in bankruptcy for his father, the $200,000 proceeds from the sale being placed in a fund subject to settlement by the court.

MAYVIEW GUARD EXONERATED

PATIENT'S DEATH NOT DUE TO BLOW

Charles Baker, a guard in the City Hospital at Mayview, was exonerated in the death of Harry McCarthy, 43, of Providence, R. I., in a report submitted by County Detective Robert McMillen today to Chief George W. Murren.

McMillen reported that Baker intervened when McCarthy attacked another patient May 20. McCarthy struck Baker with a chair and Baker retaliated with a blow that broke McCarthy's jaw.

McCarthy's death, an autopsy disclosed, was caused by chronic alcoholism, and the injury he received was not a factor. He had been committed to jail for 30 days for disorderly conduct and removed to Mayview because of better facilities.

DENY WORKING SPEED TRAPS

The charge that Glen Osborne police were operating a speed trap, which involved heavy fine by Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley, were denied last night by Mrs. Morgan and the borough police. The charges are said to have been made by radio last Friday night by a Pittsburgh motoring club as a warning to its members.

Mrs. Morgan said the highway between Glen Osborne and Sewickley, a fine stretch of road, had been used as a speedway for years. Recently police tried to curb the practice, she said, and within a month arrested 65 alleged speeders. Police say there have been numerous accidents on the road and in arresting speeders they are trying to make the highway safe, not to operate a trap.

Waiter, nurse, clubwoman—it doesn't matter who we are, every one of us may offend unknowingly.

Perspiration odor . . . quickly kills popularity

How millions keep perspiration odorless

HOWEVER attractive or charming we may otherwise be, we can never hope to amount to anything socially—if we're guilty of perspiration odor. The faintest suggestion of odor brands us as careless, makes us unacceptable.

Thus, it's well for everybody to be on guard—always. Even if we don't seem to perspire at all, our millions of pores are constantly giving off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of odor-causing waste a day.

The offender never knows

And very often, we may be guilty—without knowing it. For our own sense of smell becomes deadened to familiar odors

Yet there's no excuse for risking this unpardonable offense now. Millions already know this delightful way to keep safe—Lifebuoy. Just wash and bathe regularly with this purifying toilet soap—it deodorizes—keeps perspiration odorless.

Lifebuoy's bland and abundant antiseptic lather also guards health by removing germs. Benefits complexions, too—keeps them clear, fresh, glowingly healthy.

Note its clean scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies. It quickly evaporates after rinsing. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

MARY A. SUTTON, OF HISTORIC FAMILY, DIES

Mrs. Mary A. Sutton, a direct descendent of Thomas Butler, Sr., one of the five Butler brothers of Revolutionary War fame, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Reed, 503 Kelly street, Wilkinsburg, at 10 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Sutton was born in Addison, Pa., then known as Petersburg, in 1837. She was married to William B. Sutton, a veteran of the Civil war, in 1852. She came to Pittsburgh 21 years ago and has been a member of the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church ever since.

She leaves four daughters, Mrs. Reed of the Kelly street address; Mrs. W. E. Alexander of Uniontown; Mrs. Theodore Bentel of Alhambra, Cal.; Mrs. William J. Kipper; 2918 Laketon road; one sister, Mrs. William Howard of Taylor avenue, North Side, 12 grandchildren, 22 great grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.

INDICTED, FLEES HOSPITAL

A few hours after he had been indicted by the Federal Grand Jury here yesterday for alleged violation of the prohibition laws, John Bodie escaped from the Hamot Hospital in Erie, Pa., Pittsburgh enforcement officers were notified today.

Brodie was shot in a gun battle with dry agents over several truckloads of booze, which was being run in, the agents asserted, from Canada.

Brodie was indicted with seven others on two counts. They are charged with importing 136 cases of ale and whisky and unlawful transportation. All eight live in or near Erie. They are, besides Brodie, Milo D. Reyner, Clifford E. Brooks, Harold Zimmerman, Raymond Gehrline, H. E. Finney, William Muller, Leon Fedderof.

4 SHOPS LOOTED IN EAST END

A fish market, a women's store, an electric appliance store and a grocery store, all in the East End, were burglarized early today. At the G. O. Diggs fish market, 236 Shetland avenue, the loot was $2. The Rolden Electric Company, 545 North Homewood avenue, lost a $35 radio set, a waffle iron and $5. Clothes valued at $560 were taken from Clara Caldwell's shop at 121 North Highland avenue, and at the Nick Morone grocery store, 620 Shetland avenue, the burglars gained $15.

SLEUTH'S SON DISAPPEARS

No light has so far been shed on the whereabouts of Walter J. Kaiser, 14, son of City Detective Walter Kaiser. The youth, a student of the Westinghouse High School, dropped out of sight Monday morning while en route to school. Investigation disclosed that he did not report for class.

When he left home he had 25 cents. He wore no coat or hat. He is described as being about five feet eight inches tall, having brown hair and brown eyes and weighing about 150 pounds.

DODGING AUTOS, KILLED BY TROLLEY, WIFE SUES

Charging that her husband had been killed while standing on the track in front of a street car, signaling it to stop, Mrs. Mary Raskus, mother of five small children, brought suit in Common Pleas Court yesterday against he Allegheny Valley Street Railway Company for $20,000 damages. The accident occurred August 28, 1927, at the West Penn power house stop in Springdale. The widow says there were so many automobiles passing at the time that her husband had to stand on the tracks to avoid being struck while stopping the street car.

GEORGE J. HIGGINS

George J. Higgins is the station agent for the Reading Railroad at Shamokin, Pa. That's not very interesting. But Mr. Higgins also is the owner of $1,500,000 property—and prefers to be known as the station agent rather than the millionaire.

SUES STEPSON FOR RETURN OF PROPERTY

Through the machinations of his stepson, George W. McCurdy, of Noblestown, James Smith, 75, now residing in South Gass road, Ross township, has lost all and is an object of charity, the aged man charged in a suit filed in court to have properties and other valuables returned to him.

Smith alleges that while ill with his wife at their home, 658 Dow avenue, Carnegie, in January, 1927, McCurdy had the aged couple deed them their property. Later Mrs. McCurdy died, Smith alleges, and his stepson took him to his home and while there McCurdy obtained $400 worth of Liberty bonds, $2,000 in cash, a lot of English gold coins and $400 worth of building and loan stock.

After getting all of Smith's possessions, the petitioner alleges, he was sent to the home of Wilford P. Griffith, in South Gass road, where he is now destitute.

DECOY LETTER TRAPS CARRIER

With a decoy letter containing $6 in his possession, it is alleged, Bernard F. Miller, 23, letter carrier for four years at Mt. Oliver postoffice, was arrested yesterday by Postoffice Inspector George V. Craighhead. He was held for a hearing before a United States commissioner.

CLAIMS RECOVERY WAS REMARKABLE

"For Liver, Kidneys and Bowels, Ten Herbs Has No Equal," Lady Believes.

"I think my recovery, which I attribute to Ten Herbs, shows that your medicine has even more merit that what many claim for it," was the statement of Mrs. John T. O'Malley, 5130 Second Avenue, Hazelwood, Pa., (near Pittsburgh), to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main

MRS. JOHN T. O'MALLEY

Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this new herbal medicine.

"For the past four or five years, I suffered with indigestion, and finally became very weak and run-down," Mrs. O'Malley continued. "It seemed as though my food simply would not digest. Even the lightest food would cause gas pains, which kept me awake night after night, and I would be up and down. My bowels were so constipated that I had to take physics continually.

"My liver was sluggish, causing dizzy spells. In going downstairs I would get so light-headed that I would have to grasp the banister to keep from falling. My kidneys seemed to be weak, causing me to arise several times during the night, and in the morning I would awake with severe pains across my back. I tried everything I heard of, but kept getting worse, until I began to be in agony.

"Then, after all this suffering, Ten Herbs gave me just the relief I wanted. I began to improve with the very first bottle, and continued to get better. I am now rid of the gas, bloating and pains of indigestion. I can eat anything without having distress. I recently ate pork chops, of which I am very fond, for the first time in months. For liver, kidneys and bowels, I believe Ten Herbs has no equal. Even friends remark how much better I look. I would say to anyone who is suffering as I was—get Ten Herbs today, and you may know relief tomorrow, as this medicine has all the merit that is claimed for it."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. He will be glad to tell you how to take it to get the best results. Free sample given.

Marian Nixon to Play Heroine Opposite Richard Barthelmess In Filming "Out of the Ruins"

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate.)

LOS ANGELES, May 24.

I PROMISED you a surprise regarding the choice of a leading lady to play opposite Richard Barthlemess in "Out of the Ruins." So I'll deliver the goods with the news that Marian Nixon has been selected for the part. Marian's contract with Universal does not expire until early in June, and there was some question as to whether or not she could obtain her release in time for the First National photoplay. But now everything is fixed up, and I wouldn't be a bit surprised if the Burbank people become so enthused over Marian's rendition of her role that a nice, fat contract for succeeding pictures will be given her. Naturally, Marian is rejoicing.

Take the best features of Vilma Banky, Dolores Costello and Constance Bennett, mix well—and the result will be Jeannette Loff. Jeannette has been quietly plugging away on the De Mille lot, and now, after two pictures, her beauty and ability have made their impressions on the Pathe officials. Jeannette did excellently in "Hold 'Em, Yale," opposite Rod La Roque, and even better in the recently completed "Love Overnight," both of which were directed by E. H. Griffith. Now I understand that Jeannette has an excellent chance to play the feminine role in "Annapolis, for which Johnny Mack Brown has been borrowed from Metro. Lina Basquette, originally scheduled for the role, is busy with "Celebrity," and in order to meet production dates, Jeannette will probably get the job. The picture is to be made at the Naval Academy, and Jeannette is thrilled at the prospect of getting a glimpse of New York.

The quarter-million dollar fire on the Fox lot has held up the work of two units. Sets for "Plastered in Paris" and "Me, Gangster" were destroyed, and the pictures cannot be filmed until the damage is repaired. There was about $100,000 worth of Edison equipment for the new incandescent lighting to be used in the productions which will have to be replaced.

Winnie Sheehan has a big surprise up his sleeve for the salesmen attending the Fox convention in New York next week. Taking advantage of "Movietone," Sheehan has made several reels in which all the Fox directors introduce the various players who are to appear in the season's pictures. Credit for the novel idea must be halved between Sheehan and Director Jackson, who superintends the destinies of "Movietone."

Little Mary Brian, one of Paramount's favorite children, has been selected to play the girl role in "Varsity," in which "Buddy" Rogers enacts the part of the boy. I wonder why Paramount has tried to discourage the use of "Buddy's" nickname and substitute the more dignified name of Charles in its place?

Dorothy Cumming, who recently completed a role in Corinne Griffith's picture, "The Divine Lady," slipped quietly away to New York the other day. From Gotham, the "King of Kings" madonna plans a little boat ride to London, where she will remain for six weeks before returning to Hollywood and pictures.

September 15 has been set for the New York premier of "Hell's Angeles," the Caddo production which has created a lot of comment for itself as well as for the youthful president of the company, Howard Hughes. With two months more shooting before completion, the film has thus far cost over a million and a half dollars. Before it is finished it will be in the two million dollar class of pictures. It has been almost a year in the making, and is slated to be a sensation upon release. Luther Reed directed the early sequences which include nearly all of the love scenes and more intimate touches. Hughes himself, has proved an unbelievable capacity for hard work in personally directing the startling aerial sequences. An interesting side-light is afforded by the fact that during the filming of the picture, Hughes, Ben Lyon and Jimmy Hall have become so enthused over aviation that they fly to and from location. Each has spent more time in the air than the 160 hours required for a pilot's license.

SEVERAL GLIMPSES :-: OF PERSONS YOU SEE :-: OFTEN IN SHADOW

Bert Levy, whistling cartoonist of vaudeville stage, finds a cuddler in a Hollywood studio. The girl is Doris Davison, popular photoplayer.

Colleen Moore plays a French peasant girl in lilac time.

Doris Hill displays fan made of guinea hen feathers.

Dolores Del Rio as a peasant girl and Charles Farrell as a grand duke in "The Red Dancer of Moscow," in which Dolores goes Russian.

AUTOMATIC INSTRUMENT AWARDED TO KENYON

An "Orchestrope," which was to be presented to some theater in connection with the recent movie ball, was awarded to the Kenyon. This instrument, an automatic device for playing records continuously, changing and reversing them, without personal attention, was presented to F. H. Shontz, manager of the Kenyon, by N. E. Caldwell, district representative of the Capehart Automatic Phonograph Corporation of Huntington, Ind. It was played continuously at the movie ball in Syria Mosque in volume sufficient to fill the hall and received much comment.

Seiter Is Signed for Moore Pictures

William A. Seiter, following the completion of Colleen Moore's recently completed picture for First National, "Happiness Ahead," was placed under a long-term contract by that company. During the first year of the contract he will direct four screen stories, with more to follow.

Mr. Seiter long has been considered one of the outstanding directors in filmdom, especially in light comedies. Among his recent successes are "The Small Bachelor," "That's My Daddy" and "Out All Night."

NEW RIVER STEAMER IN EXCURSION TRADE

A new amusement "resort" will be open to Pittsburghers Decoration Day. It will be "Japanese Garden," which is an excursion steamer. The steamer will make two river trips that day—one in the afternoon and one in the evening. Dancing and special music will feature the excursions.

FEATURE AT WILLOWS NEW ORANGE ROOM

One of the new features of the New Willows, Oakmont, is the Orange Room. It easily will accommodate 800 persons during the dinner hour, with ample dancing space, it is said. The New Willows will hold its formal opening of the summer season Saturday night.

BOOK EVELYN NESBIT AS SANDERS' FEATURE

Dave Harmon and his Greater Orchestra are playing the second and final week of their present engagement in Sanders, Aspinwall. Beginning Monday night, Evelyn Nesbit will open a limited engagement in Sanders, appearing there exclusively nightly in her skit, "Personality Personified."

TWO COMEDIES IN BILLS

All the trouble in "The Baby Cyclone" is a Pekinese pup. And the more trouble there is, the funnier it becomes, it is claimed. "The Baby Cyclone" will be the offering of the Nixon Players in the Nixon next week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Tickets are on sale at the boxoffice today.

Anne Forrest, diminutive leading woman of the George Sharp Players, will have a comedy opportunity in "Mary's Other Husband," next week in the Pitt, as a young wife who finds herself in difficulty because of her desire to paint her husband and her home life better than they really are.

There are five scenes in Ida May Chadwick's musical offering "Rags to Riches," coming to the Davis next week. The star and her six dizzy blondes appear first as poor girls, and then, in succession come scenes of increasing splendor.

Oscar Loraine, comedy violinist, headlines the stage bill in the Aldine next week. Jean Hersholt will be seen on the screen in the title role of "Alias the Deacon."

Corinne Griffith comes to the Penn next week in "The Garden of Eden." Charles Ray and Lowell Sherman are among the supporting cast. A stage feature in "Kat Kabaret" will be the Albertina Rasch dancing girls.

John Steel, tenor, formerly featured in Ziegfeld Follies and Music Box Revues, will appear as an extra attraction in the stage program in the Stanley next week. The photoplay will be "The Port of Missing Girls."

Lena Daley, who appeared in the Gayety many times, will make her first appearance in the Academy next week as the star in "Bare Facts."

"The Fifty-Fifty Girl," Bebe Daniels' latest starring vehicle, is announced for the Grand next week.

The vaudeville headline attractions for the first split week policy in the Harris, beginning next Monday, will be Harry Carey, screen star, in person, the first three days and Homer Lind and his company of six, the last half of the week.

"The Escape" opens in the Olympic Monday, with Virginia Valli and William Russell in leading dramatic roles.

In the vaudeville in the Sheridan Square next week will be Bessie Rempel and Billy Howard, in "Red, Green and Yellow." The two screen features will be Virginia Valli in "The Escape" and Madge Bellamy in "The Play Girl."

Lindbergh Blvd. Blasting Goes To Court

Lindbergh boulevard, North Braddock, is meeting with head winds as did Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his hop across the Atlantic. John Wagner and David Drylie, both of Electric avenue, Chalfant, yesterday blew into court for an injunction against Donatelli & Donatelli, contractors.

They allege that heavy blasting charges have broken windows, showered their homes with rocks and endangered their lives. Drylie complained that the extremely heavy blasting charges had forced one of his tenants to move. The boulevard, which extends from Grandview avenue to Ardmore boulevard is parallel to Electric avenue, Chalfant, about 250 feet distant. Judge Josiah Cohen set next Monday for a hearing.

AUTO PLOUGHS INTO GIRLS AT PLAY

ARREST WOMAN, MAN HURTING THREE

Their hop-scotch game ended when an auto leaped over the curb and ran them down near their home, Tillie Smith, 6, and her two sisters, Marie, 8, and Freda, 10, of Pennsylvania avenue, Coraopolis, are patients in Allegheny General Hospital. Marie is in a serious condition.

Today Marcella Surgest and Charles S. Gerison, Negroes, occupants of the car, were committed to jail by Justice of the Peace Charles H. Stevenson, of Coraopolis, charged with aggravated assault and battery, driving without a license and failing to stop and render aid.

The woman was being taught to drive by Gerison, on Tuesday, when she lost control of the car and it crashed into the children. It is said they did not have permission of the owner to operate the car.

Eighteen of the 64 members of the graduating class at Pennsylvania College for women are engaged to wed. This was revealed at the senior banquet last night,

The brides-to-be comprise 28 per cent of the class,

The party was given by President Cora Helen Coolidge, Dean Helen Marks, Miss Laura Green, faculty student adviser, and Miss Ann Evans, honorary faculty member of the senior class.

In the course of the merry-making it was proposed that every girl who plighted her troth pass around the table and show her engagement ring. Ten responded. Then the question was asked if any were engaged who had not yet received their rings. Eight confessed to this.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

PUNISHMENT

By L. M. BLAKE

"BIG BOY" JACKSON glared across the boarding house dining table at "Shrimp" Meyers.

"Seems to me some people sure can stand a lot of punishment," Jackson growled to the diners in general; then to Meyers in particular: "Why don't you do something for that appetite of yours?"

"I am doing something," the Shrimp returned; and he reached for a third helping of potatoes.

"By thunder! It would be cheaper to pay your board than to board you. Do you eat breakfast and supper?"

"Regularly. Don't you?"

"I couldn't if I ate a dinner like you do."

"All healthy men eat heartily," Meyers stated as he moved a large piece of meat to his plate.

"That's what makes you such a fine, big specimen of manhood, huh?" Jackson sneered at the little man as he spoke.

"No," Meyers returned very seriously, "I owe my development almost solely to exercise with dumbbells!"

"Wow!" snorted one of the other male diners. "That was a hot shot at you, Big Boy."

"You gotta give the Shrimp credit," chortled another.

"Now—now, boys!" cautioned Mrs. Ida May, the boarding house owner.

Jackson admired Mrs. May, who was a widow, and so fell silent. Meyers, likewise a suitor for the woman's hand, glanced about with a smile of triumph.

The two men, long working partners at the Callard Furniture Supply Company, had been warm friends until their interests in Mrs. May came in conflict. So far, however, neither seemed to have an advantage in the matrimonial race. The widow's reply to all proposals was the same:

"I need time to think it over. Ask me again sometime."

The partners were back at work on the third floor of the Callard warehouse, when Jackson smiled and said:

"Well, Shrimp, Ida is going to accompany yours truly to the theater Saturday night. Now what do you think of that?"

"It's all right with me. I took her to a show last week," Meyers replied.

"You did! And you never said 'boo' about it."

"I don't brag. I act!"

"Particularly at the table."

"At all times and places."

The two men had stacked away twenty-odd Morris chairs and were now confronted by a number of day-beds.

"What are we going to do with these?" Meyers asked.

"Higgins said to put 'em back against the wall," Jackson replied. "Did you think we were going to sleep on them?"

The third floor was a place where space was at a premium. Tables, stoves, chairs and the like were double and triple-decked on all sides. Plank trestles made a capital H which facilitated the storing or removing of furniture. Windows were at the two south or base ends of the H, eaching barred up with a half dozen wooden boards.

As they picked up the fourth day-bed, Meyers growled:

"Pick up your feet, Big Boy. One of these days you'll fall down and brain yourself."

Jackson laughed harshly.

"Thanks for the compliment. Not having any brains, you naturally couldn't do that."

Then it happened!

They were taking the seventh bed to a place at the base of the trestled H. Jackson, walking backward, tripped over a board and fell against the window. Through wooden bars and glass his bulk plowed; and the next instand the man tottered on the edge of the window.

Then he fell, dragging the bed after him. But the bed came out of the window just so far; then it yanked to a stop.

Jackson managed to hang on. He did not glance down. He knew a cement sidewalk was there—at the end of a hundred foot drop!

"God—help—me!" the big man thought to himself.

He managed to get one leg over the bed end, thus taking most of the strain off his hands. But he could climb no farther.

An agonized voice came to him from above:

"Hang—on—Big—Boy!"

It was the voice of the Shrimp.

Jackson glanced upward and understood. For Meyers was part way out of the window, his right arm hooked on the day-bed, and his left hooked about something inside the building. Thus the little man had made of himself a supporting link that prevented his partner's downward plunge.

Meyers' face was twisted with agony. And as Jackson's mind began to warm out of its frozen terror, he noticed that the little man's naturally brown arm was becoming white from strain.

Moments passed, moments that seemed like days, months, years to Jackson. He thought of nothing—of everything.

Then a half dozen hands seemed to reach out of the window at once. The bed was jerked upward and dragged, Jackson with it, back onto the third floor.

The big man collapsed on the trestle and breathed a thankful "Whew!"

Meyers was slumped down at one side of the window, his face looking terribly old, his body trembling. Above him was a V-shaped iron roof support.

Jackson saw the iron and his eyes asked a question.

"Yep! Meyers hooked his arm in that. And just hung on," Higgens, the foreman, explained. Then to the other men: "Pick 'em up, fellows. We'll take them downstairs and let the doctor look 'em over."

Several days later, Jackson and Meyers were dining at Mrs. Ida May's boarding house again.

A truck driver, new to the place, watched Meyers enjoying his meal. After a time, the driver remarked to Jackson:

"That fellow is a regular glutton for punishment, isn't he?"

The big man glanced toward the Shrimp. Again he seemed to see a face twisted in agony, and a sturdy brown arm growing white with strain.

"A glutton for punishment," Jackson returned with unnecessary fierceness, "is he? Buddy, you don't know the half of it!"

Then to mask his emotion, the the big man grabbed a dish and called out:

"Here, Meyers, have some more ham."

How To Be Beautiful

by Maria Jeritza

Are Your Teeth Lovely?

YOUR teeth are vigilant guardians of your health and beauty. It behooves you to give them the care which will keep them strong, white and wholesome.

The teeth are really mills, which grind our food into small particles. If they are healthy and strong, they do this work well and send food into the stomach in proper shape for digestion, which counts for internal harmony and a clear skin. By brushing your teeth carefully every morning and evening, and after meals if possible, you can keep them clean and white and free from particles of food, which might otherwise start decay.

Choose for your tooth brush one that is not too large to reach into all the corners of your mouth and has uneven bristles to penetrate the crevices between your teeth.

After you use your brush, always rinse it in fresh water and place it to dry where the sunlight and fresh air can reach it. A good idea now and then is to rinse your tooth brush, then sprinkle salt over it, for salt will clean it antiseptically.

Brushing your teeth should take about two minutes, and will be two minutes well spent. Dip your brush in either cold or warm water, place a little powder or paste on it and brush the entire chewing surface of your upper and lower teeth, outside and inside, with about twenty strokes on each side of your mouth.

Next rise your mouth, apply more powder and brush the roof of your mouth. This is essential if you wish a clean mouth and sweet breath. Brush the roof of your mouth back and forth seven or eight times, then give especial attention to the inside surfaces of your upper and lower teeth, including your front upper and lower teeth, rinsing your brush frequently.

Reach back on the gums as far as you can. Brush your upper teeth up and down 16 times, then brush your lower teeth the same way, using the tip of the brush mostly. Do not forget to reach back of your last teeth, with four or five strokes from side to side.

You may think it is foolish to describe this process of brushing the teeth in such detail. But ever so many women have dingy teeth and big dentist bills to pay for fillings just because they do not know how, or take time, to cleanse their teeth and gums properly two or three times each day.

Here is a tested and dependable formula for tooth powder:

Powdered chalk, ½ pound; powdered orris root, ¼ pound.

Vary your regimen by brushing your teeth once a week with powdered pumice stone, which removes stains. There are many good tooth powders and pastes on the market.

After brushing your teeth, rinse your mouth well with lime water or some such rinse as the following:

Tannic acid, 1 ounce; oil of wintergreen, 1 dram; powdered orris root, 4 ounces; alcohol, 4 ounces; water, 4 ounces.

Of course, a mouth rinse should never be swallowed.

Good advice regarding beauty of the teeth can all be summed up in one short sentence: Visit your dentist every six months, and follow his instructions!

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Many Pittsburgh Youths, Not to Be Outdone by Girls, Bring Brides Home From Other Cities

YOU have probably noticed, as I have, how many of our girls marry men from other cities, and, to equalize matters, how many local men go out of town for their brides. There doesn't seem to be any explanation for it, it is just a fact, that's all. And have you noticed, too, how easily these out-of-town girls fit themselves into our local society group? Many, of course, have made contacts with our Pittsburgh girls at school and these friendships are simply taken up where they left off when graduation day came.

One of these out-of-town brides is Mrs. Graham McCargo, who, you remember, was Mary Margaret Remington, of Springfield, Mass., before she was married last October. The McCargos, you know, are living in Penn avenue since they came back from their wedding trip.

And now, I hear, that her mother-in-law, Mrs. Grant McCargo, of Woodland road, and sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Bailey Meyer, the former Margaret McCargo, are going to give a tea for her next Tuesday afternoon in their home in Woodland road. It will be quite an informal party, I understand, given just to have the friends of the hostesses meet the new member of their family.

The Meyers, by the way, have been staying with Mr. and Mrs. McCargo and expect to be there until about the middle of June. They have taken a house at Greenwich, Conn., and will spend the summer there.

William Christopher Robinson has sent out invitations, I hear, for that riding and driving party in costume which is always a part of the horse show at the Allegheny Country Club. The first day of the show, June 7, is just a matinee affair, and at 5 o'clock, after the events of the day are over, the guests will ride over from the club to the Robinson place, "Woodmont," on Sewickley Heights, where dinner will be served.

The riding party is an annual affair, and if you have ever seen the parade of variously garbed guests wending their way over the Heights you will agree with me that it provides a lot of fun.

A party for a prospective bride was held yesterday in Sewickley when Grace Ellen Trace, of Thorn street, gave a bridge luncheon for Elizabeth Cook McMillen. Elizabeth, you know, is going to marry John Hurford Eyster on Saturday, June 2.

* * *

Quite a few of our local society folks are in New York just now, it seems. The James E. Lewises and their daughter, Mary, of Aylesboro avenue, are there for a while, stopping at the Barclay, and Mrs. H. M. Curry, Jr., of Beechwood boulevard, is at the same hotel.

'PERFECT GIRL' PICTURED AT WELFARE INSTITUTE

"The Perfect Girl" would want to go to bed on time, she would want to get up and go to work, she would have the same intense feeling for her parents that they do for her, she would want to live within her income and she would choose the right time and the right man with whom to fall in love.

This "composite picture" of the perfect girl as gleaned from social agents, parents, teachers and courts was given yesterday by Miss Eleanor Rowland Wembridge at the one-day institute held jointly by the Social Workers' Club and the Pittsburgh Girls' Conference in the William Penn Hotel. Towards the close of her talk, Mrs. Wembridge showed that every one of these five points is contrary to the three fundamental instincts, the parental, the ego and the mating instincts, and she advocated training the girls' emotional life through social, recreational and work outlets so that she might no longer have the desire to "escape" when she is baffled in its expression.

Mrs. Wembridge's talk followed that of Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, president of the International Association of Policewomen, who told how policewomen "humanize their jobs" and how much more efficiently certain problems can be handled by them than by policemen. Judge A. D. Brandon, Superintendent of Police Walsh, Director of Public Safety Clark and members of City Council were present for Mrs. Van Winkle's address.

The luncheon session was followed by two round table discussions, the first on "The Importance of Sex Education in Youth's Equipment," being led by Dr. Thomas W. Galloway, of the Sex Hygiene Association Community Program, having Miss Mabel Brown Ellis, of the Commonwealth Fund, New York, as leader. The institute closed last night with a play in the Y. M. and W. H. A. by the dramatic committee of the Social Workers' Club.

During the institute a resolution was passed calling on the authorities to stop marathon dances, since they are held to be injurious to youth.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Flora B. Bowden, president of the San Antonio Club, 23 women will leave Pittsburgh tomorrow to attend the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs which will open in San Antonio, Tex., next Monday. The party will leave in a special car and will stop Saturday in Cincinnati where they will be entertained by the Woman's Club of that city at a luncheon and reception, again on Sunday in Chattanooga where they will be guests of the City Association of Women's Clubs, and on Monday in New Orleans. On the return trip, leaving San Antonio, June 7, they will stop off at Houston and Galveston, being entertained in both cities.

In Mrs. Bowden's party are Mrs. Philip Benz, Mrs. Emil Phifer and Mrs. S. S. Stingel, all officers of the San Antonio Club; Mrs. Harry Bradley of Franklin, treasurer of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women; Miss Gertrude MacKinney of Butler, a state director; Mrs. J. B. Luther of Dubois, vice president of the Northwestern district; Mrs. J. C. Sickler, vice president of the Northeastern district of the Pennsylvania Federation, and Mrs. I. G. Lazelle, vice president of the Northern district of the West Virginia Federation.

As a farewell for Mrs. Bowden, Mrs. J. H. Field, of Bower Hill road, entertained with a beautifully appointed bridge breakfast of eight tables yesterday.

Its first reciprocity day will be held Monday by the Woman's Club of Ingram in the Administration Building. Officers also will be installed and a program will be presented that will include vocal solos by Miss Helen Greenwood and readings by Miss Helen Colhoun, the latter of Washington, D. C. Hostesses for the tea hour will be Mrs. S. J. Creighton, Mrs. C. C. Cribbs; Mrs. Earl Creviston, Mrs. J. L. Carr and Mrs. E. R. Davidson.

Members of the Wednesday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg had a happy ending to their thirtieth year yesterday when they and their husbands motored up to Ridgeview Park and were guests for the day of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Covil at the Covil summer home. The women conducted a short business session after luncheon, joining the men later in a hike over the ridge.

"The Strollers," local radio entertainers, will broadcast a new play called "Heredity Versus ——" over Station WCAE at 7 o'clock Saturday under the direction of Miss Mae Sweeney. The author of the play is Mrs. Sarah C. Pettit, well known in club circles throughout the city and a member of the playwriting group of the Congress of Clubs. While this is her first radio play, Mrs. Pettit has had several others produced at the Twentieth Century Club and at the East Liberty Carnegie Library. Another of her works, "Hour by the Fountain" is to be given soon at Seton College under the direction of Mrs. Mary Jones Sherrill. Two of Mrs. Pettit's plays have taken awards offered by the Play and Players Club of Philadelphia. The cast for the radio play includes Gregg Bridges, Vincent Griffen, Gerard MacAteer, Claude Morris and Mae Sweeny.

For the special meeting of the Congress of Clubs tomorrow at 10:30 a. m., a program of interest is being developed. Dr. Thomas Harrison Reed, director of research for the metropolitan plan, on leave of absence from the University of Michigan, will be the speaker. Miss Fanny Ward, appearing at a local theater, will also be a luncheon guest.

Luncheon at the Seventh Avenue Hotel, with a program following and later a tree planting in Schenley Park, made a full program yesterday for the Ladies' Auxiliary to Ascalon Commandery No. 59, Knights Templar. Mrs. George Henig, in charge of the program, introduced Miss Hazel Klitty, who read; Mrs. Rebecca Davies, who sang, accompanied by Mrs. C. C. Henning; Mrs. Bertha Schmid, who also sang, with her daughter accompanying and contributing vocal solos. Mrs. P. F. Hoffman was in charge of the tree planting exercises.

The Pennsylvania Department, American Legion Auxiliary, will entertain at dinner in the William Penn Hotel the night of June 7 in honor of Mrs. Robert Walbridge, national president of the auxiliary; Mrs. William C. Speakman, national vice president of the eastern section; Commander and Mrs. E. E. Hollenbeck and others. Mrs. Charles W. 25 YEARS OLD, INSURANCE CO. CELEBRATES

The twenty-fifth anniversary of its founding is being observed this month by the Reliance Life Insurance Company of Pittsburgh.

It was organized by Pittsburgh business men largely through the efforts of the late Judge James H. Reed, who was president until his death a year ago, and began business in May, 1903, in four offices of the Farmers Bank Building. Today the home office occupies more than four floors in the building, and 36 branch offices are maintained to handle business written in 38 states by more than 800 agents.

From the initial capital and surplus of $2,000,000, the assets of the Reliance Life have grown to more than $50,000,000 in 25 years. It has placed in force more than $389,000,000 life insurance, $150,000,000 accident insurance and $365,000 weekly indemnity health insurance. Three officers of the company were employed when business was begun in 1903. They are Herman G. Scott, vice president and secretary; William J. Snodgrass, assistant treasurer, and J. N. Jamison, actuary and assistant secretary.

Other officers are: President, A. E. Braun; vice president and treasurer, G. C. Moore; vice presidents, E. G. McCormack, Dr. O. M. Eakins and L. P. Gregory; assistant secretaries, T. J. McKenna and J. H. Layton; assistant treasurer, W. F. Aull; assistant actuaries, Millard Keys and Carl R. Ashman; associate medical directors, Dr. W. W. Hobson and Dr. Albert A. Wagner; superintendents of agencies, Angus Allmond and W. L. Wilhoite, and inspector of agencies, W. L. Baldwin.

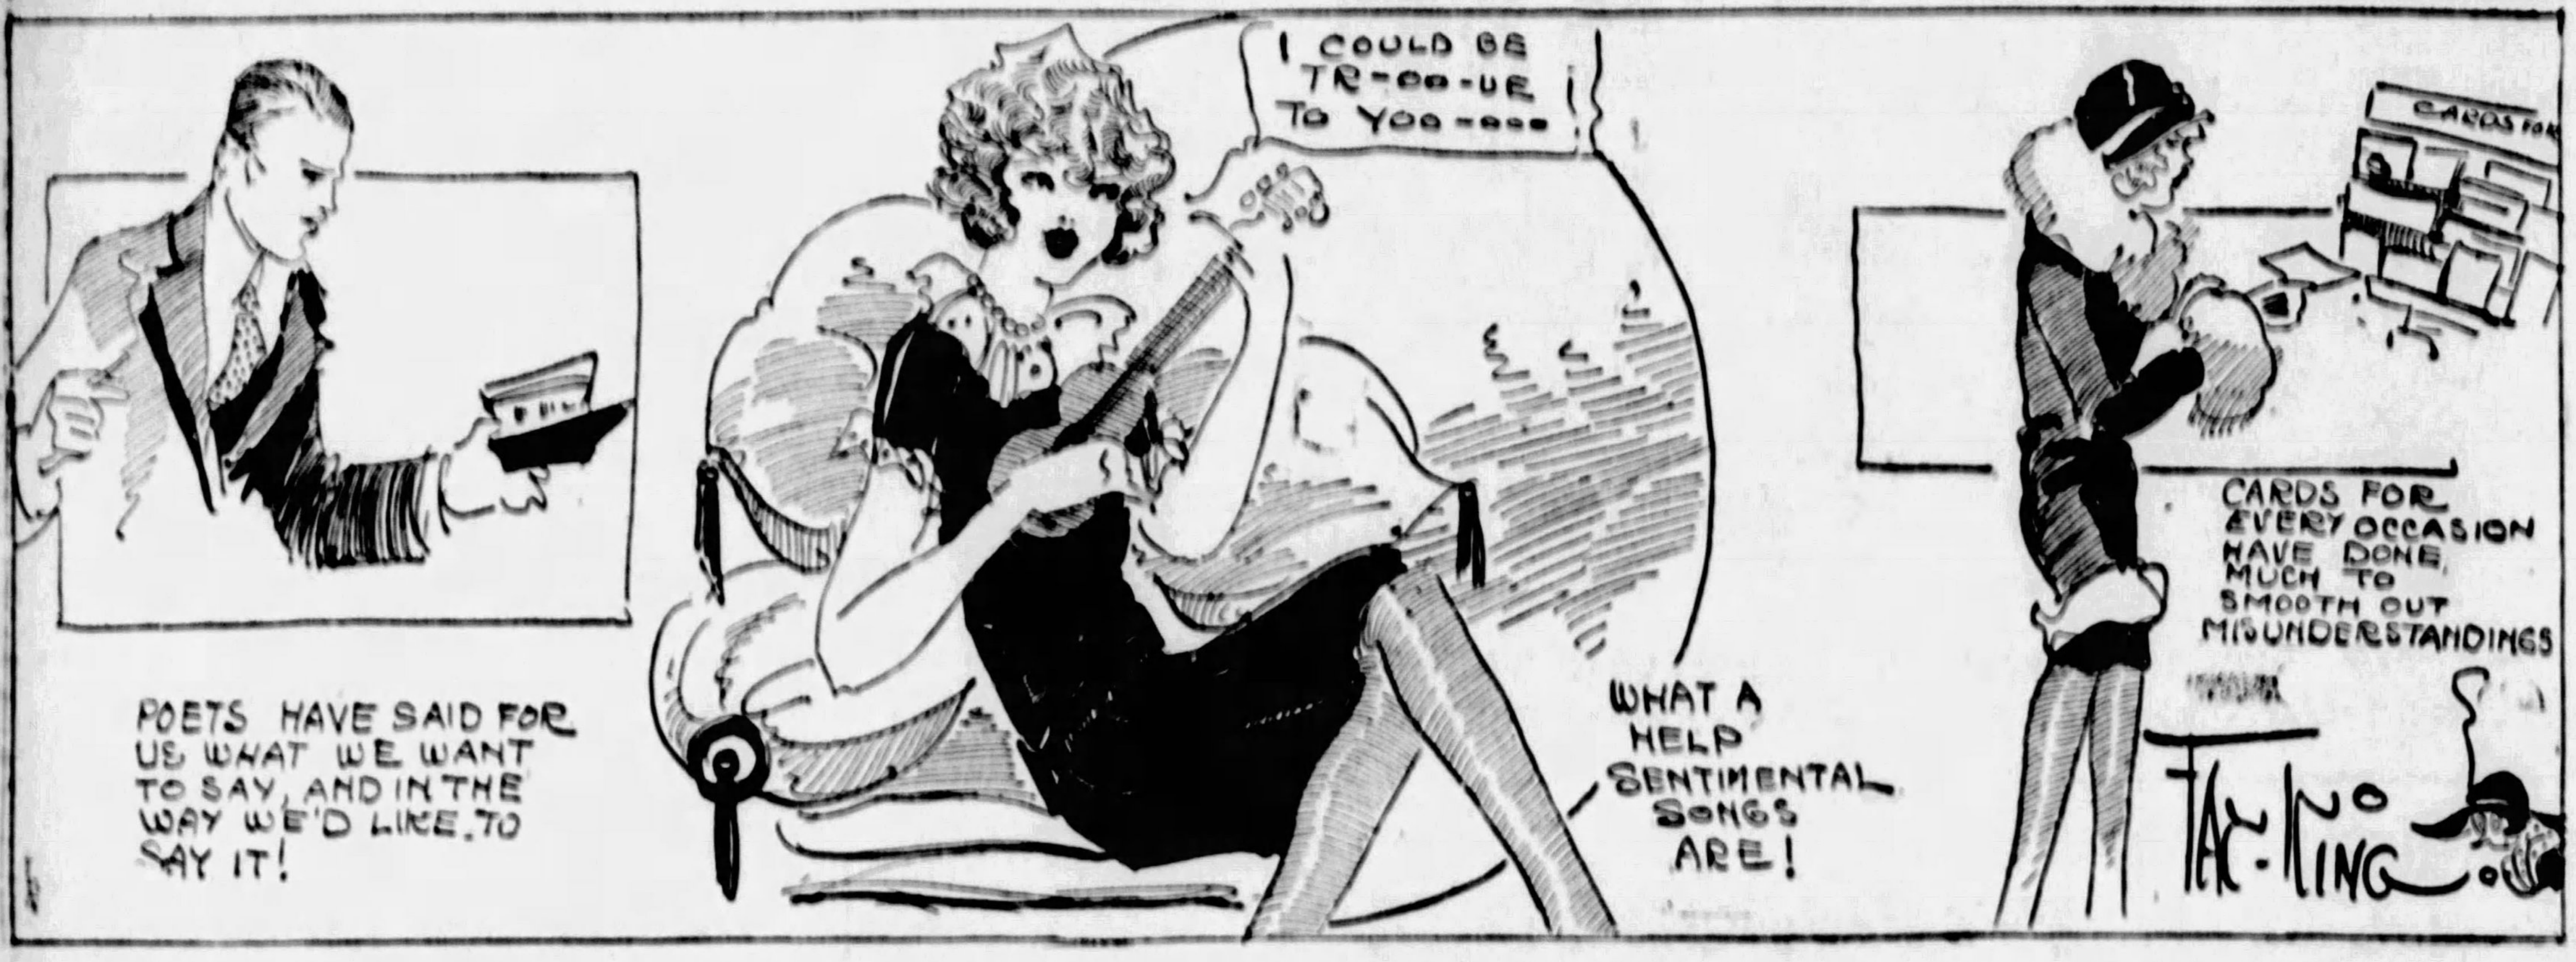
Fay King Shows Need of Sentimental Songs



POETS HAVE SAID FOR US WHAT WE WANT TO SAY, AND IN THE WAY WE'D LIKE TO SAY IT!
I COULD BE TR-OO-UE TO YOO---
WHAT A HELP SENTIMENTAL SONGS ARE!
CARDS FOR CARDS FOR EVERY OCCASION HAVE DONE MUCH TO SMOOTH OUT MISUNDERSTANDINGS
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

WHEN thousands of copies of a popular sentimental song are sold, it means that thousands of persons are singing its tender words and sweet music to some one.

The poets who have the gift to make sublime the simplest sentiments of life have helped countless folk to express what they feel!

The mails are full of pretty little speeches of friendship, affection, love and sympathy, stated so prettily on decorated cards.

Even the telegraph companies have clever writers composing proper wires which are bound to boost romance or straighten misunderstandings.

The world is full of sentimental folks. Even hard-boiled birds, when they are sure you will not laugh at them, soon pull forth clippings from the poet's corner of a magazine or newspaper.

I think it's splendid!

ORDER WRECKING PLANT MOVED

The Bureau of Building Inspection yesterday was instructed by Mayor Charles H. Kline to order the immediate removal of an automobile wrecking plant on the Minsinger property at the south end of the Liberty tubes.

The property, according to a decision of the Board of Adjustment, is being used for the purpose "without a legal permit." City records show that the property is owned by Anne Minsinger and has been let to Max Gilbert.

Gilbert, the City Solicitor reported applied for a permit on February 20. His application was refused by the Bureau of Building Inspection and he carried the case to the Board of Appeals, which also turned him down.

The next move was the introduction of an ordinance in Council changing the zoning classification of the district from Commercial to Light Industrial. This ordinance was passed by Council, but vetoed by the Mayor. Council Monday passed it over the Mayor's veto. The latter, however, has discovered that even the change in classification does not permit the operation of the automobile wrecking plant and the order for its removal resulted.

SOUSA AND HERBERT PROGRAMS ON AIR TONIGHT

A GALA concert, as a Victor Herbert memorial, celebrating the birth of America's favorite composer, will be staged in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York City, and broadcast over the Red Network, including WCAE, tonight at 9 o'clock. The concert, which will be one hour in duration, is being given under the auspices of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. It will bring before the microphone famous artists who once played in the original cast of Victor Herbert productions, such as Fritzi Scheff, member of the first "Mlle. Modiste" company. Master works of the American composer will be played by a concert orchestra, under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret.

A new radio program will make its bow on the Blue Network, including KDKA, at 10:30 o'clock. It is to be known as the "Flit Soldiers." During the initial presentation song numbers will include "We Love It," "She's a Home Girl," "Shout Hallelujah, 'Cause I'm Coming Home," "There'll Never Be Another You" and "She'll Never Find Another Fellow Like Me." SEARCHING BOTTOM

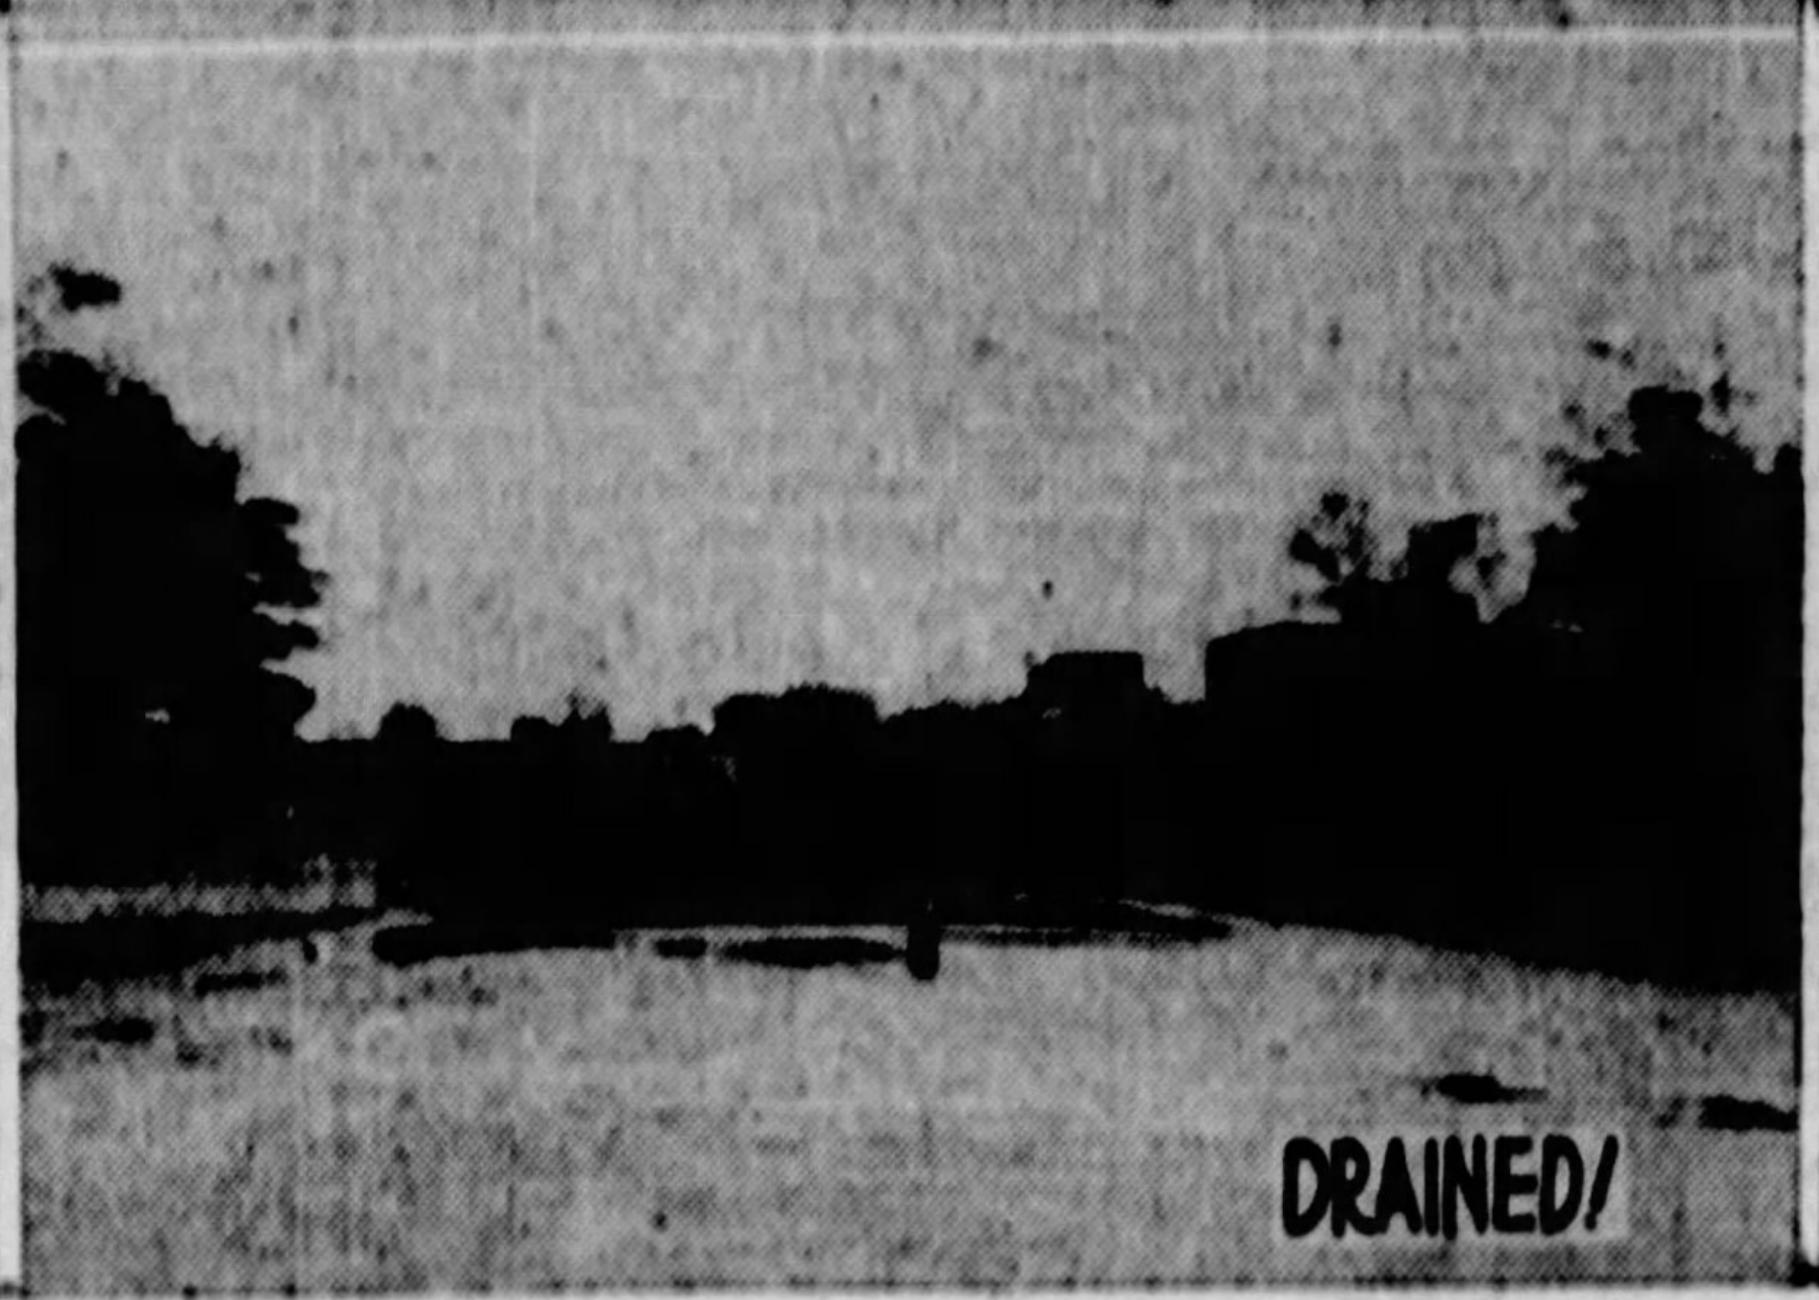
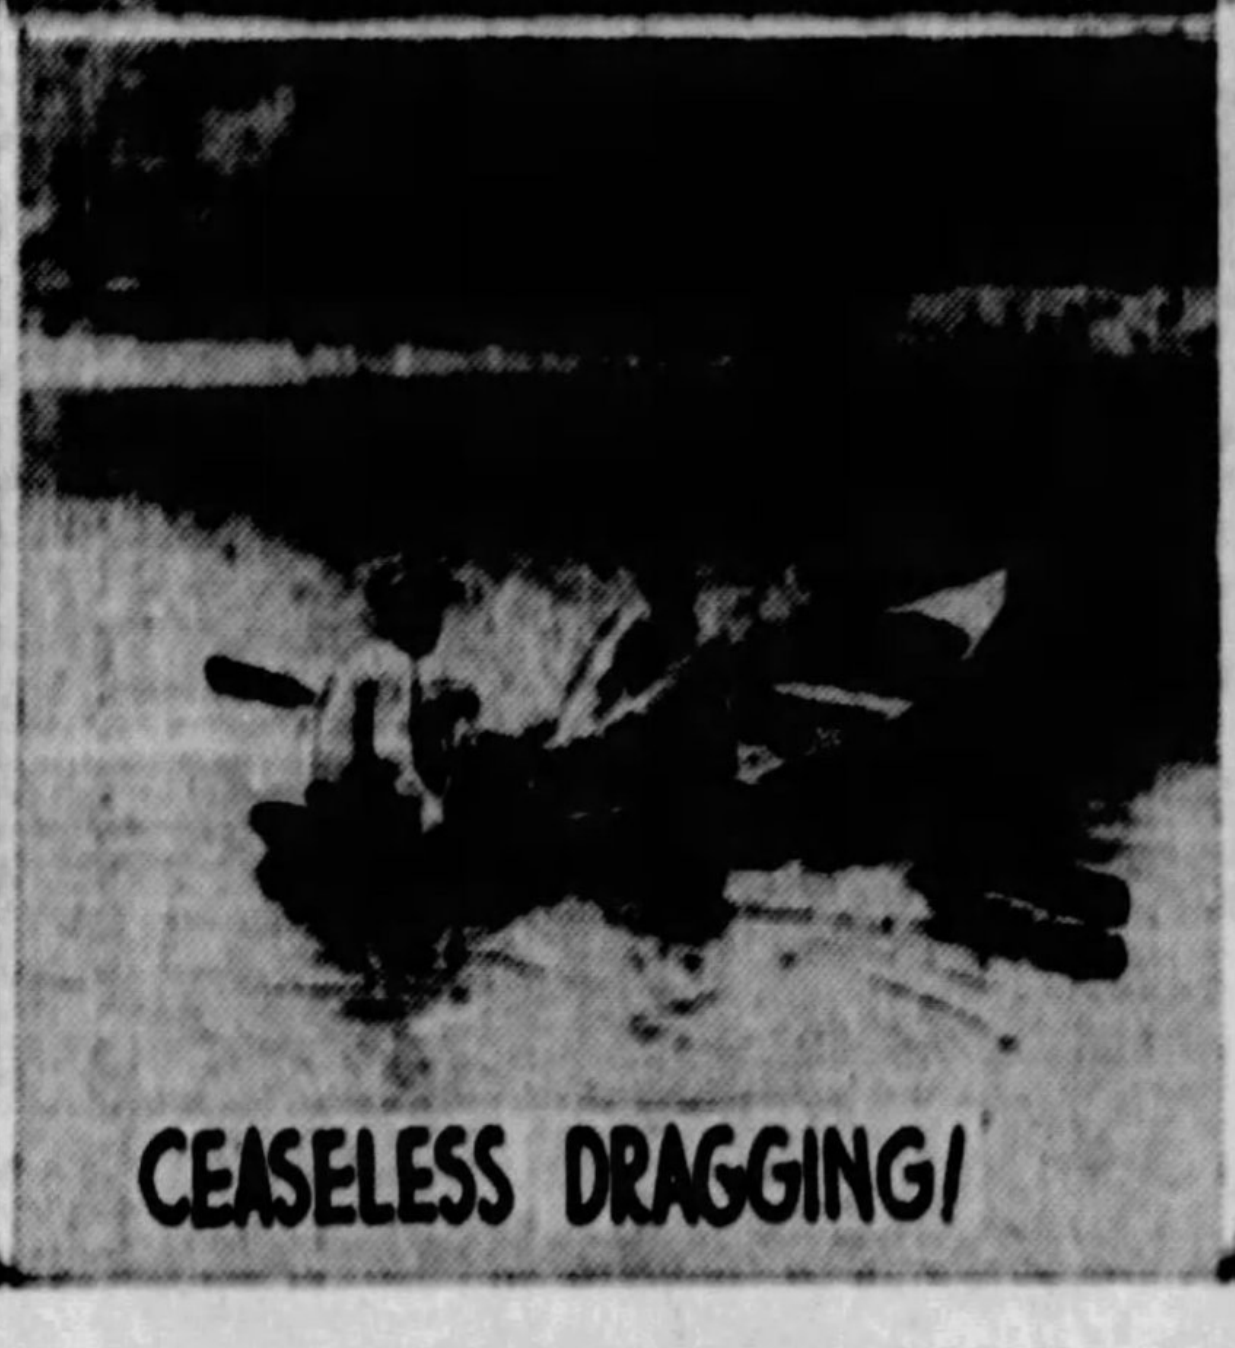
UNITED

United is Youngstown in its unrelentingly search for Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10, who disappeared more than a week ago. Here, high school boys, despite the cold, explore the bottom of Glacier Lake, Mill Creek Park.



NO TRACE

This lake, in South Side Park, Youngstown, is one of two detectives proposed to drain in the search. Little water remains now, but no trace of the child's body was found. School in Youngstown was dismissed so that students could join with police in hurrying the search. The town's aroused.



CEASELESS DRAGGING!

FIREMEN

City firemen joined the search. Here, Hoseman Michael Costello and David Williams have been dragging the bottom of Mill Creek Lake for several days. Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, has been called to the hunt.

FIRST

Fireman Michael Costello cast the first grappling hook in dragging the lake. Here, a string of beads were found, believed to have belonged to the lost child. Traces are scant.

Emily Visits Kent's Home And Is Snubbed By His Sister

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Emily Day and her flaming sister, Kitten, are daughters of a worker at the Rossiter factory. Emily, in high school, makes an ideal of Kent Rossiter and is greatly worried at her inability to mingle with the socially elect. Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," is attentive to Emily. He risks his life to gather some leaves for her and presents her with an Airedale. Emily forms a friendship with rich Mrs. Haiden, an interior decorator, who talks color and beauty to her and impresses upon her that the only aristocracy is that of work. Emily feels that her destiny is in her own hands. Day helps foment a strike. Emily persuadets Mr. Rossiter to take him back as they are starving, but Day takes his good luck in the wrong spirit.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"MEBBY you think we oughta hand 'em roses? There's a woman! Them swells a-grindin' their foot on our necks—"

But the strike got away from him. He told her one night that Pete Brent had gone back with some of his pals.

"Yella dawg! A few dollars more a week an' Sat-day afternoons an' he goes a-runnin'. Ah the yella dawg!"

"But that's what you asked for, wasn't it? More pay and shorter hours? You won't go back? But what will we do?" She began to cry. The meat shop had cut off credit and the grocery was demanding money she told him.

"I'll have no truck with ol' Rossiter. There's one oughta be in jail. Me, I'm a man of principle an' I'll not knuckle to capital. Like all the women, you are; always wantin' somethin'."

He found another job up on the hill and he was put to work swinging a pick. The wage was less than he had got from the factory and the hours stretched endlessly. But he swaggered a little, seeing himself an independent fellow.

Still as days went along and Emily saw him more gray and bowed and grim than he ever had been, she knew the swagger was forced. His work in the factory had been comparatively easy; this, she suspected, was different.

She remembered, too, how years before he had been ill and the doctor told him he had a bad heart. Sometimes now there was the faint blue shadow about his were building a state road farther lips she had seen then.

She talked to Agnes about this; together they urged him to bury his pride and go back to the old job. But he met their pleas with scorn, though his eyes held a hunted look.

And once—it was the morning after he had come reeling up the steps and sank down gasping for breath—Emily went to see Mr. Rossiter.

She went fearfully, conscious of the curious and often hostile looks turned upon her by the men she passed in the yard. All ready enough to follow Steve out they had been, but now they blamed him for weeks of idleness, and swallowed up savings and bills all about town.

The telephone girl spoke her name into the transmitter and Rossiter sent for her at once. That was like him, she thought, drawing her lips to keep them steady. The thoroughbred strain—protect the weak—oh, if he would run true to form!

He turned Kent's smile toward her, arose and took her hand, glancing with interest at the blue dress Frances Haiden had designed. "Such a charming little visitor! Don't tell me she wishes to talk anything so dull as business!"

Gray eyes smiling, filling; the lips would tremble. She sat down blindly, stumbled through a thing she never intended to say. "You're so kind, Mr. Rossiter. Always so kind—well, you see, father is that stubborn—"

He saw her tears and looked away. "He may come back any time he wishes, my dear. Our oldest employe always is welcome."

"It isn't that! But, he thinks—that is, mother and I think—"

She forced her eyes up, saw how grave he was, listening so carefully. Telephone calls, persons coming in with messages — he waved them al' away. Giving his time to her; to Steve Day's daughter. One of "them swells?" Maybe. But a kind man, one willing to serve.

She told him the story. How life had been hard for her father. "Maybe he made it hard himself, Mr. Rossiter. Some have a way—"

About his talk which sounded so fierce and meant so little. About the job swinging a pick and the blue shadow around his lips.

"And we're afraid, mother and I. You see, he's ours and we love him. And oh, it's asking so very much, but if you could say a word to him! He misses the factory so and he's all prickley-like with stubbornness—"

Rossiter said, thoughtfully, "You don't know Avis? You must come and see her. Your father is a lucky man. Yes, of course, I'll speak to him."

He took her to the door, arm about her shoulders, and sent her away.

That evening the shining car stopped again. The millionaire walked to the couch where Day was lying and said, "Well, Steve."

Day tried to be hostile, but eagerness swept him; he looked up with a grin that was much like Kitten's. He answered jauntily, "Well, Mr. Rossiter."

"You're coming back? There's a foreman's job waiting. And we won't quarrel about wages. Only no more strike talk—"

When he had left Agnes cried and Steve got up energeticallyand began to swagger about. "Guess I made 'em come to time. Guess they know a good man. Now, when I go back—"

But he never was to go back.

CHAPTER VII.

NOW it was June and commencement only a week away.

Emily would have loved it—the excitement of getting through her freshman year, looking forward to newer, broader visions opening through more important studies to come, the thrill of all the festivities connected with the closing of school. Excepting for one thing.

Anne Morrow had dropped it maliciously on an afternoon; later Emily told herself she might have expected it; known all the time. Things last as they were? Oh, no. Too pleasant, too happy. Indeed! This was like a drift of autumn leaves coming into a garden bright with springtime.

It was on an afternoon when she and Kent came swinging through the school yard, laughing together. He went on up the steps; she paused to talk with Anne.

"Who you going to pick for a boy friend next year?" that young lady inquired, throwing up her nose. "Next year when he's gone? Guess you'll be out of luck, won't you, Em?"

Emily shrugged and started away—whirled back suddenly. "When who's gone, Anne? What you talking about?"

Anne's eyes glittered. "Kent, of course. Didn't he tell you he's leaving next year? Oh," carelessly, turning the barb, "thought everybody knew that. Going to private school. Have to find you a new sweetie, I guess. Well, there's Marty Nolan—"

CALL VOTE QUIZZERS

A new side to the prosecution of election cases will be developed today before Judge John A. Evans. As presiding judge of the courts of Allegheny county he ordered yesterday that persons signing petitions resulting in election prosecutions be brought into court to establish on what grounds the prosecutions were ordered. Hearings were to be held this afternoon in these cases.

"All ballot boxes should be brought to a central depository," declared Judge Evans after hearing pleas of four boards with Judge H. H. Rowand and J. Frank Graff, the latter of Kittanning. Judge Evans stated that the district attorney's office should investigate petitioners who asked examination of ballot boxes as well as election officials charged with fraud.

His remarks were made during a hearing of pleas made by the board of the Seventh district of the Twentieth Ward to a charge of negligence. Board members testified they made an honest count, but left the ballot box in the polling place, a garage, used by a woman who later petitioned to have the box brought in for a recount.

Members of this board, and the board of the Tenth district of the First Ward, who entered similar pleas, are summoned to appear before the court for disposition this afternoon after a hearing of petitioners as to the basis for the petition for a recount.

Members of two other boards who entered similar pleas, those of the Tenth district of the Twentieth Ward and the Twenty-fourth district of the Nineteenth Ward, were fined and paroled yesterday.

PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

Dost know by sight this man? Perhaps you do, perhaps you don't, and if you do perhaps you're wrong. He's a possible candidate for the presidency of the United States as convention dates draw nearer. There isn't here the slightest hint of his identity. The Sun-Telegraph is printing a series of "possible candidates," Democratic and Republican and otherwise, always withholding the name until the following day. This man's name tomorrow!

WEDNESDAY'S "POSSIBLE CANDIDATE" WAS HERBERT HOOVER, REPUBLICAN, SECRETARY OF COMMERCE.

HALT WORK OF RESCUE

MATHER, Pa., May 24.—Rescue work was halted early today at the Mather collieries and all hope given up for the 40 miners still entombed. The 100 men who have been digging in the tons of debris for the bodies of the 40 miners were called out of the mine last midnight. It may be weeks before the 40 bodies are brought out, it was reported by company officials.

The relief workers here have turned their attention from caring for the rescue teams to looking after the widows and orphans of the victims. Today will see the funerals of more of the miners and work still going on in the company offices where the list of dead is being checked for any possible error.

All curiosity seekers who tried to stop in Mather last night were ordered on by police. State troopers augmented the coal and iron police in keeping automobiles moving. No one without good reason was permitted to stop in the town.

One hundred and sixty bodies have been identified, according to Coroner John W. Ross, and funerals will be held today and tomorrow in the nearby cemeteries. State Senator C. W. Parkinson has assumed charge of the funeral arrangements. All expenses are being assumed by the company. The coal company also has made arrangements with representatives of the state compensation bureau to rush full compensation awards at no expense to the claimants.

The probe of the state mine inspection bureau will begin early next week, J. Ira Thomas, deputy secretary of the bituminous division of the bureau announced today. Mr. Thomas and 21 deputies have been on hand for several days and have already conducted a survey of the mine. Today and for the remainder of the week they will question survivors.

W VA. BODIES FOUND

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., May 24.—(AP.)—Rescue workers last night recovered four bodies from the Yukon-Pocahontas Coal Company mine No. 1 at Yukon, bringing to 17 the number of bodies taken from the mine after what has believed to have been a "local gas explosion."

SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

PITTSBURGH, as is the case in other cities, abounds with noon-day lunch clubs. The business men belonging to these clubs meet every week or every two weeks to have lunch together and, after the dishes are taken away, they sit back and listen to the speaker of the day. The Rotary, the Lions, the Kiwanis, the Co-Operative, the Bond are only a few of the clubs that get together in this fashion. A drawing is usually made with the winner getting a prize. Membership drives are held from time to time to increase the enrollment.

In some of these noon-day clubs an effort is made to form the organization out of one representative out of various lines of endeavor. In fact, we understand that in some of the clubs an undertaker, say, would not be eligible if, for instance, an undertaker already was a member of the club. We mean to say there cannot in some clubs be two men of the same calling. This sometimes brings problems. For instance, a man may join one of the clubs, as an insurance man, and after he joins he may, say, take up selling steel. What, then, happens if the club already has a steel salesman in the organization? Is the former insurance man to lose his membership or is the steel salesman to be ousted? Possibly, there is some solution to this, but that it is a knotty one is shown in a recent book by the president of Rotary, who devoted a very long chapter to this intricacy.

AS A visitor now and then to these luncheon clubs, in the horrid role of speaker, it strikes us occasionally that the noon-day clubs are not all fun. Perhaps this impression comes from the dullness promoted by whatever inanities we pour forth to tortured ears. Yet there must be something greatly attractive about this phase of the business life, for there isn't a day in the week that men don't gather and hear after-luncheon talks.

* * *

At a luncheon the other day we were considerably agitated by the fact that listening in was an educator from Germany, obviously a cultured gentleman who doubtless had wrapped up in him a story that would have enthralled. Yet the poor luncheoners, all because John McCann had invited us, missed the German scholar.

* * *

THAT German, we knew, could have told the luncheoners about Wilhelm the First, about his mother, Queen Louise, about the lately-dethroned Kaiser, about the hard-headed Baron Stein, about Bismarck—stories which would make luncheon clubs highly attractive.

* * *

What could have been pleasanter than to hear the educated German tell how that country adopted the corn flower as the national flower? How about the little prince, destined to be Wilhelm the First, who, upon seeing his mother a refugee, tired and drawn from travel in a rickety cart, went into a nearby field and gathered flowers to present to his mother, with the promise that some day when he grew up he would avenge this trouble she was put to by an ancient foe! The flowers he gathered on that day were corn flowers.

HE MIGHT have told them how a German Queen at a session with Napoleon, when that bad man was getting ready to parcel her country, as he might distribute a firkin of cheese, sort of vamped the Corsican, a story that has many delightful ramifications. Napoleon always kissed the Queen's hand as she entered the meeting. She brought to her cause all the charm and graciousness at her command. On the day that Napoleon kissed her arm the Queen observed to herself: "Now I will save my country."

* * *

These are the stories we should have liked to hear at the luncheon, instead of hollow observations on empty trifles. These are the stories that we hear every now and then when a certain friend of ours delves into a vast store of reading and enthralls us.

TWO STOLEN IDOLS
FRANK L. PACKARD

Bob, Disguised as an Englishman, Meets Verna Lyle

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The body of Tom Kingsley, once a dashing sea-faring adventurer, is picked up in a fragile craft by Capt. "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, off Singapore. Mute evidence on the body testifies to the fact that the man died in a struggle. Tom's brother, Robert, also an old "sea dog," is notified of the death and receives the various articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols. Robert Kingsley has good reasons to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy of the Kingsley family, has returned after thirty years to seek vengeance. Bob Kingsley becomes so over-wrought that he is unable to sleep that night thinking how he will apprehend the murderer of his Uncle Tom. He is disturbed by a creaking noise which comes from the direction of his living room when suddenly the stealthy sound is followed by a crash. Bob leaps from bed prepared for "action."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

AND so he had come aboard as Harvey Moore; and, to obviate the possibility of being recognized by his quarry, though he was satisfied in his own mind that he could not, under the circumstances, have been very distinctly seen that night in the living room at Patua, he had adopted a very simple form of disguise.

Ophthalmia! It was common enough under the scorching sun of the tropics! Nanu, his native mate, had made a rather clever job of it during the trip from Patua on the Alita. Paint and pigment! Behind large colored sun-glasses his eyes looked very sore indeed. Why anything more elaborate? Suspecting nothing, Hsi Yan's men could have no reason for connecting one Harvey Moore, a planter from the interior, who had come aboard at Tahola and was on his way to Singapore for eye treatment, with Bob Kingsley, of Patua, who neither wore sunglasses nor had sore eyes, and whose whole appearance, superficially at least, was quite different from that of the man they had seen only under conditions that would make identification difficult if not impossible in any case!

The Alita, 12 hours ahead of the Monotah, had lain hidden in a little cove a few miles from Tahola until the steamer's arrival. There he had gone ashore, made his way to the diminutive town, and thence, unobstrusively had boarded the Monotah—and within a few minutes thereafter he had met Verna Lyle. The Monotah naturally boasted no such dignified official as a purser—her captain and mates were her booking clerks, her buying and selling agents, and navigation was perhaps the least arduous of their multifarious duties—and it was to one of the mates, Parsons, who since had proved himself to be a somewhat garrulous, though really a genial sort of chap, that he, Bob Kingsley, after introducing himself as Harvey Moore, had applied for accommodations. They had been standing in the ship's small but rather well-lighted saloon, when Verna Lyle had come in. The mate had promptly introduced them.

"Miss Lyle," Parsons had said, "I'd like to introduce Mr. Moore. Mr. Moore is going on with us to Singapore. He's had a bit of a thick time with his eyes, he tells me. Miss Lyle—Mr. Moore. Miss Lyle's making the round trip with us, Mr. Moore."

Bob Kingsley frowned suddenly. The weather undoubtedly wasn't improving any! The Monotah had just given an unusually vicious pitch, and he realized that the folds of tarpaulin which he had carefully arranged in such a manner that, given any light, say from the opening of the door, he would be able to see out into the body of the store-room, were crumpled together again. He rearranged them, working painstakingly by the sense of touch.

Where was he in that mental resume in which he had been indulging? Oh, yes—his introduction to Verna Lyle.

"I am very glad to meet you, Mr. Moore," she had said; and then, after a slight pause: "And I do hope your eyes will be better soon."

That was all. Nothing else. She had at once left the saloon. But she had left him distinctly disturbed. The blandness in the blue eyes as they had met his had seemed to be just a trifle exaggerated. There had been just the hint of a curious little smile on her lips as she had made reference to his eyes; and just a slight inflection, or so it had seemed, in her voice as she had pronounced his name.

Did he know her? He had not known then; he did not know now. He had seen practically nothing of her—had scarcely spoken to her at all since their first meeting. This was due primarily to himself; for, despite the fact that he believed the possibility of being recognized by Hsi Yan's men was extremely improbable, he had not taken any risks where they were concerned. On the plea that the sun hurt his eyes, he had, during the daytime, kept to his cabin and so out of sight of the native passengers on the lower decks—and had turned night into day. On the few occasions, however, when he had met Verna Lyle on deck after nightfall he was distinctly conscious of the fact that she seemed anxious to avoid him.

It was a curious and most strange situation! The gist of it was, however, that if she knew who he was, she had at least kept her own counsel so far as he could tell—and he owed her his very grateful thanks for that. Furthermore he would tell her so some day—if the occasion ever presented itself, and they ever met again when he had settled accounts with Hsi Yan's spawn. That wasn't likely, though. Their lives were too wide apart. He would probably never see her again after the Monotah reached Singapore. Rather too bad! He would have liked to square himself with her. She had amazingly beautiful hands, and she wore less jewelry than any girl he had ever met—not even a ring. Queer that he should have noticed that!

CHAPTER XIII.

THE Monotah performed a series of gyrations that combined a roll to starboard, a sort of corkscrew twist, and a downward plunge at a most unpleasant angle. Bob Kingsley swore fervently under his breath. She was a rotten sea boat! Also, it was beastly stuffy in here, and, with no ventilation, getting worse and worse all the time. It was no joke sticking it out. Why the devil didn't they come? Was he going to draw a blank after all? He couldn't have made a mistake. This was where they had come every night since he had been aboard.

He ought to know! It had taken him two sleepless nights to find out. What a mess those lower decks were, fore and aft! Pigsties! No fault of the ship's officers. It was the same on every boat that ferried the natives around in these parts. They camped on the decks—so why shouldn't they spit betel juice there, too! They did at home! Malays, most of them, on this trip: though there was an Arab or two, and some East Indians, including a gaunt and staring "holy man," who neither ate nor drank, but who perched stolidly on his haunches and was apparently lost for endless hours in contemplation. Damned fraud—that beggar! In the middle of the night when he thought no one was watching he ate enough for a whole village, and wasn't past digging surreptitiously into a sleeping neighbor's rice pot if it happened to be standing nearby! And then there were the five Chinamen—three on the forward deck and two on the after deck, who, rather strangely, never seemed to have anything to do with each other, each one of the five keeping to himself as though he considered his compatriots were beneath his notice.

Bob Kingsley's lips drew tight together. He had watched those Chinamen for two nights. He had stolen out to a secluded spot on the forward lower deck the first night, and had lain down among the smells like any of the sleeping natives around him. It had been simple enough. The deck was in almost complete darkness—but when one's eyes became accustomed to that darkness, one could see a lot. The "holy man," for instance, who, after gorging himself out on the deck, slept—a little noisily. If one was near enough and listened intently enough, one discovered that the man was even mundane enough to snore!

But it was the Chinamen in whom he was interested—and he had not gone unrewarded. A little after midnight on the first night, but at intervals of some five or ten minutes apart, three white forms from three different parts of the deck had risen to their feet, made their way cautiously past the sleeping native passengers, and had disappeared in the narrow alleyway amidships that ran between the forward and after lower decks. Excellent! Of the five Chinamen that he knew to be aboard, this tied up three of them. He had made no effort to follow them, but had taken advantage of their absence from the deck to return to his cabin.

The next night in exactly the same manner he had watched the after deck—and exactly the same thing had happened. The two Chinese passengers on the after deck, at approximately the same hour that the other three Chinamen had left the forward deck the night before, had stealthily and separately disappeared into the same alleyway. That tied up the five of them. About the right number, too! There must have been that many in the fight that night in the living room at Patua.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

"WHEN may I interview the redoubtable Katie?" Philip Veritzen asked smiling when we had decided that the coming Saturday would be the best time for the beach picnic Lillian had already maneuvered him into giving.

"Now, if you wish," I said rising. "I'll send her in to you at once."

"I'll stay to challenge you, Phil," Lillian said saucily, settling herself more comfortably in her chair. "Madge probably won't care to be present while you're arranging the details of the affair. She has a sort of idea in the back of her head that some social error is being spilled somewhere. But I haven't a qualm in my system, and if Katie can't think up enough ways for you to spend your money in the picnic preparations, I'll add a few."

"You are incorrigible," I told her with reproving eyes which she met with a careless laugh. Then I went in search of Katie, telling her briefly of Lillian's plan and of Mr. Veritzen's wish to see her.

"Oh boys, a beach picnic!" She caroled this greeting of my news then suddenly sobered.

"But, Meesis Graham," she protested, "I no can talk to dot old goat . . . He got sooch sharp eyes dey look right down troo my eyes to my toes. I fraid by heem. I get me all mixed oop I no can tell heem anything vot ve have to get."

"You don't need to tell him anything," I reassured her. "He doesn't know anything about a beach picnic and Mrs. Underwood wishes him to be surprised. He simply will tell you how many people he's going to invite—in fact I tell you now—there will be 12 not counting you and Jim. You will tell him how much money the provisions for both lunch and a pirate steak will cost, and he will give it to you. You see I have nothing to do with this. It is Mr. Veritzen's party which he is giving for Mrs. Underwood. It was she who suggested that he turn the arrangements over to you. Come now. Change your apron and come to the library to see Mr. Veritzen."

She grasped my arm, clung to it as if it were a life-line.

"You not leave me in dere alone mit dot old fox!"

"Don't be foolish!" I admonished. "Mr. Veritzen will be very charming and gracious to you, I am sure. But Mrs. Underwood will be in the room all the time you are talking to him. Does that make you feel better?"

"Sure ting," she answered, drawing off her kitchen apron and replacing it with the coquettish little white one which she wears when answering the door. "But I feel best eef you dere."

I made no answer to this flattering comment, and she gave no further objection to the interview. It was Lillian who between chuckles gave me an account of it later when Katie had gone back to her kitchen, and Mr. Veritzen had made his adieux to us.

"It was a perfect scream," she told me. "Katie evidently was almost petrified with fright when she first came in, but you know how charming Phil can be when he wants to exert himself, and when Katie once got over being scared, she patronized Phil in the most delicious manner."

THE effectiveness of face powder depends very largely upon its shade rather than its color.

As a result of a study of hundreds of women seeking screen careers and coming to him made up for the street and not for the screen, Mr. Carewe has come to the conclusion that the use of Houbigant face powders, because of the marvelous Houbigant shades, will make any woman more attractive, since as, he says:

"The Houbigant shades of the various colors in which face powders are made seem to have a virtue exclusive to themselves—and that is the property of endowing the skin with a natural beauty—a sort of lustre that is free from the appearance of being made up and yet, while concealing what should be hidden, brings out and increases all the natural charm."

Houbigant face powder is incomparably soft and adherent. It comes in 6 shades all delightfully fragranced with the smart Houbigant odeurs. At $1.50 and 75c the box. For purse use in the new double compact, $2.50. And incidentally, Quelques Fleurs Skin Lotion is quite the most perfect powder base. 4 oz.—$1.

Epilepsy, One of the Mysteries to Doctors

DR COPELAND

SOME of the world's most famous characters have been subject to "fits." Napoleon had them. Needless to say, the greatness of Napoleon did not result from the disease, but was achieved in spite of it. It is a great affliction.

Epilepsy, or "fits," is what we call a "functional disease." That is, there is no visible or discoverable cause. In Bright's disease, for instance, there can be found perfectly evident changes in the kidney. In fatal heart disease the organic defects of that organ can be found.

But epilepsy is different. Scalpel cannot find or test-tube discover what is wrong. The nervous system is disturbed in some mysterious way. All we know is, that as a result, the victim falls to the ground, unconscious and usually in convulsions.

Some persons who are subject to epileptic attacks have a warning of what is coming. It is brief and so close to the seizure that nothing can be done except to utter a scream or groan. When this familiar sound is heard, it is recognized by the family as a sure sign of what has happened or is about to happen.

On falling to the ground, the victim clenches his hands till his finger nails dig into his palms. He kicks his feet, rolls his eyes upward, and, on account of the disturbed breathing, turns purple in the face.

Quite characteristic of epilepsy is the frothing at the mouth. A foam-like lather gathers on the lips. This may become bloody, because almost always the victim bites his own tongue.

After a few minutes of struggling, the victim awakens to consciousness or else falls into a natural sleep. When he awakens he is perfectly normal, unless there is a feeling of mental distress for a few hours. But, of course, there is is always the fear of recurrence and the knowledge that this attack does not end the miserable trouble.

Much fruitless study has been given this disease. I have seen wonderful improvement follow the correction of eyestrain. The need of glasses for defective sight or to counteract weakness of the eye muscles, may be responsible for the drainage of nerve energy, shown by warning explosions. But alas! in many instances this treatment has failed.

I shall not attempt to mention all the suggested causes of epilepsy, but I do wish to speak about one. Lately there has been much discussion of the relation of pus absorption, particularly from the large intestine, or elsewhere, to the development of functional nerve and brain disease. If I were to study a given case of epilepsy I should not overlook this possible causative factor.

Not only cases of epilepsy, but even cases of insanity have been overcome by directing treatment to pus infection, particularly in the intestines. This is a suggestion worth following up, but, of course, this idea should not result in neglecting a survey of every other organ. In this way the ultimate cause of the seizures may be located and removed.

Answers to Health Queries

N. Y. Z. Q.—What is the cause of a child grinding and gritting her teeth while sleeping?

2.—Is it absolutely necessary to remove tonsils because they are enlarged—not diseased?

A.—Very often it will be found that the child has intestinal or pin worms. The proper treatment will do away with this trouble.

2.—No.

A. J. Q.—What will help to reduce? I have been trying to reduce for three weeks and seem to be very flabby. Does that show results in any way? Are oranges reducing? I am thirty years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall. What should I weigh?

A.—A restricted diet and regular, systematic exercise should bring about results. After the flesh has become flabby exercise will be helpful in taking off the surplus weight and toning up the muscles and tissues. Yes, if not taken in excess. You should weigh about 132 pounds.

M. P. Q.—Can a person feel a floating kidney when it moves?

2.—Will an X-ray show a floating kidney?

A.—Yes, sometimes.

2.—Yes.

★ Simple facts about caring for your teeth and gums

(2) The most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet—known as The Danger Line.

(3) The best product known to neutralize acids in the mouth is Milk of Magnesia.

EVERYONE knows what a real threat decayed teeth or irritated gums can be to physical well-being. But until today, it was difficult to decide what constituted an effective safeguard against this enemy because of the confusion resulting from conflicting theories as to what is correct mouth hygiene.

To put an end to such a condition, E. R. Squibb & Sons caused an investigation to be made. 50,000 dentists were asked to give the results of their experience.

The answers stated that:

(1) Acids are the most frequent cause of tooth decay and irritated gums.

Nothing could point more clearly to the use of Squibb's Dental Cream as the correct way to protect teeth and gums. For Squibb's Dental Cream is made with more than 50 per cent of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. Enough to neutralize the acids at The Danger Line each time you use it, and to neutralize new acids as they form afterwards.

Squibb's Dental Cream cleans beautifully. It relieves sensitive teeth and keeps the gums healthy. It is safe for everyone. 40c a large tube. E. R. Squibb & Sons, New York. Manufacturing Chemists to the Medical Profession since 1858. © 1928

When Lonely Hearts Dream

Neither wealth nor fame can bring the comfort that comes from a baby's smile

Dorothy Flack

Dorothy Flack

HAVE you ever watched the wistful expressions on the faces of people in a train or a trolley car? And have you ever wondered what caused this lonesomeness in faces that should be beaming and happy? I have, and I guess most everyone of us have at some time or other wished they could say "Please don't look so unhappy." Especially on a lonely Spring day when everything's green and flowery and skies are blue as a baby's eyes and little feathery clouds chase each other across the horizen like a flock of playful lambs.

It's because most of these people have lonely hearts. Perhaps beneath a gorgeous gown, or a perfectly tailored suit there's a heart that just aches and cries aloud in its very loneliness. They may have everything material they want, yet there's no comforting arms to hold them, no tiny baby fingers to curl around theirs like a tender roseleaf, no real love to comfort the awful ache.

The most wonderful dream in the world is the dream of one's own home—a home filled with love; a home in which there's no more loneliness nor no more aching heart. And that's why you see so many wistful faces, for that's the dream that they're waiting to have come true, and its realization is the only thing that will bring happiness and joy into a lonely heart.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

MIXED GRILL

NEXT to a millinery window, the hardest thing on earth for a woman to PASS in her thirty-ninth birthday.

The savages cover themselves with paint instead of with clothes—and so do a lot of civilized women.

The husband who strays for love of another woman, may sometimes be reclaimed; but the one who strays for love of amusement will never "stay put" for any woman.

HELEN ROWLAND

Vanity is a gift from a kind Providence. No doubt even a lady baboon secretly fancies that she has "feminine charm" or sex appeal, and a gentleman baboon has a secret conviction that no girl could resist his masterful "way with women."

* * *

The world is still waiting for a fool-proof railroad crossing, a blonde-proof man, and a woman-proof automobile.

Modern young couples don't wait for love to fly out of the window. They treat it so roughly or so carelessly, that it has to be carried out on a stretcher.

* * *

A woman usually wants to KNOW something about a man before she marries him; but the only thing a man seems to want to know about a woman is that he wants to marry her.

* * *

Love always comes to a man as a complete surprise; he feels like a person who has been hit in the dark, and his first thought is to rush for the nearest "exit."

Nobody yet has ever proved that marriage is a failure. Lots of husbands and wives are failures—but then, so are lots of poets, painters, doctors and writers.

The Diary

By LUCY LOWELL

I HEARD about a woman the other day who kept a diary.

Now a diary may be a very fine thing to have by you. In it you may record a wonderful story—more wonderful because it is true. The story of your days.

Oh, yes, those are wonderful. No matter how commonplace, the account of them holding as it must pictures of people and events must be a marvelous thing.

For all life is marvelous. Filled with beauty of however quiet a sort. If you don't believe it try to think of giving it all up—dropping out of life—letting it go—and see how you feel.

But this woman's diary was not a fine thing. She had written it about her husband and in it she had put down all his shortcomings; everything he ever had done or said that was disagreeable and everything he had not done or said that she thought he should have done or said she wrote in her diary.

And after the woman had kept this diary a few years she got to reading it over one day. And that made her so sorry for herself that she went into court and asked the judge to give her a divorce.

The judge did it, too. But some way or other I do not believe it was for the woman's sake. I believe instead that he thought of the husband, always subject to his wife's lust for unhappiness—if it was not that what was it?—always at the mercy of her probing search for his faults.

You can't help feeling sorry for the husband. But it seems to me that the wife is really the more tragic figure of the two.

Of course, every human being has faults; enough of them to make a long list if you want to list them. But every human being also has an equally long list of good qualities and the one who ignores them for the faults is like a person who lives in a room with two windows and chooses to look out on a disagreeable back yard from the one rather than upon a lovely view from the other.

"Wash Dishes to Keep Hands Nice"
Beauty Expert Advises Girls

Girls, perhaps you hate doing the dishes. Listen to what Miss Susan Breslin, teacher in a famous New York beauty school, says—

"Washing dishes makes beautiful hands—provided it is done with pure Lux suds."

Miss Breslin explains that "the very thorough gentle cleansing that one gets from Lux suds is excellent for the skin." She adds:

"However, the good effect of this thorough cleansing is lost and much harm done, if ordinary household soap is used. Such soaps often contain harmful alkalis, which dry up the oils of the skin, leading to wrinkles and coarsening of texture.

"Lux is so mild that it protects the skin oils and soothes the skin.

"My students are trained to use Lux suds in manicuring the nails, and the home woman will find that after doing dishes with Lux, her nails and hands look lovely.

Miss Susan Breslin

"There are few beauty secrets so easy and inexpensive to follow and few that give such wonderful results as the use of Lux for dishes."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, May 25

CONFLICTING testimonies astrologically are found in this day's chart of the heavens. While there is a presage of much liveliness, with attendant financial movement, yet there are auguries of hostile and subtle attitudes in personal affairs as well as relative to important new adventures. A slight but unwelcome change is indicated and also there is a warning against accident or fire.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of contradictory conditions, with some signs of great activity, with corresponding financial gains, but also some hazards and inharmonies in business, personal affairs and in dangers to the person or property. With supreme caution there may be fine success.

A child born on this day should be clever, active and ambitious, well qualified for big things, but only under the protection of calmness and keen acumen in management.

He has not learned the lesson of life who does not each day surmount a fear. —EMERSON.

To lend to your face the even-toned really smooth skin you must have a perfect powder base.

FOR THE LOVELORN

In Doubt

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been keeping company for the past six months with a young man four years my senior. He graduated recently from high school and since that time I have neither seen nor heard from him. I think a great deal of him and my parents approve, so his behavior has been a shock to me. Lately I have seen him with another girl, and whether his actions are due to anything I did is beyond me. I await your advice.

IN DOUBT.

If you are sure you did nothing to offend this boy, then I am afraid you must simply accept the fact that he is interested in someone else.

Wondering

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been a reader of your column for some time and think you give wonderful advice, and have come to you. I am a girl of 17 and in love with two boys. They say they love me and try to make dates. I am not sure which one I love best. I think of them all the time. What way do you think I can find out which one I love best, dear Miss Gale? One is so jealous of me. Please give me some advice.

WONDERING.

If you don't know which you like the better, keep them both as friends and don't worry about preferences.

TRADER HORN -- THE GREATEST STORY OF ADVENTURE OF MODERN TIMES

In the Midst of a Gay Rum Party Nina Makes a Dive And Is Carried to Safety

What Has Gone Before.

The 73-year-old Trader Horn, writing of the exciting days of his youth in equatorial Africa, has recounted the absorbing story of his discovery that the White Goddess of the Isogas is the daughter of an Englishman of aristocratic family. His plans to rescue her from the cannibal tribe, with the aid of a schoolboy friend, Little Peru, have been completed. Failure to get safely away means they all will be staked out to be eaten alive by ants.

Ready for a Stiff Fight.

By ALFRED ALOYSIUS HORN

Edited by ETHELREDA LEWIS.

CHAPTER XL.

IT WAS about 8 p. m. when we resumed our journey, and we felt fit for anything. I pulled up at the small island of reeds and, landing with Renchoro, I showed him the path and likewise where he could hide himself and see and not be seen. I had all these things studied out, the distance to the sacred spring was about half a mile or a little more from the main river.

ALFRED A. HORN

I ordered him to keep the boys from landing and let them know nothing of our intent till they found it all out for themselves, in case of accident of course we knew what to do.

He understood what I had said and played his part well. I had explained all to Peru so that he understood exactly his part in this one important act of his life.

On landing we found the place very quiet as they had just had a great ceremony, the invoking of Renungo the rain god who had finally after much supplication granted their request for early rain fall.

Following the sacred chief one by one came the whole male portion of his attendants. They invited us to make ourselves at home and inquired if we had brought the musical box which they would very much like to hear.

And Renchoro now appeared with a traful of rum and old dom about as stupefying a mixture as one could drink, thanks to the advice of my friend Mr. Schutz (Schiff?) it acted splendidly but of course he had no idea what I wanted the liquor for.

All fair in love and war is an old true saying. The musical box was brought in by Renchoro and we were soon having a royal time.

The liquor had its effect which was marvelous. The man who wore the big goggle-eyed mask and generally stood next to the Isoga was soon more than happy, we let them play away to their heart's content.

The old Sacred Chief and master of ceremonies now asked when we were going to let him have it as he was sure it contained the music of many friendly spirits. I told him we would leave it till we returned which would be in about 12 days, as we were going to Gaboon on business, and he could tell by that time if the spirits inside the box were to his liking.

He felt overjoyed at our generosity and declared that I had already done much good by my visits to the temple as my presents had helped them out very much in their sacred work. I said I was quite willing to lend a helping hand at any time to such a good cause.

At this stage of the play Nina entered, looking, if possible, more beautiful than before. I watched her eye the assemblage with a smile; we were all happy and smiling. I gave her the glad eye and then shut one without being noticed, also raised one hand above my head containing a small blue silk handkerchief.

She threw me a look I could not mistake and she also touched one eye. She had understood; she was ready any time. I ordered more drinks for the faithful and bade them all a good aurevoir, telling them I would be sure to call on my return. We now retired, leaving the lot merry as sandboys.

Nina Dives Off

Once clear of the place I lost no time; it was dark, only what light the stars gave, and our knowledge of the surroundings guided us as we pulled away without making a single sound, and entering the reeds I jumped ashore, Renchoro took his stand where I had told him accompanied by 10 rifle men.

Peru remained in the boat with the remainder all ready for action on the call of Renchoro. I now crept slowly and noiselessly to the place agreed upon by myself and the Godess. It was so dark I could just see her figure in white sitting on the bank. I threw some mud in the water and waited. I could hear her giving her female attendant orders to fetch something from the meeting house. I heard her maid walk away.

Several moments after this the white object hit the water which was deep, making a beautiful dive scarcely audible. I waited quite a few seconds but could see no motion of any kind but now a slight breathing struck my ear. Her head which I could see quietly disappeared again.

I crept to the point and waiting a few seconds out popped the head of the Godess. She held out her arm which I caught and still crouching she landed beside me. She took a few breaths for a second or two and quickly came to. She was a splendid diver.

We now crept noiselessly forward keeping close to the ground and were soon out of danger of anyone seeing us from the other bank of the creek which widened here. I told her to rest a while, but she was too excited to understand and was breathing heavily.

Springing to her feet she ran for the boat at great speed, waving the stiletto she had drawn from her belt high above her head. I kept close to her, as she reached the rushes, she fell heavily, unconscious, dropping the stiletto. I carried her to the boat and gently handed her to Peru, who placed her on the bunk in the small cabin forward.

Safe Getaway

Renchoro and his men quickly boarded and we darted out into the river, heading for the opposite bank where the channel was wider and swifter.

Leaving Nina in charge of my friend I kept the night glasses on the mouth of the creek until we were well away past Isogas town, and had also passed into the wide channel of the river. I saw no moving object and heard no sound, and as we moved at great speed down stream which was continually widening, I made sail and made sure that no dangerous craft would follow. I was with sail and paddles working well the swiftest boat on the river.

I felt supremely happy. I had won so far against the terrible despot Isoga who I knew would not dare to follow me, and this he well knew even if his people had now been aroused.

I told the crew to take things easy and Renchoro to give them each a tot of the best brandy we had, and took one myself on my good luck in having made such an easy capture.

Temples of Africa

"George Bussey used to say the end of a book is the moment of delicacy.

"Aye, the finale's the thing. But at all periods of composition you should be able to detract from the subject now and then, George Bussey says. Glance away from it and let the mind float free. Doesn't do just to say 'They were married on board ship.' To leave out some pretty little vision of the weather and the sea-birds would be to miss out one of the greatest ingredients of life, which is—natural environment.

"India? Do I know India? I've never set foot in it, Ma'am. I should have thought the world as I've seen it was big enough for one book, without India.

"They tell me there are temples there. But hasn't Africa temples? Didn't I tell you about the one near Georgetown, somewhere opposite Parrot Island? Isn't there Zimbabwe, built by the Malagassies, a race of close texture with the Hindus, and the Incas of Peru? There's some on the Lake Chad road, too, like that of Georgetown. Who says we've no temples?

"And if it's temples you're wanting, what about the one I told you is up the S—— River? A flight of steps right up from the river. An amphitheater at the top and big granite squares at the bottom, where you keep cool and look at the water or any sacrifice there may have been.

"Sheba's country I've heard it called. And some called it the Watch Walls of the Dead. Any amount of graves up there. We'd stumble on them in the thick grass and the bush. Made with a keystone so that no wild beast could crumble when opened. Graves of the gold-seekers, that's what they are. There's always relics of gold-seekers somewhere about. Relics of their toil—old prospectors.

"'Graves of the Gold-Seekers.' A snappy title that, if ever I'd thought to write about men. Look well in print. Oh, aye—don't you go giving out that Africa has no temples! If it's temples you're needing, just stay where you are. There's more than you think. Aye."

The Spark Of Human Life Found In The Blood Stream

By DR. N. B. NOLL

This subject matter being on the radio, Station KQV, and in most all newspapers surrounding Pittsburgh, in order to give the public a correct viewpoint and the sick an opportunity to benefit by the discovery of Blood Cell Protein Serum, that has been used so successfully here for the past six years, causes me to feel it a duty to make a statement of Clinical facts that I have gathered from year to year after treating thousands of those who were seriously afflicted. I have found these serums to be a great deal more than they have ever been recommended and the most dependable and reliable force that can be administered, thereby giving the supposedly incurable, chronic cases not only a new lease on life, but a clean, healthy blood stream to take care of every internal organ. I have never allowed my name to go before the public, but I feel that I would be derelict in my duty to suffering mankind, not to say that I can conscientiously indorse every Serum administered at this Laboratory.

The discovery of Blood Cell Protein Serum has shortened the period of cleansing the blood stream. It furnished the nutriment which the blood requires—put directly into the blood stream, strengthens it, cleanses it and restores its normal functions. The principal object of this Laboratory is to restore health to suffering men and women and thereby enable them to earn a livelihood.

We are successfully treating High Blood Pressure, Rheumatism, Asthma, Anemia, Nervous and Stomach Troubles, Debility, Psoriasis, Eczema, Acne, Varicose Veins, Diabetes.

CHILLY SAUCE

BY CHILLY DOYLE

MANAGER DONIE BUSH of the Pirates was on the point of protesting yesterday's game in Cincinnati when Wally Pipp batted in the ninth. A mix-up of shortstops and pinch-hitters brought a confused condition that led to a big argument at the plate.

THE confusion had its inception in the ninth after Ford walked. Zitzman ran for Ford and eventually scored the tying run. Ford then was out of the game. Pittinger, a shortstop, ran for Kelly in the same inning. Then the sub went to the shortfield, but on the officials' sheets he stood as the third batter in the lineup on account of running for Kelly. Pipp took Kelly's place at first, but had to bat seventh. After the thing was cleared up Bush realized the procedure was O. K.

COMOROSKY'S attempt to haul in Allen's questioned double was a praiseworthy effort. The flying Pole was doing his best when his feet hit the embankment near the foul line. The upward turn of the ground seemed to jostle the ball out of his hand. There was some question whether the drive was fair or foul, but the umpire decided in favor of the Reds.

THE Ohio Bankers' Convention added to the attendance, there being more than 6,000 present. Added to the fact that the Reds were on top, was an incentive for local fans. The Rhinelanders are all worked up about their club. There is no doubt

GROGAN CUP MATCH GETS UNDER WAY

BEST SOUTHPAW

James A. Ralston, one of the foremost left-handed golfers in the United States and unquestionably the best in Western Pennsylvania who participated in the Grogan Cup matches at Highland Country Club yesterday.

"WELCOME TO OUR LINKS"

When the first 18-hole round of the annual 36-hole Grogan Cup match was played at the Highland Country Club yesterday, President Harry Hetzel (left), of the home club, welcomed President L. A. Hubach, of the Shannopin Country Club and his golfing members to his links. They were snapped by the cameraman as they greeted each other.

REAL VETERAN

John Porter, one of the first amateur champions of Western Pennsylvania, is shown above in action as he appears today, many years after he won his first title. He still plays a mean game, and always is numbered among the competitors in the Grogan Cup competition.

Victor New Bantam King

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 24.—(AP.)—The mantle of bantamweight king fell about the shoulders of Bushy Graham, fleet little phantom from Utica, N. Y., after a 15-round victory last night over Corporal Izzy Schwartz, boss of New York state flyweights.

A year ago last January Graham took his first shot at the title, then held by Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, and was beaten after Rosenberg forfeited his title on the weighing-in scales and came into the ring far above the bantam poundage. Last night the situation was reversed exactly, for the spunky little corporal made 111½ pounds, less than the weight of his devision, while Graham toted 118.

It was the old, old ring story of a good little man giving pounds to a good bigger man, and falling by the wayside when he did so. Izzy, a gallant little figure, holding his own most of the way through the first 10 rounds, tired rapidly after the tenth session. In the fourteenth Graham floored him for a count of nine with a volley of left and right smashes to the chin. Schwartz just managed to keep his feet under a solid hammering through the final three minutes.

Through the first 10 rounds there was little to choose between the tiny warriors.

Izzy boxed on even terms with his dancing rival, shot enough lefts to the head and right counters to the chin to win the third, seventh and eighth rounds. The fourth and ninth were even, but the rest merely piled up to contribute to Bushy's margin until he made it decisive with that clean cut knockdown in the fourteenth round.

FANS CHEER VERDICT

There was not a mark on Graham's body at the close, and though the 18,000 fans cheered the decision, they hooted earlier in the night when Bushy, taking a clean right hand shot at his rival after the bell, nearly floored him in between rounds.

Graham, under a recent ruling of the National Boxing Association, will take the place of Bud Taylor, terror of Terre Haute, who was disciplined recently in the 28 states of the association for failure to defend his title. The New York State Athletic Commission, another outstanding boxing body, also ruled that the winner of last night's fight would be recognized the 118-pound king.

BAKER WINS DECISION

Sammy Baker, Mitchel Field soldier, won the right to fight Joe Dundee for the welterweight championship by defeating Nick Testo of Troy in a 10-round semi-final. The New York commission decided to recognize the winner as Baltimore Joe's next opponent in this state.

The fans greeted the decision with boos that lasted until the main bout after Testo had floored the soldier twice in the second round with left hooks to the chin. The first clout put Sammy on the floor for nine. He rose immediately after the second knockdown.

The Associated Press chart gave Testo six rounds and Baker three, with one even.

BUCS MEET CUBS HERE TODAY

HONOR PAUL WANER JUNE 23

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS
BEST IN PITTSBURGH THURSDAY, MAY 24, 1928

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Bush May Take Further Steps to Make Bucs Play Ball of Which They Are Capable—Misfortune and Ill Luck Hurt Club for Time, But There's Not Enough "Bearing Down" Now.

YOU may take it for granted that Manager Donie Bush, even though he did not make it public beyond mere baseball results, had plenty of ground for the action he took at Cincinnati in banning all evening entertainment for the Pirates, In other words he knew what he was doing.

And you may rest assured that he will take further steps in the same direction if the tightening of the club rules on the road does not cure the Pirates of a few things that have appeared to be causing the loss of a percentage of their ball games that is entirely too high in view of their known strength and ability.

Donie Bush.

ANOTHER defeat was suffered yesterday in spite of the enforcement of new evening conditions on Tuesday, but if the slump continues, Manager Bush may be depended upon to keep cracking the whip until he succeeds in convincing some of his athletes that they are being paid to try to win a second pennant instead of enjoying a year of easy stuff to celebrate their victory of 1927.

That the Pirates have suffered from injuries, ill luck and bad breaks is not to be denied, Until the Cincinnati series they seemed to be merely the victims of misfortune, and the fans were giving them the necessary moral support, but the manner in which some of the games were lost while the Bucs were dropping four out of five to the Reds was clearly not in keeping with the known powers of the Pittsburgh club.

YESTERDAY'S defeat was another illustration of how games are being frittered away. Instead of playing like champions, the Freebooters have been performing like a tail-end outfit. If the pitching is good the batting is poor and the fielding is leaky enough to give the enemy as many runs as it needs to win. If the fielding and hitting show a slight improvement, the pitching by one or two star members of the staff is off color. In the final game at Cincinnati yesterday the Rovers got an unfavorable break in having Paul Waner's home run come with the bases empty, but they threw away enough runs later to have won the game easily. In the eighth inning the Pirates got only one run on a base on balls, two singles and an error, as a result of Paul Waner's being caught off first base, and in the ninth they scored only one tally on a double and two singles and a fly that was long enough to enable a runner to go from second to third.

LIKE many another club in the past, the Pirates seem to be suffering from too much confidence after the capture of the pennant. Flag winners get the idea in the following season that they are the class of the league, and that they can win again without half trying or without being as careful as usual about their manner of living during the course of the fight.

Del Bissonnette.

EVERY club that has made the mistake of being overconfident and of letting things run loosely after a year of pennant success has found its mistake a fatal one. It will not be different in the case of the Pirates if they do not pull themselves together.

Of the six games lost out of nine played in Cincinnati so far, five were dropped by one run, but that narrow margin of defeat does not always represent a bad break. Often it means that the losing club was unsteady at some critical stage or unequal to an opportunity to win.

WELL, here's a chance to turn over a new leaf and begin to climb again. Joe McCarthy's Cubs are in town for a series, and thus far the Bruins have been the easiest picking in the league for the locals, the Bushmen having won five of the seven games played The Bucs won their last four tilts with the Windy City outfit. Since their latest appearance here the Bruins have set up the season's record by winning 13 games in a row, but they came here for the present series with a mark of three straight defeats against them.

EXPERIENCED baseball fans, as a general rule, are unwilling to place any great amount of confidence in big batting averages made in the spring by newcomers in the big leagues, as they have so often seen such players prove false alarms a few weeks later that they do not take anything for granted, realizing that the acid test is yet to come.

It looks as if an exception may be made in the case of one new slugger this spring, however, that player being Del Bissonnette, the new first baseman of the Brooklyn team.

Joe McCarthy.

BISSONNETTE had a reputation as a slugger before he joined the Robins, and he has lived up to it so consistently against major league pitching that it is reasonably safe to conclude that he is merely traveling at a normal gait and will keep it up during the campaign.

IN short, Bissonnette, who is a reformed pitcher, appears to be a born slugger, who is capable of hitting in any company. Ed Murphy reports that Brooklyn fans have hailed him as Jacques Fournier's successor as the club's long-distance hitter. Del is second only to Hack Wilson in home runs in the Heydler organization, and leads all other flailsmen in the league in hits and total bases of hits. His average is .336.

That he is not hitting over his head is indicated by his record with the Buffalo club of the International League last year. He batted .365 in 166 games, making 31 home runs, 20 triples and 46 doubles.

NATIONAL LEAGUE pitchers, who have a healthy respect for Bissonnette's swatting powers, have discovered that it is exceedingly dangerous to throw him a slow ball. He hits 'em a mile. They have tried him on high fast curves, only to see him turn them into base hits, and they have been equally unsuccessful in attempting to get low curves past his bat. Del has been known to swing at a curve ball, miss it by a foot, and then wallop another of the same kind for an extra-base hit. He is a batter of the type that the pitchers have listed as "always dangerous."

THE announcement from Boston last night that Jack Slattery had resigned as manager of the Braves and that Rogers Hornsby had been appointed to succeed him could

ROYALTY DESERTS GAMES

AMSTERDAM, Holland, May 24.—(AP.) — International sporting circles were prone to speculation today as to just why Queen Wilhelmina of this country is absenting herself from Holland at the advent of the Olympic games.

The queen has presented her excuses for her inability to attend the opening Olympic ceremonies, assigning as a reason the information that she will be in Sweden a the time.

Word was received from Sweden today, that the king of that country desires seven rooms reserved for himself and members of his family during the games, and the question has arisen as to just why if Queen Wilhelmina will be absent for a while she does not return with the Swedish monarch at least for the opening of the games.

The current explanation, and one which is finding general acceptance, is that the queen desires to avoid giving offense to Dutch religious circles which object to athletic contests on Sundays and which would see in the queen's attendance at the opening of the games her approval of such.

FRANK HUNTER BEATEN

AUTEUIL, France, May 24.—(AP.)—Ronald Boyd and W. E. Robson, Argentina, defeated the American-Australian team of Francis T. Hunter and Norman E. Brookes in the International Hardcourt tennis championships today, 6-4, 6-3, 6-8, 6-1. Hunter and Boyd exchanged terrific drives across the net, while Robson and Brookes provided excellent finesse at lobbing.

Two game youngsters, Sidney Wood of the United States and Edmond Blanc, III, of France, were defeated by J. C. Gregory and C. H. Kingsley of England, 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. The added years of the two losers total only 34, but they fought hard for every point and succeeded in taking one set from their experienced opponents.

NAMED TEAM MANAGER

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—(AP.)—Samuel M. Peacock, former president of the Middle States Lawn Tennis Association, has been appointed manager of the United States Davis Cup team.

St. Louis Gridders Fast

By TOM BIRKS.

ALL soccer roads will lead to the Bridgeville Speedway Saturday when the soccer classic of the season brings the St. Louis Municipal champions to Pittsburgh opposed to Heidelberg, Western Pennsylvania champs, in the interests of the miners' relief fund.

Much has been written during the last decade regarding the prowess of the Mound City clubs, the way they play American soccer and the speed they flash in the game. Fans of Western Pennsylvania, however, have never conceded the idea that St. Louis is supreme in the playing of soccer from an American angle, and Heidelberg's defeat by a 2 to 1 score in the Olympic eliminations at St. Louis did not change the att-

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

LAFF this one off,

A little more than a year ago, Bushy Graham fought Charley (Phil) Rosenberg for the bantamweight championship.

Rosey failed to make the weight and was stripped of his crown, but Graham was told he must go ahead and beat the new featherweight to win the bantamweight title. He failed to make the grade against the weight handicap and after it was all over was suspended for a year, along with Rosenberg, because they had some secret understanding about how their money was to be divided.

Last night Graham was sent against Corp. Izzy Schwartz, the flyweight champion, and told by the commission that he would be recognized as the successor to the vacant bantamweight throne if he could lick the little flyweight.

I may be all wrong, but if this isn't the most illogical line of reasoning at which the commission has yet arrived, then I hope never to be called upon to try to unravel any of its future mental meanderings.

A guy must beat either a featherweight or a flyweight to become bantamweight champion! And suppose he should beat a man in his own class, what then? Why, that would make him a scoofer.

CORSAIRS LOSE 4-3 DUEL TO REDLEGS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

DISAPPOINTED, but not discouraged, the Pirates are back in town. This afternoon at Forbes Field the Bushwhackers will try to take it out on the Cubs, who are to be the guests at Forbes Field for the remainder of the week.

Burleigh Grimes and Ralston Hemsley will be the Pirate battery in the first clash with the Cubs. Joe McCarthy is likely to throw Charlie Root or Art Nehf at the home team. Eddie Mulligan will continue at second base for the Pirates in place of the ailing Sparky Adams who is still too weak for action. Sparky, however, returned with the club this morning.

The Buccos fought like real fighters in the finale with the Reds but at the finish of 10 intense rounds the Oaklanders had to swallow the bitter pill of defeat, it being the fourth time in the five-game series

NEW CASTLE HONORS MARATHONER EARL DILKS

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 24.—Earl Lin Dilks, the New Castle entry in the Pyle cross-country derby, on Tuesday evening was welcomed by a crowded house at the Scottish Rite Cathedral. He was compelled to pull out of the race because of a pulled tendon and returned home recently.

The affair was planned by the local Booster's Association, organized while Dilks was still in the race and for the purpose of furnishing him with funds. He was presented with a check for $459.25, the balance of the fund raised by popular subscription to help him in the race. He stated that he planned to continue to train diligently and to repay the citizens of New Castle for their kindness by winning some future race event.

Oh, if you only knew this time a week ago what you know now about the Kentucky derby, what a potential millionaire you would be!

Bull Brown, the local umpire-fight judge, postcards from Los Angeles, which is one of the jerkwater stops in the Pacific Coast League, in which Bull is working this season, that he ran across Bill Heckman out there the other day and Bill reminded him of home because he, too, is from Pittsburgh.

Reigh Count, winner of the Kentucky derby, will clash with Victorian, winner of the Preakness and the Withers stakes, in the Belmont at Belmont Park, Saturday, June 9. Earl Sande, Laverne Fator, Pony McAtee, Sonny Workman, Alfred Johnson, Johnny Maiben and Coltiletti, who were among the star jockeys who did not have mounts in the derby, are likely to be in competition with the derby riders in this event and it will be interesting to note their work against that of Chick Lang, the Canuck, on Reigh Count.

Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, have been rematched for next Monday night at Philadelphia, when their bout will be officially recognized as being for the state flyweight championship. The last time the pair met, at Motor Square Garden, Davies did a lot of fighting and Wolgast a lot of running, but Wolgast got the decision.

If all Joe Dundee has to beat to retain his world welterweight title this summer is Sammy Baker, in the latter's below par form, then Baltimore Joe has nothing to worry about. Baker has slumped badly in the last few months and didn't even convince the fans that he was Nick Testo's master in their bout last night.

CHAMPION VAULTER MAY BE ENTRY

By JESS CARVER.

GRANTED the very necessary boon of fair weather, the University of Pittsburgh will offer to the tristate district what will just about be the banner scholastic track and field meet of the year on Saturday afternoon. The occasion will be the twenty-fifth annual Pitt interscholastics, always one of the three big meets of the district's school track and field campaign.

Pitt officials are making plans to accomodate some 800, very possibly 900, athletes from all over the tristate district. Efforts are being made to induce Salem, O., high school to send its team back to Pittsburgh for another meet, for on that team is a world champion—none other than Lowell (Rib) Allen, holder of the world's scholastic pole vault record of 13 feet, 1¼ inches.

The Big Red team from Parkersburg, W. Va., with a brother of the famous Gibby Welch included, will make a strenuous bid for the championship trophy. Young Welch, who holds the West Virginia state record for the discus throw, and is an all-around star like his brother, is the scoring ace of the team.

Washington, Pa., with Bill Miller still running on two legs, looms as one of the most likely victors, although Beaver Falls, Parkersburg, Steubenville, South Brownsville and Greensburg and Monongahela will furnish as much opposition as Washington will desire.

TRACKERS IN BOSTON.

Coach Frank Shea and five Pitt track and field stars are in Boston for the Intercollegiate, which opens there tomorrow. Coach Shea and his entourage left last night. The Panthers will be well represented in the blue ribbon college meet, with Gibby Welch, Don Gwinn, Vic Pickard, Ken Wibecan and Knoblock striving for places.

Juniata College's varsity tennis team succumbed to the flashing racquets of the Panther varsity yesterday afternoon on the Stadium courts by a score of five matches to one. The lone victory came in the doubles when Augstadt and Ellis downed Wunderlich and Westervelt, 6-2, 6-2. The summary:

SINGLES

Baur, Pitt, defeated Flory, Juniata, 6-2, 6-2; J. O'Loughlin, Pitt, defeated Augstadt, Juniata, 6-1, 6-1; Cable, Pitt, defeated Harley, Juniata, 6-1, 6-3; Lauler, Pitt, defeated Ellis, Juniata, 6-1, 6-3.

DOUBLES

Baur and Cable, Pitt, defeated Flory and Harley, Juniata, 6-1, 9-11, 6-4; Augstadt and Ellis, Juniata, defeated Wunderlich and Westervelt, Pitt, 6-2, 6-2.

LIONS OFF FOR CAMBRIDGE

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 24.—Carrying the hopes of Penn State in the coming intercollegiate track and field championships at Harvard, 13 Nittany Lion runners and field men left here last night for Cambridge. The Lions finished in second place in the championships at Philadelphia last year, scoring 27 points and leading all other Eastern teams. With the loss of several point winners through graduation last June, the chances of the team to repeat are remote, although there are several individual stars in the ranks this season. Captain Dick Bartholomew, Bill Cox, and Al Bates are the chief hopes of the Lions.

The men who left last night under the direction of Coach Nate Cartmell and George Fencil, student manager, were: Captain Bartholomew, Bates, Filkins, and Karback, dash men; Eggers, hurdler; Davis and Kittle, half-milers; Cox, Offenhauser, Helffrich, Haskins and Lee, milers and two-milers, and Morrill, hammer thrower.

NOTES of the BOXERS

ANOTHER championship fight is scheduled for New York tonight. Tod Morgan, the junior-lightweight champion, defending his title against Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, former bantamweight champion, over the 15-round route in Madison Square Garden. Santiago Zorilla meets Dominick Petrone, Harry Ebbets clashes with Laddie Lee and Ernie Jarvis battles Frisco Grande in the eight-round preliminaries.

Johnny Michaels, local featherweight, boxes Pat Daley in a 10-round bout at Fort Thomas, Ky., tonight, and Tommy (Kid) Murphy meets Kid Lencho and Young Terry McGovern engages Jimmy Neil in bouts at Cincinnati.

Eight amateur bouts will be presented as the final show of the season by the North Side A. C. in German Masonic Hall, North Side, tonight. Cowboy DeLuca and Bill Ortlieb will box the main bout.

Cuddy DeMarco and Young Rudy will appear in bouts on a smoker boxing card under the auspices of the Palmer A. C., in Slovak hall, Donora, next Monday night.

The employes of Kaufmann's will stage an amateur boxing show at the Y. M. H. A. Saturday night.

Mike Dundee and Joey Medill meet in the main bout of the first open-air boxing show of the season in Chicago tonight.

HEENEY TO BE SECOND

NEW YORK, May 24.—(INS.)—Tom Heeney, challenger for Gene Tunney's heavyweight crown, will act as George Courtney's second when the Oklahoma middleweight fights Jack McVey, local Negro, in a 10-round bout here tomorrow night. Heeney formerly was Courtney's sparring partner.

Nurmi Not to Meet Ray in Olympics

AMSTERDAM, Holland, May 24.—(AP.)—The Dutch Olympic committee has received word that Paavo Nurmi, the great Finnish athlete, whose participation in the 1928 games had been considered doubtful, will enter the 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000-meter flat races and the hurdle events.

The other Finnish stars, including Willie Ritola, Albin Stenroos, the 1924 marathon winner, and E. Vilen, hurdler, are reported in excellent condition.

Nurmi's program dispels the suggestion that he might also try the marathon this year, meeting Joie Ray, the new American hope. Paavo's friends in America, however, believe he is saving his marathon efforts for the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles.

Nurmi, four-time winner and individual running hero of the 1924 Olympics at Paris, will attempt to conquer a new field, the hurdles, if developments bear out the word sent to Amsterdam. Presumably Paavo would select the 400-meter low hurdles, but it is doubtful whether the Finnish phantom has speed enough for this short event.

The hurdle entry, it is believed, may refer to the steeplechase, which involves a degree of hurdling over various barriers. Ritola won this event in 1924 as well as the 10,000 meter flat race, and it is assumed he will defend both championships.

tude. Pittsburghers still feel that Heidelberg as Western Pennsylvania champion can take the Western team's measure.

Saturday at the Speedway the fans will see Heidelberg get a chance to prove that St. Louis' defeat was all wrong. Manager Finnegan is bringing the best club St. Louis can get together to stop Heidelberg in their own back yard. It should be the greatest game ever played in this district. The St. Louisians have wonderful speed and will depend upon that to again defeat the Green and Gold cracks.

The game is scheduled to start at 4:30 daylight savings time, 3:30 standard time.

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP.)—Paul Berlenbach, former light-weight champion of the world, will never box again in New York if the boxing commission acts on the recommendation of Deputy Commissioner Daniel H. Skilling, official observer at the Queensboro Stadium, where Berlenbach met Larry Estridge Tuesday.

In his official report on the bout Skilling recommended that the licenses of both Berlenbach and Estridge be revoked, saying that both boxers are physically unfit for further ring work.

SANDLOT BASEBALL

by TOM BIRKS

ONE of the feature games of the week will find the North Side Civics meeting the St. John's nine at Sullivan Field this evening. Much excitement will be flashed before the game is over, for the Salt Work's club is anxious to stop the winning streak of the Strip nine.

Manager McGrady is expected to send Lefty Tits to the mound with Rosemyer in reserve.

NOTES of interest on local sandlots during the week: J. L. Thomas, the Bloomfield sportsman, sitting on a camp stool out in right field watching Zappa's charges against the Reinekers.—Jimmie Black, idol of the North Side and mentor of the Traders when they function, sitting on Homewood's bench pulling for Bimmy Steele—Black and Steele are old friends.—Johnny Jones, ward chairman around the Beltzhoover district, trying to find a policeman to keep back the crowd in left field at McKinley Park. Finally found the officer among the crowd cluttering up the foul line.

WALLY SMITH, the Reineker star, pulled one of his famous second base throwouts against Thomas. Wally is a star of other years, but still leads the way to most of the local second basemen.

IS IT necessary for a pitcher to step on the rubber before pitching? Send all answers to Manager Jock Collete of the J. W. Reinekers. The best answer will get the well-known cream puff.

TWO more big battles in the County League are carded this evening. Homewood will make its initial appearance of the season at Bellevue, meeting the Greenough aggregation.

Dormont will play at Beltzhoover. The McKinley Park boys seems invincible on that lot and Leo Carroll will have to step to beat Hite's hitting aggregation.

FRANK ANTHONY is becoming the most valuable player in the County League. Wago was the outstanding figure in the Beltzhoover debacle Monday evening. The little second baseman gathered four hits off Charlie Robleder and did not seem to have any trouble doing it.

THE class of the Homestead Grays was more than emphasized in the Bellevue game. That slugging lineup gathered together by the North Boro's management got three hits, and the Grays, to show their vaunted slugging, kicked in with plenty of bingles. Bellevue imported a pitcher for the game, but it might as well have been Art Shaw or Carl Stewart for all the impression he made upon Posey's hitters.

IT DOES not seem as if the Grays are going to be beaten by any local club this season. Of course the Grays have been beaten and will lose other games, but it will not be the clubs around the Pittsburgh district that will turn the trick. There does not seem to be any weakness in Posey's club. The club has the same pitching, which was always good, and the hitting has been strengthened by the presence of Beckwith and Dehigo in the lineup.

as to the spirit of the Reds. Jack Hendricks has his men hustling on every play.

EDDIE MULLIGAN came within a few feet of putting the game on ice in the ninth. A wind blowing in from left field seemed to keep the long drive of Eddie's bat from cracking against the left field fence with two men on base. Purdy ran back to the embankment and caught the ball.

BUSH used all three of his catchers in an attempt to swing the decision to the Pirates. Brickell and Bartell ran for Smith and Gooch, Hemsley finishing the game. There's a catcher that will not yield for many runners. The coal miner is almost as fleet as the team's swiftest players.

PAUL WANER'S first homer of the season, unlike Brother Lloyd's four-sacker, was a terrific wallop that carried into the rightfield seats of the Redland Park. Paul's rocket rode into the seats on the carry, a fence in front of the seating section making it very hard to get one over on a bound. The feat is very rare.

BABE RUTH, in an exhibition game here, drove one over the center field fence, the swat being the equivalent of a drive over the center fence in Pittsburgh. But there is nobody close to Ruth in getting distance on his four-baggers.

Carr, Ross Blue's Stars

By CHARLEY PADDOCK.

BOSTON, May 24.—The greatest college athletes of the country are gathered here in Boston for the annual I. C. A. A. A. A. track and field championships, which opens in the Harvard Stadium tomorrow. So national a representation is present that this great meet might very easily act as an Olympic tryout. To a certain extent it will be that. Head Coach Lawson Robertson and his staff of associate coaches will be watching almost 50 per cent of their coming Olympic team in action when they see these college stars tomorrow and Saturday.

The favorite team is, of course, Stanford University. With five great shot putters, Krenz, Way, Rothert, Forster and Fleshhaker and with Krenz, the outstanding discus star in college circles, Stanford hopes to get such a commanding lead in the weights that a few upsets here and there will not be very damaging.

Bob King is the favorite to win the high jump and Bud Spencer is a likely first place candidate in the quarter. However, the long trip may have hurt the chances of Stanford's ace. Nichols is as good as any hurdler in the field in both the high and low stick events, while Ward Edmonds, in the pole vault, is second only to Carr, of Yale, and Barnes, of Southern California. Stanford can hardly fail to score at least 31 points.

On the eve of the games, Yale has suddenly outplanted Cornell as the best hope of the East. Though the Ithaca team has shown great dual-meet strength and splendid possibilities in the weights, and has the indoor intercollegiate title to its credit, Coach Moakley's boys haven't as many possible first places to speculate upon as the lads from New Haven.

Ross, of Yale, has proven himself to be the best college quarter-miler in the East and is a heavy favorite to win this race. Kisselhorst has been running the hundred in even time with great consistency and his 24-second low hurdle race against Princeton stamps him as a point winner in this event. Carr, of course, is sure of at least four points and possibly five in the pole vault.

Crile has been throwing the hammer far enough to score points for his team and Tuttle is expected to place in the 440. With things breaking right Yale might make 25 points.

Cornell has the chance to score about 20 points, with Anderson and Levy in the shot, Worden in the javelin, Benson in the two-mile, Anderson in the discus and Wright, in the hammer.

Southern California University may come through unexpectedly. The Trojans, of course, have some great stars and some pretty sure point winners, but there are not enough of them to prove a serious menace against Stanford.

It is almost impossible to dope out a great meet like this. Every college has several outstanding performers, anyone of whom may be right during this meet and come through for unexpected places. Such stars as Cox, of Penn State, in the distances, and Bates, of State, in the broad jump, Wibecan, of Pittsburgh, in the 220 yards; Welch, of Pittsburgh, in the discus, and Barbuti, of Syracuse, in the 440, are all possibilities.

GIRL SHATTERS RECORD FOR HIGH HURDLES

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., May 24.—(AP.)—Thelma Patton, Stanford University junior from Santa Ana, Cal., yesterday stepped the 65-yard high hurdles in 10 7-10 seconds, shattering the world record for women in that event by 3-10 of a second. The old mark of 11 seconds was set by Miss Mary Worrall of Sargent School, Cambridge.

It was explained that the 65-yard record is slower than the world's mark for the 70-yard hurdles, which is held by Miss Helen Filkey at 9 3-5 seconds, as girls, in official meets, seldom run other than the 60 or 70-yard distances.

Douglas Grant Loses

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 24.—(AP.)—Douglas Grant, sole surviving American in the British amateur golf championship, was eliminated today by A. R. MacCallum, young Scottish physician, of Wolverhampton, 2 up.

With the match hanging on the last hole, Grant's putt knocked MacCallum's ball which was sitting on the edge of the cup into the hole, giving the Scotchman a birdie and the match.

21. Payne's elapsed time was 556:06:07. Granville's elapsed time was 596:28:54 and McMurtry's 632:22:56.

John Salo of Passaic, N. J., holder of second place in the standing lost one hour 42 minutes, 32 seconds to Payne when he finished in eighteenth place in 9:52:02. Salo was handicapped by a chaffed foot and was unable to keep up the pace set by the leaders. Salo's elapsed time is 573:36:14, giving Payne a margin of 17:28:07 over the Passaic Finn.

The bunion derbyists will travel 37 miles today to Suffern, N. Y. Tomorrow brings them to Passaic and Saturday they will end the race with a 16-mile jaunt around the track in Madison Square Garden.

By finishing in 8:43:15 to take sixteenth place in the lap William Kerr of Minneapolis moved up a notch from seventh place to sixth.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

hardly be labeled "news," as it is doubtful if there is a fan along the main line of baseball who had not been expecting it for weeks.

That Hornsby would sooner or later supplant Slattery as manager was the guess of the great majority of fans as soon as it was announced shortly before the training season opened that Rogers had been traded to the Braves (probably over Slattery's head) for Catcher Frank Hogan and Outfielder Jimmy Welsh.

THE handwriting on the wall for Slattery was seen by the fans even then, and the final tip-off came when Slattery returned home from the Southern training camp for a conference with the officials of the Boston club. It has only been a question of time, as it was clear from the start that Hornsby would dominate the club and step into Slattery's shoes before the season was very old.

Jack Slattery.

IT was an impossible situation to have a manager like Slattery and a player like Hornsby on the same club. Hornsby supplanted Rickey in St. Louis, while the 1925 season was under way, but John McGraw gave him the gate before he could start anything like that in New York. The only real "kick" in the latest Boston story is that the club owners had to use much "persuasion to induce Hornsby to accept the management." Now you tell one.

Bucs Meet Cubs Today

they were trimmed by one run. The score of the last scrap was 4 to 3.

TIE IN NINTH

The irony of the defeat still stays with the Buccos. With Carmen Hill apparently in command of a delicate situation it looked like a Pirate victory in the ninth with two Reds gone by the wayside and the tying run on second base. All Hill had to do was get little Pid Purdy out of the way, but these tads are very troublesome in baseball these days.

Hill and Johnny Gooch worked carefully on Purdy but the wee outfielder finally smacked a hot single to center that scored Bill Zitzmann with the important run. George Kelly followed with another hit but with runners on third and second, Comorosky nailed Curt Walker's fly.

Adolfo Luque and Hill staged a great slab duel. In the first round Paul Waner smacked a long homer into the rightfield seats for the first Pirate run. The Reds tied it up in their half and then the two clever righthanders dug in and held the rival batters scoreless frame after frame right through the seventh round.

In the eighth Géoge Grantham and Glenn Wright took up the job of scoring what stood out as the winning run, Walker helping with a fumble of Grantham's smash. Paul Waner fumbled a hit in the home half and Allen's double scored the run that brought another deadlock. There was a big dispute about Allen's double. Comorosky just missed out on a spectacular catch, the Pirates contending that the drive was a foul.

Gooch doubled in the ninth with one out and Hill singled to the infield. Gooch took third and Bartell went in to run for Hill. Sprout Waner whacked a hit to center, scoring Bartell and the Pirates were ahead again. Then came the home half and with it a run that put another knot in the game.

One was out in the home half of the tenth when Dressen beat out an infield hit. Picinich also singled. Pipp flied out, but Hill could not get the ball over to Luque and a base on balls filled the sacks for Critz, who singled off Traynor's glove, sending home the winning run.

U. S. Shipping Will Enter New Era, Declares Dollar

By B. C. FORBES

AMERICAN shipping promises to enjoy a new lease of life. Ship owners feel greatly heartened by the encouraging attitude taken by Congress. The Jones merchant marine act, just passed, is hailed as the first constructive shipping legislation passed in the country in many years.

WHAT does this new law provide? Briefly:

It provides a revolving fund of $250,000,000 to be loaned for new ship construction, up to 75 per cent of cost, with interest at the lowest rate on government obligations at the time of the loan.

It gives increased compensation for carrying ocean mails, with rates dependent upon the speed—probably from $1.50 to $12 per nautical mile.

It provides for a Federal insurance fund to carry insurance risk above $5,000,000 on any one vessel.

The bill authorizes the sale of shipping board ships upon the affirmative vote of five members.

Provision is made for the replacement of government tonnage.

Government officials when traveling on official business must hereafter use American ships under American registry.

It reduces the original provision requiring 75 per cent of the crew to be American citizens to 50 per cent.

STANLEY DOLLAR, of the Dollar Line, which has become one of the most important in America, made these comments in course of a talk with him on his return from Europe:

"Great credit is due to President Coolidge for having consistently and persistently championed legislation designed to build up an American merchant marine. The majority of the men and women in Congress have also taken a constructive attitude.

"The passage of the Jones bill means that it is the desire of our lawmakers that the government should get out of the shipping business, just as several other governments recently have, and that business interests own, operate and develop our shipping.

"For years American ship owners received very little encouragement from any source whatsoever. The laws have not been favorable. Bankers have fought shy of lending money on ships. The public apparently has been indifferent about the fate of the American flag on the ocean.

"The results have been rather tragic from the national point of view. American shipping engaged in international trade has dwindled and dwindled. Important American shipping companies have sold ships and either gone out of business or reduced their operations. Not one ship for international trade has been built in the United States in years, with the consequence that our shipyards have shrunk to a point which is alarming those charged with looking after our national safety. And, of course, the terrible decline in our merchant marine is a matter of grave importance in connection with the efficiency our Navy could exercise should necessity arise.

"I HAVE not yet had opportunity to analyze the new law carefully and critically, but I am hopeful that it will make it possible for us and other American ship owners to carry out the desire of Congress for a revival of our merchant marine strength. If we find that we can make ends meet, we shall go ahead and do what we can towards providing America with the right kind of ships and the right kind of service.

"Do you know that 75 per cent of all the trans-Atlantic passenger business originates in the United States? That is, three of every four ocean travelers are Americans.

"The American people are loyal to America and if we can provide them with absolutely first-class ships, I believe that a very large part of this American travel can be won over to ships flying the American flag.

"Without including our own company, I make bold to say that American operators know how to run ships quite as well as any other nationals. Criticism to the contrary has been due mainly to the impossible handicaps we have been laboring under—the enormous handicap in the difference in cost of building ships here and abroad, the consequent difference in interest, insurance and other charges, the difference in treatment accorded shipping by our government as compared with foreign government, the difference in wages, and so forth.

"BUT I am hopeful that we will now enter a new era in American shipping."

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 24.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 6 points, but eased in early trading, October selling off to 20.73c, or about 5 to 8 points below yesterday's closing quotations on the active positions.

Some buying at the start on the relatively steady showing of Liverpool appeared to be outweighed by liquidation and selling for local or southwestern account, attributed to a favorable view of the weather outlook.

Private cables said continental buying and trade calling had absorbed local liquidation in Liverpool and that a further fair business in cotton cloths was pending for China, but offers for India were impossible.

Final liquidation of the May position sent the price about 12 points under July, but there was little business and trading in the current May contract ended at midday. July and later deliveries eased off under a comparatively small volume of offerings prompted by the outlook for fair weather over the greater part of the South. July declined to 20.65, making a net loss of about 10 points. Prices were within 3 or 4 points of the lowest at midday.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, May 24.—Temperatures of 100 in the spring wheat belt and no rain hoisted wheat values anew today. Crop comments from the Northwest were generally more pessimistic. Leading authorities said the Northwest had not received normal spring moisture, and that unless rains came soon damage would be inevitable.

SELLING FLURRY FAILS TO HALT STOCK RISE

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—Stock prices made further recovery in today's market. A flurry of selling swept through the market at mid-day, but offerings were well absorbed and the market resumed its rise under the leadership of the steel, sugar, copper, food and airplanes shares. Trading showed a moderate expansion in volume.

The day's news developments were largely favorable. Call money was still available in the "outside market" below the official rate of six per cent. Refined sugar prices were advanced 1-10 of a cent a pound and a firmer undertone was reported for copper prices. Directors of the Greene Cananea Copper Co. resumed payments at the annual rate of $4 after a lapse of eight years and dividends also were resumed on Nichols copper common.

Adams Express, which soared 17 points yesterday, made a similar gain today. Curtiss Aeroplane ran up nearly 11 points and Wright 7½, losing half of their gains in the noon selling movement, and then heading upward again. National Biscuit, International Harvester, Colorado Fuel, International Telephone and Collins & Aikman sold 4 to 6 points higher.

Gimbel Brothers again moved into new high ground on buying influenced by the election of Julius Rosenwald to the board of directors. Kelvinator responded to reports of heavy electric refrigerator sales by crossing 20 to a new 1928 high. Auto Sales also was under heavy accumulation, setting a new top at 15⅞.

Other issues to break into new high ground included Ludlum Steel, Central Alloy Steel, Consolidated Railways of Cuba, South Porto Rican Sugar and American Safety Razor.

General Motors and Montgomery-Ward each yielded 2 points on realizing, but rallied with the rest of the list.

The closing was strong. Studebaker responded to the purchase of individual blocks running from 5,000 to 15,000 shares by marching up to 81¾, highest since 1924. Concurrent strength also was shown by many other stocks which are easily moved. Radio sold 10 points above its early low. International nickel and Brooklyn Edison jumped five points and Pacific coast and Otis steel led the fast movers among the low priced issues. Total sales approximated 2,000,000 shares.

HARBISON SELLS AT NEW HIGH

Trading sentiment was more cheerful on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today reflecting the improvement noted in the New York market. Volume of business was slightly increased and the trend was upward, although movements were narrow.

There were signs of renewed interest in Carnegie Metals in the early trading, with some of the speculators pointing out the possibilities of a move in the stock as a result of the generally better market for metal and mining issues in New York. A small volume of Carnegie was scooped in on a dip to 22 yesterday afternoon, but there was an immediate recovery to 24, with today's early prices showing a gain over the latter figure.

Lone Star Gas was quiet on a few sales slightly above 51, and there was a moderate turnover in Arkansas Gas issues near yesterday's closing prices.

Harbison Walker jumped seven points to 212, a new high record. Armstrong Cork was firm and there were a few trades in the brewing issues around the top levels of the current movement.

The newly listed Central Ohio Steel Products sold up more than a point from yesterday's close with the Street hearing reports that the company will establish the shares on a $1.50 annual dividend basis in addition to which there will be extras from time to time. Earnings are said to warrant such a program as the showing for last year was equal to $3.90 on the common and the first third of 1928 is said to have resulted in profit equivalent to $5 for a full year.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Regular Market Schedule Monday.

The experiment of the four-hour market ends with tomorrow's session. Beginning Monday, the New York Stock Exchange, the curb and other markets which observed the 2 p. m. closing hour will operate for the customary five hours after a week of curtailed sessions. The experiment was successful in cutting down the week's turnover, but the confusion and practical ostracism of the western cities brought so many complaints that the exchange authorities decided to restore the old trading schedule. The exchanges will be closed Saturday to permit further relief of the congestion in brokers' offices. Although the official explanation of the return to the 3 p. m. closing was that the purpose of the abbreviated session, which was to relieve the unusual strain on the personnel of member firms occasioned by the extraordinary activity of the past few months had been achieved, the governors undoubtedly were influenced by the widespread protests of members whose business had suffered by the adoption of the four-hour session this week.

West Coast Suffered.

Pacific Coast members were reported to be almost unanimously opposed to the 2 p. m. closing, which, because of four hours difference in time, resulted in the stopping of the tickers there at 10 a. m. This, they contended, gave them only about an hour of the western business day in which to trade in eastern securities markets. Some of them stated they felt sufficiently penalized in being forced to start the day's work at 6 a. m., Pacific Coast time, when the stock tickers start grinding out the day's quotations. Eastern and middle western members based their complaints chiefly on the decrease in business, which has resulted in an aggregate loss of between $500,000 and $1,000,000 a day in commissions. Total stock sales this week were 2,782,100 shares on Monday, 3,124,000 shares on Tuesday and 2,881,400 shares yesterday, as compared with a daily range of between 3,784,700 and 4,867,400 shares in the full sessions of last week.

Certainteed Under Pressure.

Pressure against Certainteed Products was in evidence again today with the stock opening on a block of 10,000 shares at 41, off 1½ from yesterday's close. Directors of Certainteed Company are scheduled to meet for dividend action on June 6, and are likely at that time to discuss seriously the advisability of passing or cutting the present quarterly common dividend of $1. Present indications are that adverse action will be taken, but much will depend upon preliminary reports of business for April and May and the outlook for improvement in the next few months. Since the first of the year severe competition has been encountered in the sale of company's line of roofing materials. Also competition in the floor covering and other fields has continued. While there are signs of an improvement in the competitive situation, there will have to become much brighter to insure the permanence of the present dividend.

Sugar Stocks Strong.

Sugar stocks bulged up under the leadership of American Sugar, which got into new high ground since the dividend was passed early this year. Cubans, the beet sugars and South Porto Rico all followed the move in American Sugar. Consumption of the commodity is meeting expectations and the statistical position is reported considerably improved as compared with a few months ago. National, American, Franklin and Pennsylvania Sugar companies are at 6.10 cents per pound for refined sugar, effective tomorrow. This is an advance of 10 points.

Utility Combine Under Way.

The New York Times today says that negotiations are under way for absorption by the American Light and Traction Company of the United Light and Power Company, which would link properties valued at $375,000,000. Interest in the proposed combination, the Times will say, centers to a large extent on the influence of the Koppers Company, a Mellon interest, in promoting the merger. Officers and directors of the Koppers Company also are directors of the two other concerns. The plan calls for liquidation of the United Light and Power Company, and exchange of one share of American Light and Traction common for each 10 shares of United Light and Power class A common. United Light and Power has 1,981,146 shares of class A and 1,000,000 shares of class B stock. The B common has sole voting rights, but both classes share alike in dividends. United Light and Power also has more than 234,000 shares of class A and class B preferred stock and a funded debt outstanding of $55,200,000. American Light and Traction has 522,638 shares of $100 par common stock outstanding and $14,236,200 of 6 per cent preferred stock. There is no funded debt.

Harvard's Views on Business.

The Harvard economic bulletin says: "The outlook for the second half of 1928 is for continuance of the generally good business which has obtained during the first third of the year. The usual summer decline is in prospect of course, though the recent strength in commodity markets suggests that the seasonal curtailment of manufacturing output will be moderate. Later there may be political developments which will slow down the autumn expansion, although nothing definite can be known thus early in the year. But this influence, like the seasonal influence, operates at the present time on the side of business conservatism, fundamentally a healthy condition. The spring expansion of manufacturing output has been moderate, and commercial credits appear to be liquid. Already commercial borrowings are below the spring peak (mid-April). The speculative situation now shows some signs of tension, notably the considerable increase of brokers' loans at a time when gold has been flowing out and the reserve authorities have been taking steps to check the flow of funds into speculative channels. Temporary unsettlement of business opinion would no doubt accompany a period of stock market liquidation, but when such a period of hesitation or readjustment would prove relatively brief, especially if business had continued conservatively in the interim."

Talking Kennecott Dividend Raise.

Reports are going the rounds that Kennecott Copper Company will shortly increase the dividend rate from $5 to $6 per annum. This step is said to be predicated on improved earnings resulting from the firmer copper market. Every advance of 1 cent a pound in price of copper means between $1 and $1.50 per share more on the company's outstanding stock. So far this year prices are more than a cent above the average obtained last year when Kennecott earned $7.63 a share on the capital stock.

British Gold Under Test.

The gold standard in Great Britain is now getting the greatest test since it was re-established three years ago. For the first time the New York and London Central bank rates are at a parity. The international policy for the last three years has been to keep the London rate higher, in order to discourage gold exports from the British capital. The disparity has been temporarily ended, because the Federal Reserve Bank of New York felt impelled to make all other considerations secondary to attempting to check the rapid flow of domestic bank credit into speculative channels.

Sees Rising Copper Price.

Steady accumulation of good character is continuing in standard copper issues. In connection with the buying of these stocks, Hornblower & Weeks point out that the price of the metal is exactly 2 cents higher than at this time last year, and 1½ cents above the 1927 average. "Copper metal is still substantially below the prewar level, so that further price increases are not only logical but inevitable," this firm says. "Meanwhile, the 2-cent advance in metal price means an increase in earnings of from 50 per cent to 80 per cent in earnings per share of the leading copper stocks, and furnishes abundant explanation for the manner in which coppers have resisted selling on the recent stock market reaction. We look for steady improvement marketwise in Anaconda, Chile, Kennecott, Green-Cananea, Inspiration, Cerro de Pasco, Calumet and Arizona and Shattuck Denn."

Equipment Business Lags.

The equipment issues, American Locomotive, Baldwin, American Car and Foundry, and Lima, have done nothing in all the bull market since the first of the year. Baldwin is off 35 points from its high of the year, American Car and Foundry 8, Lima 8 and American Locomotive 14. And there is a good reason for the failure of these stocks to advance with the rest of the list—new business looked for earlier in the year has not materialized. The equipment business has been poor for more than two years and unless orders pick up soon companies making cars and locomotives are going to have another bad year. Wall Street wonders over the ability of the railroads to maintain such a high degree of efficiency on record small orders for equipment. Indication are that freight car orders in the current month will be materially under the total of 5,783 cars placed in April. Thus far this month approximately 1,500 cars have been place and inquiries actively pending involve only 2,400 cars. About 400 coaches are under inquiry, including 300 refrigerator express cars for the Pennsylvania.

Accounts Well Margined.

Considering the extent of the sharp decline there were but few margin calls sent out by the leading commission houses. This was due to the fact that the lowering of prices for many stocks accepted by banks in loans caused more stringent marginal requirements from customers of commission houses, so that accounts were in fairly good shape to withstand the reactionary trend. Only in cases when some of the highly speculative issues were carried was it necessary to send out calls for additional funds and these were comparatively few.

COKE OUTPUT DECLINES

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 24.—The Courier says: The downward trend in coke production, which started a fortnight ago, continued last week and at such a rate, particularly at furnace oven plants, as to resemble the change that was in progress at this time a year ago. From 800 tons, which was the amount of the cut two weeks earlier, the decrease assumed the proportions of 4,300 tons last week, causing the regional total to drop to 53,780 tons. This was almost the identical mark reached in the week ended February 11, since which there has been a climb to 72,500 tons at the beginning of April, followed by the steady drop to last week's level.

The estimated production of coke during the week ended Saturday, May 19, was 53,780 tons, divided between the two districts as follows: Connellsville, 24,380, a decrease of 3,560 tons; Lower Connellsville, 29,400, a decrease of 740 tons, or a total decrease of 4,300 tons, as compared with a total gain of 800 tons during the preceding week.

The market remains quotable as follows:

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Influenced by a better demand for refined sugar, refiners entered the raw sugar market more aggressively today and prices advanced 1-16c for duty frees to 4.46c, with Cuba's selling at the former price of 4.52c. Sales reported included 90,000 bags of Porto Rican and 28,000 bags of Philippines to nearby position at 4.46c and 60,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment at 4.52, all to local refiners. An operator bought 50,000 bags of Cuban for June shipment at 4.52c.

Influenced by the firmness of the spot market raw sugar futures were steadier, but trading was not active. The market opened unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and trade buying advanced another point, but net increased liquidation and hedge selling. Reactions left noon prices net unchanged to 1 point higher.

In refined a better demand was reported. Several refiners announced that at the opening tomorrow they would advance prices 10 points to the basis of 6.10 for fine granulated. Prices today range from 5.95@6.00c.

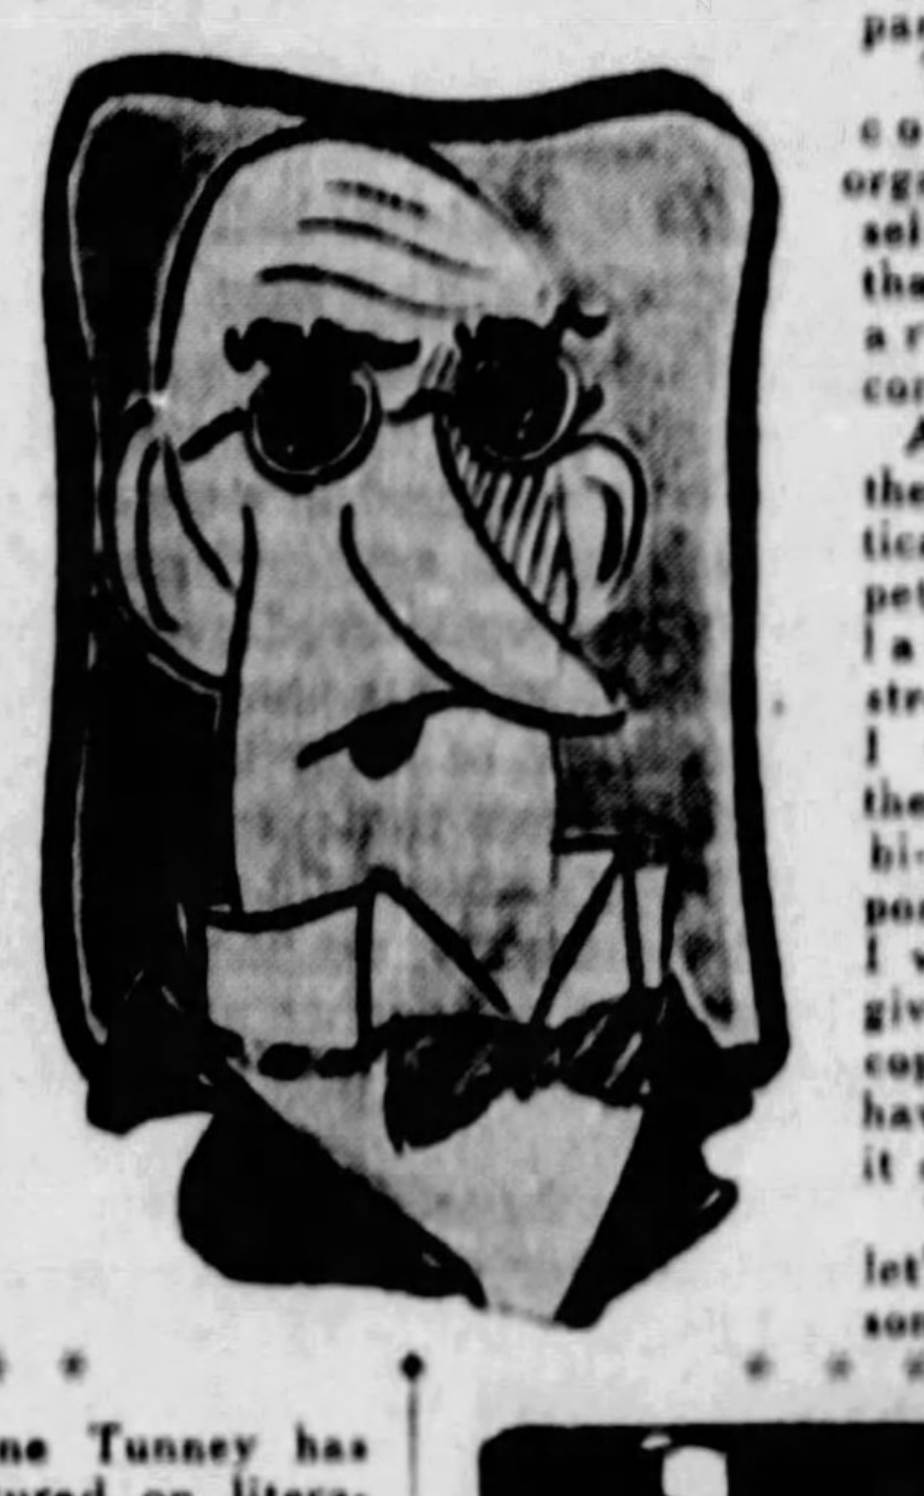
Free Financial Advice for the Needy Masses

I WANT my public to know me as Uncle Dashleigh. I have no selfish motive and no secret alliances — I can give, give, give advice until it hurts.

Several attractive widows have asked me what to do with their money—and I have gone out of my way to make suggestions to them.

And the kiddies! I love children—so if your youngster wants to know what to do with his pennies, have him just ask Uncle Dashleigh.

This is our Mr. Dashleigh Gagoohus, who for 68 years was financial adviser to the crowned heads of Europe. He will write daily stock market advice for our poor subscribers.



Today I am urging all my readers to invest in Acme Lace Curtain Stretcher Company stock.

This is a corporation I organized myself, so I know that its affairs are honestly conducted.

As you know, there is practically no competition in the lace curtain stretcher field. I wish I had the company's bi-annual report for 1900. I would gladly give you my copy, but I have misplaced it somehow.

Tomorrow—let's talk about something else.

Town Hall and Airport Included In Bond List

After hearing representatives of various communities requesting improvements to be listed in the bond issue to be voted on in June, the County Commissioners now have decided upon projects running into estimated costs of millions, including $6,000,000 for the town hall project and $2,500,000 for an airport. We believe they have acted wisely.

The spokesman for the town hall committee reminded the Commissioners that the public needed a town hall of the kind that men who have been engaged in a survey and study of the matter for years have come to agreement upon. They are public-spirited men who have considered every angle. They have made exhaustive research and the recommendations they make flow out of the experiences of many cities.

We should like to have that great armory, which Commissioner McGovern suggests would answer the purpose of a town hall, but plainly speaking, we do not think it would serve as an adequate substitute. What we need and desire is a town hall, one representing the ideals and individuality of the community.

The Commissioners have done well to heed the recommendation of the Chamber of Commerce committee that the town hall proposal be included in the bond issue. It would be unfortunate were it involved with any other consideration at this time.

The airport, too, is a matter of utmost importance. While aviation progresses marvelously, Pittsburgh lags in the means of taking advantage of the new method of transportation.

College Sanity

A few years ago the collegiate mind of America seemed engrossed in foreign relations—League of Nations, World Court, cancellation of foreign debts, China, Central America.

Last year the University of Virginia did a good thing. It opened a summer forum to discuss home problems. The policy will be repeated this year.

A cheerful sign of returning sanity. The relations of greatest concern to the American people are bread and butter relations here at home. They well deserve trained thought.

"High Society"

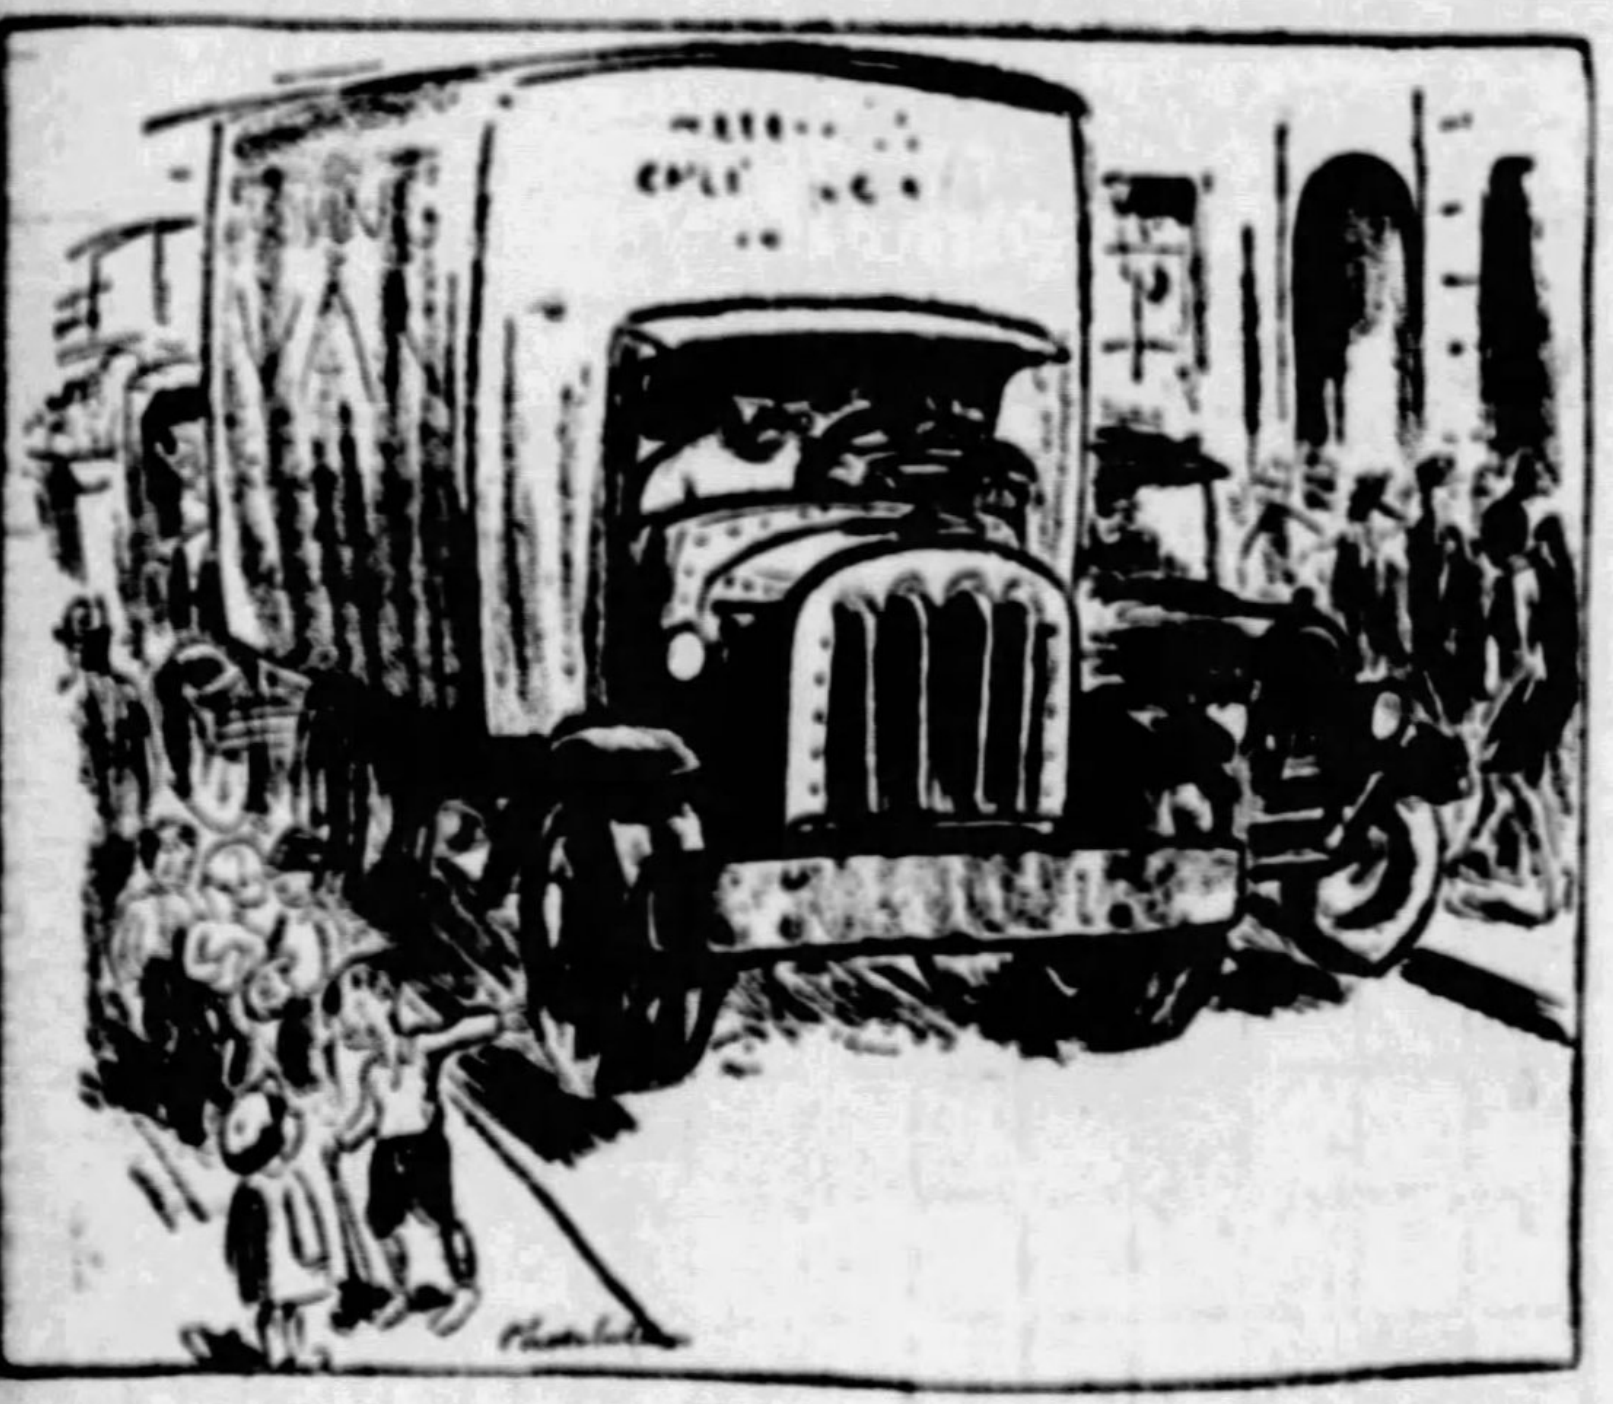
In Foreign Lands

Congressman Savage, from Illinois, says our Ambassadors at foreign courts should not have to waste time looking after "social climbers." Mr. Savage would tell the Ambassadors "our foreign service is not maintained to serve title worshippers," etc.

It is largely maintained, however, to give title worshippers and "social climbers" jobs in "high society." That's what they PAY for, when they contribute to national campaigns. Forty thousand dollars was a fair price twenty years ago.

See the Little Children

How Nicely the Richest Cares for Them



"If ya wanta play baseball wit' us, ya gotta go out in th' field."

Charles Dana Gibson, whose pictures in Cosmopolitan Magazine accurately reflect our "civilization," is the owner of the weekly LIFE, and this picture from LIFE portrays the life of New York children.

This is "baseball field" in many American cities, THE REGULAR PLAYGROUND OF THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN, and it shows what kind of a civilization ours is.

We live in a CHRISTIAN age. The Founder of Christianity said:

"Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not; for of such is the Kingdom of God."

That was said with love for children. It did not mean that little children should enter the Kingdom of Heaven by way of the cobblestones and the wheels of a truck.

But that is exactly how a certain prosperous kind of Christianity interprets that Divine command.

"Children should not be allowed to play in the streets," is the answer this picture will bring from many who see it.

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.
5. Election of Congress in November. Installation on the 1st of January following. Inauguration of the President 1st of January next after November election.
6. Federal regulation of the oil industry to conserve a vital natural resource.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

A Fish Eden

BETWEEN Massachusetts and Nova Scotia, and stretching from the shores of Maine oceanward to Georges Bank, where the sea bottom pitches down two or three thousand feet, lies a great bowl of relatively cold water, separated by a rim of shallows from the warm water at the inner edge of the Gulf Stream. This bowl, called the Gulf of Maine, is about 250 miles long and 150 broad, and has a maximum depth below sea level of some 800 feet. Between Georges Bank and Brown Bank, nearer Nova Scotia, there is a narrow trench in the bottom running out to sea, where, on issuing, the depth breaks down almost at once, to more than 1,600 feet, and then rapidly to 5,000 and more.

There is, of course, an unbroken water-level surface between this curiously enclosed gulf and the sea outside its invisible rim. The line of the rim is determined by Nantucket Shoals, Georges Bank and Brown Bank. Inside that rim lie the "cool green waters of the Gulf of Maine," bordering it on the seaward side is "the warm sapphire-blue Gulf Stream."

It is with these picturesque terms that Dr. Henry B. Bigelow describes the appearance of the Gulf of Maine in the Geographical Review. As he says, the Gulf of Maine is a sort of backwater from the Atlantic. "Here the cod, haddock, pollock, herring, and all the other fish that make up the 400-odd million pounds of sea food it yields to man every year, play their roles, inured to seasonal fluctuations but seldom suffering any fatal variation in temperature." And it "may well be named a 'promised land' for its inhabitants; it is equable in climate and moderate in salinity; its deeps are constant from season to season, and it is well supplied with food, whether animate or dissolved."

On the northeast the Gulf of Maine connects with the Bay of Fundy, and has no issue there, so that its only connection with the Atlantic is along its southern rim. The question is, how does it obtain its relatively low temperature? Hitherto it has been supposed that this was derived directly from an Arctic current flowing along the American coast. But recent exploration has shown that, although the gulf does receive cold water from a more northern source pouring into it across the "rim" every spring, yet the chief cause of its low temperature is found in local influences.

By a seeming paradox, it is the rapid absorption of heat from spring to summer by solar warming that causes the continuance of low temperatures in the deep strata of the gulf throughout the summer. "Sea water is so comparatively opaque to solar radiation of the wavelengths that carry most of the sun's energy that the direct effect of the latter is expended close to the surface. As the surface warms with little change in the deeper strata, the water column tends to become increasingly stable vertically. Unless this process be effectively combatted by strong tidal stirring, the underlying water becomes blanketed against thermal influences from above, and the cold of the preceding winter is preserved into autumn."

• • •

But where there is a powerful "tidal churning" as in the Bay of Fundy and in Passamaquoddy Bay, the temperatures of the deep and the surface waters are mixed, and the surface becomes relatively cooler. There the sun's heat is spread through the whole upper 50 meters of water instead of being absorbed by the upper 10 to 20 meters. The effect of these local differences upon the inhabitants of different portions of the bowl constitutes one of the most important features of the study of the Gulf of Maine now being prosecuted by the United States Fisheries Bureau and the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Cambridge.

Oil, Oil, Oil

RESEARCHES in geophysics at Princeton University may revolutionize the work of locating oil deposits.

It may be possible to say just where and how big the oil deposits are. In that case, Uncle Sam will know just how much oil he has. And if he is wise, he will prevent squandering it, as it is wasted and squandered now.

The British conserve their oil by putting a high tax on the consumers. Gasoline used to sell in this country for less than the present British gasoline tax. That would not be popular here, with our 24,000,000 automobiles.

Once Overs

Poise Essential

BECAUSE you have an appointment for a social engagement in the evening, does it color your work all day?

Are you constantly thinking what you will wear, what you will say, who will be there and other distracting thoughts?

With all this suppressed excitement buzzing in your head, you stumble through your work, making endless mistakes.

Someone has to correct these mistakes, and you are quite put out and your boss is tired of your inefficiency and calls you down for it.

Why is it that you cannot keep your mental balance when you have to work on your daily job and keep a social engagement the same day?

You need to cultivate poise.

You must lack experience or your social life has been limited.

Train yourself to keep your job and your pleasures in the proper plane, each where it belongs in order of importance.

Learn to sift things into two classes, the major importance and the minor concern in your life, and act accordingly.

Mountain Weavers

THEY bend above their whirring looms
Through drab-hued day on day.
Within their cramped and squalid rooms,
Yet far afield they stray.

Scant time have they for song or rose
In that bleak country-side,
While all life's stirring pageant goes
Unguessed, to them denied.

But there, before their loom, they reign
Within a mimic sphere,
Weaving in rug and counterpane
Their fancies quaint and queer,

With "Sun, Moon, Stars," and "Lovers' Knot,"
"Whig Rose" and "Chariot Wheels,"
The mountain weavers' lonely lot
A hidden charm reveals.

Tales that are Told

Mysterious

HAROLD was home for the holidays, and his father had just received the term's report from the school.

The boy eagerly watched while his father scanned the covering letter from the headmaster. He was horrified to see him frown heavily, but worse was to follow.

"Conduct, bad," announced the angry man; "arithmetic, bad;; reading, bad; composition, history, drawing—all bad. What is the meaning of this, Harold?"

Harold thought hard.

"I can't understand it, dad," he ventured at last. "Do you think it might be a forgery?"—English Exchange.

Endless

EXCAVATION work was going on in a busy thoroughfare when one of the workmen slipped and fell into a very deep hole.

Fortunately, he was uninjured, and his comrades, gathering round the top of the hole, lowered him a stout rope. But the pit was deeper than they estimated, and the rope fell some three feet above the man's head.

"Jump and catch hold of the end, Pat!" cried the foreman, leaning over the edge of the hole.

"But how can I?" returned the son of Erin. "For there isn't an end. To be sure, some spalpeen's cut it off."—London Answers.

Solving the Problem

THEY were both in evening-dress, and both trying to find a taxi, when they collided with each other.

"Good heavens—you!" gasped the first.

"And you, too!" exclaimed the second. "Whither bound—eh?"

"Gladys is giving a party," replied the other, shifting a large bottle of furniture polish from one hand to the other.

"Oh! What's the furniture polish for, then?"

"Well, you see," returned his friend, "she insisted on my bringing something for use on the table."—London Answers.

Well Met

THE plumber reached up and rang the bell. The door was opened by a trim young maid. Inside the hall stood the master and mistress of the house.

"Are you the plumber?" asked the dignified-looking old gentleman, who was very methodical in all he did.

"Yes, sir."

"Very well, then, allow me to acquaint you with the cause of all the trouble before we go any further."

The plumber turned to the mistress of the house and extended a grimy hand.

"Pleased to meet you, ma'am," he said cordially.

Another Breed

BRANDON was almost broken-hearted about his heavy losses on the stock exchange, but he found there was plenty of sympathy for him at the club.

One member was particularly kind.

"Cheer up, old chap!" he cried. "You mustn't worry too much about a little bad luck. Come along to my office in the morning and I'll give you a few pointers."

Brandon, however, was not easily cheered.

"Very kind of you," he began. "But it isn't pointers I'm after, it's retrievers."

Doing His Best

A SMALL boy was discovered one day on the hearthrug, apparently in a fit. But a glance at his eager face revealed that his twistings and turnings were purposeful.

"What are you trying to do?" asked his father.

"To be like Robinson Crusoe, dad," was the reply. "You see, it says in my book that when he had finished his day's work he sat on his chest."

THOUGHTS OF THE GREAT—

The wisdom of the wise and the experience of the ages may be preserved by the quotation.—Isaac Disraeli.

The modern majesty consists in work. What a man can do is his greatest ornament, and he always consults his dignity by doing it.

—Carlyle.

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 24.—Traffic experts agree the only solution of Manhattan's congestion is in elevated streets. The problem now is how, when and where they will be placed. It is conceded relief must come within the next two years or the main arteries will become hopelessly clogged.

As it is, midtown frequently becomes so snarled in traffic knots that automobile passengers leave their cars with chauffeurs and walk to public transit conveyances to continue their way. The heaviest point of traffic reaches its tide at Columbus Circle at 5:30 in the evening.

West street, near the docks, is the only thoroughfare to have an upper stretch of street level. It has proved effective. The big jolt of raised streets will fall upon owners of real estate along the line of proposed elevation. Their property, it is said, will depreciate more than half.

Those who thought the famed Holland Tunnel to New Jersey would provide a noticeable relief in traffic found it did not make the slightest dent. Thousands of suburbanites never bring their autos into the city. They ride to the outskirts and transfer to subway, elevated or surface cars.

Peculiarly enough, traffic hindrances have not discouraged automobile buying among cliff dwellers, and this year sales reached a new high peak. And with New York's usual impetuosity for overdoing things, the heaviest sales were among those block-long cars where the drivers sit out in the rain.

Every feasible suggestion has been tried for relief of traffic to theaters, and still the press is impossible to handle. It is a common sight to see men and women in evening clothes who have left their cars outside the traffic zone, walking to the theater in order not to miss the first act.

New York never had such a season of theatrical hits as the last, and yet a slump in patronage was pronounced, due solely to the fact that many had to wait in the wind, snow and rain often for an hour before their autos could reach them. Traffic is New York's greatest problem.

A freak show on the lower East Side has a "Hairless Wonder." He has no eyebrows, hair on his head, beard, mustache or hirsute adornment of any description. But he is not a natural freak. He was a Pittsburgh mill worker up until four years ago, when he stopped in at a night lunch stand for a hot tamale. It was full of ptomaine poisons so powerful they killed all the roots of his hair.

Among the gambling fraternity of Broadway, it is said, there are innumerable laudanum drinkers. It is a drug habit reputed to be the most difficult of all to detect and inspires a mental alertness without the visible exhilaration so pronounced in other drugs. Nor is there the pallor so noticeable among morphine and cocaine addicts.

No romance is so fleeting as those contracted aboard ships. The mystery of the sea, the moon, the stars and the adventurous tang of a voyage stir the most unromantic pulses. There is the story of a young couple who arrived at a New York pier last week pledged to undying devotion. The next morning he called her on the telephone early with feverish expectation.

"I'll be around in a few moments," he ga-gaed, "to go with you for a license."

"Don't be silly," was the yawning reply. "No ocean is making a fool of me this season." And she hung up in his ear.

Some elegant word mixer should describe New York in a fog with its old silhouettes and arabesques. The metropolis is never more beautiful than when drenched with the mist that seeps up from the harbor.

And some aesthetic soul in Brooklyn writes to know if I have ever stood bare-headed on Brooklyn Bridge at daybreak and read from "The Ancient Mariner." I haven't. And I believe I'd have to be a little drunk to put my heart in it.

Real Teaching

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Food is no good unless there is a hunger for it. Water is not relished unless you are thirsty.

And the corollary of these facts is that teaching does not do much good unless there is first a desire to be taught.

That is a successful teacher, therefore, who arouses in his pupils a desire for learning. The teacher is not some one in charge of the knowledge supply whose sole business it is to ladle out information to inquiring minds. His business is to create an appetite. When a boy or girl wants to learn he can be said to have the rudiments of culture. Not until then.

The Metropolitan High School of Los Angeles probably is doing real teaching. It finds the boys and girls who have not the opportunity for regular schooling and supplies them with that training they need.

There is a law in the state of California that every child of a certain age must attend school at least 4 hours a week. This is not much, but it is some. It provides that the young shall not be left wholly without training. The Board of Education of Los Angeles complies with this law by using the Metropolitan High School on Venice boulevard, whose business it is to take care of these part-time students.

How well it does this is shown by the figures that it has an average of 5,800 students morning and afternoon.

In many instances the children are taken out of school because their parents are financially unable to dispense with their services. By means of this school children are enabled to work in some gainful occupation and, at the same time, pursue their education, learning to be more efficient in their calling as well as acquiring useful knowledge.

Think of what it means to a community to have an organized band of interested men and women to whom a youth can turn should he desire employment, instead of being forced to hawk his abilities from door to door in the long and grueling process of finding something to do!

The education of youth is so important a matter that every one should not be confined entirely to the school room, but employers should co-operate with the school teachers.

More and more the idea is growing that the first essential of a good education is to enable a person to stand squarely upon his own feet and to be beholden to nobody. The first requisite of an American citizen is work, not any form of charity, and this school teaches the youth how to find work.

It is engaged in the tremendous business of putting round pegs in round holes and not in square holes.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

ACTRESSES are going to Chicago for their divorces. And have been for some years. They only have to prove that the cruelty, which entitles them to a divorce, was perpetrated in that city.

You know how difficult it would be to make anybody believe that something cruel happened in Chicago.

"Dutch Dates," with the girls at Northwestern University paying their own way when they went out with the college men, proved a fizzle. The girls wouldn't go.

Will the fellow who said "It's the women who pay and pay" please take note.

A lady in Cincinnati asks for a divorce because her husband would rather listen to the radio than to her.

Radios never say unpleasant things and when they do they are about other people. They can shut up a radio with the turn of a button and there is no aftermath because they did.

If a man got as much entertainment out of a wife as he gets out of a radio he would listen to her.

Radios are the stiffest competition wives have had.

This particular fan from Cincinnati has lost two wives the same way. There is the germ of an idea in this. You're welcome.

Women asking for divorce soon will have to show cause why they can't support themselves, and if they are rich they will be asked to contribute to the less fortunate husband. Gov. Paulen, of Kansas, is the pioneer in the movement to abolish alimony as a luxury for women.

Recently an Eastern woman worth $5,000,000, married 15 years and with three children, divorced her husband who earned $50 a week when she married him. She not only gave him nothing; she asked him to pay back all she had given him to try to establish himself in a business—

The man is sunk and she knows it.

According to the United States Department of Commerce, the men earn most of the money, but the women spend $32,000,000,000, or four-fifths of all money passing over retail counters in the country.

Four-fifths is some women's idea of a fifty-fifty break.

Dr. Charles Mayo says that insanity has doubled in the United States in the past 30 years.

More than likely because the men are trying to think up new ways to get that $32,000,000,000.

They call Chicago a wicked city. But out there the men shoot the men. In the East the crime consists chiefly of the men shooting the women. One day there were seven and the next the papers chronicled a few more. What's all the shooting about? In Chicago it seems to be business and in the East love. The women like the East better. They are willing to take their chances.

Percy Grainger, the pianist, is going to Iceland on his honeymoon. His bride loves the idea.

Wonder what fur?
